Weary Solons Leave Legacy: Tax Hike in '65

SACRAMENTO (UPI) -The legislature Saturday adjourned its tedjous 1964 session with a few firecrackers, a bit of confetti and general agreement that there must be a tax increase in 1965.

The Senate adjourned at 1:05 p.m., the Assembly 25 minutes later. Both had convened at noon Feb. 3, making this the secondlongest session in history. The longest was 1947's.

BEFORE leaving, assemblymen received Gov. Brown's personal thanks for a "job well done."

Brown, who did not appear before the Senate. added he hoped the legislators would vote next year to increase their salaries.

After completing their major business Friday, approving a $3.65-billion budget and a Long Beach tidelands oil compromise, the lawmakers Saturday passed, among other things, a November ballot proposal that will ask voters for a $260-million band issue to continue financing state construction loans to school districts.

Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh, D-Inglewood, headed legislative leaders who agreed that the lawmakers will be raising taxes next year.

WASHINGTON (UPI)--Nearly $1 million worth of plutonium lost in a satellite failure last month apparently was vaporized on re-entry into the atmosphere and poses 'no health hazard to the world's population," the Atomic Energy Commission said Saturday night.

An AEC spokesman said scientists "are able to conclude" that the plutonium was dispersed in very fine particles at the edge of space where it will remain while gradually losing its radioactivity.

About 2.2 pounds of plutonium 238, costing approxi mately $450,000 per pound, was lost off the west coast of Africa when the satellite carrying it failed to go into orbit. One Defense Department source said "human error" apparently caused the malfunctions, but the AEC had no

The plutonium was fuel for a SNAP-9A generator designed to provide power for the Navy navigational satellite launched from Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif.

THE DEFENSE Department and the AEC did not identify the satellite further, but apparently it was one in the Navy's "Transit" series, launched about April 21.

At least two similar plutonium-powered SNAP (Systems for Nuclear Auxiliary Power) generators are in orbit in other satellites.

Military officials generally do not identify satellites launched from the California base. The AEC issued a brief statement May 11 about the failure of this satellite when queried by the Atomic Industrial Forum Inc. of New York, an association devoted to fostering development of atomic energy for peaceful purposes.

The forum noted that an "elaborate interagency review system" has been designed to assure that the possibility of failure in such launchings is taken into account

"together with all technical and political implications." "Presumably, the launching was specifically approved by the President, as all earlier ones have been," it said.

SAN FRANCISCO (A)-Six Samoans presenting a fire dance at a church party died Saturday night in a blaze apparently touched off by their flaming torches. More than 60 spectators were injured.

Panic spread among 200 present at the performance given by the Samoan Benevolent Catholic Society. Flames spread up a curtain near a stage in the parish hall adjoining All Hallow's Church in the Bayview district.

EYEWITNESSES said speciators fought to get out of the building as flames spread across rafters.

At least 60 were taken to one hospital and an undetermined number to three other hospitals.

The fire apparently broke out as a dancer tried to light a sword wrapped in cotton and doused in gas-oline for the traditional fire dance.

A SPECTATOR said there was an explosion as the dancer tried to light the sword, and instantly the "whole building was ablaze.

Firemen said a stage curtain near the dancer blazed up and a man attempted to put out the flames with a hand fire extinguisher.

Witnesses said the blaze seemed to follow the extinguisher stream up the curtain and fanned out over the crowd.

Do We Want Control by Left Extremists?

State Controller Alan Cranston has been endorsed for Senate nomination by the California Democratic Council and the Young Democrats. He has sought and accepted their endorsements and presumably stands on their ultra-liberal platforms which include, in the case of the Young Democrats, the admission of Red China to the United Nations.

L.a.C. Says: GOP Senatorial Candidates Overlooked

The bitter fight between the Rockefeller and Goldwater forces has obscured the contest for the Republican senatorial nomination. The political feud between the Unruh-Salinger, Brown-Cranston forces has had the spotlight. The Republican candidates for the party senatorial nomination have had little publicity -because they have not been slinging mud at each

It is time that Republicans take an interest in these candidates. The one nominated will oppose either Salinger or Cranston in the November final election. The GOP candidates are George Murphy, Leland Kaiser and Fred Hall. The record of George Murphy is one of 20 years of dedicated service to the Republican Party in California. He was one of the most successful stars in motion pictures—then an outstanding success as a businessman in motion picture and television production. His moderate conservatism has been a force in the party during years when, through his and other conservative efforts, the Communists were driven out of key positions in Hollywood.

Leland Kaiser is a respected and successful financier and businessman who has devoted much of his time to GOP party activities, Fred Hall is-in my opinion-a newcomer-opportunist who does not deserve support. Murphy does deserve support because he has demonstrated his allegiance to the principles of the Republican Party over many years. And he will be the most effective speaker and opponent of the Democratic candidate when the two fight out the fivemonth campaign ending with the November election.

Murphy has been making some good impressions before several Republican meetings a day. But there has been little publicity because his common sense, conservative speeches have been overshadowed by the charges of corruption against each other by Salinger and Cranston, But, in the final campaign, Murphy will be a formidable opponent. And he will not only have the Republican vote but also a large conservative Democratic vote in the state.

He would be effective in opposing Cranston because of Cranston's ultra-liberal CDC connections. He would be equally effective in challenging the Unruhbacked Salinger candidacy. He will have the statement of Robert Kennedy as an effective weapon against Salinger. Kennedy, who was viewed as a candidate for the Senate in New York state, said this week: "All things being equal it would be better for a citizen of New York to run for the position," The same remark could well apply to Salinger who was a citizen and registered voter in Virginia when he entered the California race.

The bitterness between the Rockefeller and Goldwater forces caused the voters to turn to Lodge in several states. The power fight between Pat Brown and Jesse Unruh forces will cause a large portion of voters to turn against the Brown-Cranston and Unruh-Salinger candidates. This can mean a big swing behind Murphy when the June 2 primary is decided and the campaign for the November election starts. Murphy is deserving of support and capable of carrying on the kind of campaign that can bring a victory to the Republican Party in California. The senator to replace the ailing Sen. Engle will be of vital importance to California. It is time for Republicans to support a candidate who has a good chance of winning. In my opinion, George Murphy is such a can-

Jim Garner Steals Golfing Scene

Now, I don't know anything about goll--but I DO know when a fella's in good form.

I guess that's why the paper gave me a pair of binoculars (also a supply of tranquilizers) and sent me off to cover the World Entertainment Golf Championship at Recreation Park.

During the first reel of the two-day golf extravaganza, 130-some luminaries from the tinsel world of movies and TV hit-and-hunted golf balls for the enjoyment of their ambulatory audiences.

I think their golf must have been pretty good. At least, I didn't see a single one miss the ball or lose his toupce.

SOME WERE in especially good form.

Take James Garner (and what gal wouldn't). This tall-dark-and-handsome of Mayerick and movie fame seems to be top box office on the golf course as well as at the movie houses.

He was sporting blond streaks in his black hair—and, of course, any inquiring reporter has to find out about a thing like that. After all, it may he the next male fad graphs (he should have had a handicap for writer's gramp), Garner finally explained: "They had to bleach to make the streaks look gray on the screen."

GARNER'S tipped hair was just one of many Hollywood touches. In fact, it's a "Mad, Mad, Mad, Mad World" in technicolor when the movie colony takes over a golf course.

One movie-struck male was wearing a flip (hairstyle, of course) . . . there was a lady with a crew cut . . . hut a couple of Yul Brenner types had the most real-gone hairdos of all.

Distinguished mustachioed gents sported kookie hats . . . Mickey Ronney was sprouting a fuzzy . . John Agar was wearing blue pants, aqua sweat shirt and red shoes ... one bearded character looked like he'd just arrived by covered wagon.

The day's champ, Bob Wilke, husky badman of "Wagon Train," pampers his golf clubs with mink coats, designed by another player in the golf show. Abe Lipsy, who supplies movie sirens with furs to drag across the screen. (He-just did a floor length chinchilla for Cyd Charisse.)

And there were some pretty good lines if you happened to be on hand to hear. Like when TV showman Red Rowe, signing an autograph for small-fry spectator Billy Deeble of 3420 Marna, looked at the boy's braces and quipped:

You've got so much bridgework there that if a girl kissed you, she'd have to pay a toll."

Now who would expect one of those flying windmills to drop out of the blue and onto the green? Well, one did.

Before anyone could holler "fore," a two-piece bubble-dome whirlybird (taxied by Cable Flying Service at $95 an hour) set down on the driving range and whisked away Mr. Hardin. . . .

He was due in Covina at 4:30 to emcee a political rally for Barry Goldwater!

Between golf, Goldwater and helicopter hops, the former "Bronco" star says he's dickering with studios on a new TV series.

And talk about unlikelies: who would expect to be hit with a baseball on a golf course? Well, I was—on the ankle. That little surprise ending was furnished by producer Al Bubis (latest picture 'The Devil's Hand' with Linda Christian), who was playing a round of catch with a local youngster.

So now, I'm off to soak my feet (and ankle) so I can be on hand to see what movie surprises the stars furnish in today's show.

LEXINGTON, Va. (49)-President Johnson, joining former President Dwight D. Eisenhower in honoring the memory of Gen. George C. Marshall, called Saturday for new efforts to forge closer ties with Communist-controlled Eastern Europe.

Johnson and Eisenhower shared a sun-bathed platform at Virginia Military Institute to dedicate the $600,000 Marshall Research Library.

The white stone building houses the papers and mementoes of Marshall, the VMI grad who was Army chief of staff in World War II and both secretary of State and secretary of Defense in the postwar years.

Johnson keyed his address before an audience of 10,000 to Marshall's original proposal that the "Marshall Plan" of the Iron Curtain-an idea rejected by the Communists for the reconstruction of Europe be applied to both sides The chief executive said the United States works to carry on Marshall's vision of a single European civilization

Eisenhower who served under Marshall as Allied com-mander in Europe during the war, said the Marshall papers collected here "will tell future generations what those of us who were privileged to serve with him have long known—here was truly a great man."

Dassault Kidnaping 'Political'

PARIS (A)-A series of telephone calls Saturday night Indicated the kidnapers of Mrs. Marcel Dassault had political motives or that focs of President Charles de Gaulle were trying to exploit the kidnaping for political purposes.

Police threw all their resources into a hunt for the three men-two gunmen and a driver-who carried out the predawn abduction of Mrs. Dessault, 63, the wife of a millionaire French warplane builder.

Anonymous callers contacted two Paris evening papers and the French Press Agency, in each case purporting to speak for the kidnapers.

In the first case, the caller told Le Monde the kidnapers wanted a ransom of 10 million fancs ($2 million). Then France-Soir was notified that Mrs. Dassault would be freed in 70 hours if ex-Gen. Raoul Salan were released. Salan is serving a life term for leading the anti-Gaullist terrorist Secret Army Organization in Algeria.

There was no way of telling if the callers had any real connection with the kidnap gang.

Goldwater Says Nixon Chief Rival

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Sen, Barry Goldwater said Saturday he thinks former Vice President Richard M. Nixon will be the "final hurdle" in his bid for the Republican president Richard M. Nixon between the California of the California o dential nomination, regardless of how he fares in the Cali-

"If I didn't win in the first go-round, Nixon would be the hurdle to get over," said Goldwater, referring to the Republican national convention in San Francisco.

In what he called his last formal news conference before the June 2 primary, Coldwater also disclosed that Nixon had telephoned him about two weeks ago to discuss general convention matters.

Goldwater flew here Saturday to open a statewide saturation campaign in his critical joust with Gov. Nelson Rockefeller for the state's 86 votes at the GOP convention. He attacked some of the "benchmen and hatchetmen in the 'Stop Goldwater' movement.

But under questioning by newsmen, Goldwater said he didn't believe Rockefeller personally was responsible for what he called "smears" and "hate literature."

L.A. Escapee Holds Utah Pair 14 Hours

SALT LAKE CITY (A)—A church official and a police officer talked a jail escapee into giving up his gun Saturday night after he had held a taxi driver and his wife hostage for 14 hours.

MORRISON AND SON CRASH VICTIMS

DeLesseps S. Morrison, former mayor of New Orleans and ambassador to the Organization of American States, and his 7-year-old son Randy were killed in a plane crash in Mexico Friday. Five others also died.

Early Saturday, Anaya and an American friend of Charles Miller, Bill Nelson, hurried to the crash scene with doctors, medicine and bandages.

They arrived at 10 a.m. and reported the scene was "unbelievable."

THE SMALL plane had slithered 200 feet through thorny chaparro bushes on the edge of a small gorge. Not far away was a corn field, apparently the goal of the pilot.

The farmhands did not want to help pick up the budies, so Nelson, several cowboys and others put the bodies into bundles made of coarse sacks.

Six bundles were col-lected, carried by mule about two miles to a dirt road and placed in a truck for the 25-mile drive to this state capital 200 miles south of the border.

Florida's Democrats Set to Vote

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) -Florida Democrats nominate a governor Tuesday, climaxing a bitter runoff cam-paign that established the Negro bloc vote as a political force within the state for the first time in history.

The race between big city mayors Havdon Burns of Jacksonville and Robert King High of Miami was dominated by the civil rights issue, with Burns cast as the conservative and High donning the mantle of liberalism.

Rutledge Pearson, state president of the National Association for the Advance ment of Colored People, pub-licly declared that Florida Negroes bloc-voted for High in the first primary May 5 and would do so again in the run-

With other major statewide races settled May 5, the forecast is for only 1,035,000 of the 2.2 million registered Democrats and Republicans to vote, some drawn by local contests and a handful of state legislative runoffs not settled in the first balloting.

The winner of the Burns-High contest will face Republican nominee Charles Holley, St. Petersburg legislator, in November. But Democratic nomination for governor has always meant election in Florida. Barring an upset, Tuesday's election will also be deciding Florida's leader for the two years starting in

Council Hits Udall Plan

By GEORGE WEEKS Supporting the position of the supervisors and other California officials, the Long Beach City Council is strongly opposing the Pacific Southwest Water Plan advanced by Secretary of the Interior Stewart L.

Councilmen have ordered preparation of a resolution asserting that the plan in it present form fails to protect California's priority in Colorado River water to the extent of 4.4 million acrefeet annually over any water used for the Central Arizona project.

The resolution, awaiting final council approval, also

TV 'Spy' Truck Developed by Sunset Beach Trio

Story and Photos By DICK EMERY

Two Sunset Beach brothers and their father have developed an electronic peak-a-boo device which puts old-fashioned windowpeeping on the skids.

Without coming close to a window, this new marvel of eavesdropping can tell if your television set is on, what channel you're watching, and whether your set is black-and-white or color.

The operator can drive the peek-a-boo truck, a sleek black panel vehicle with a bicycle-wheel-looking antenna mounted out front, down a dark résidential street at night and determine who's looking at what—at the rate of 106 TV watchers a minute.

"Audience measurement," the TV industry calls it.

The father - and - sons' team call their device TEST. Last week they were busy demonstrating it to groups of TV executives in the Southland.

The bicycle-wheel gadget is a "rotary transformer, a magnetic pickup device, which feeds electronic messages into a couple of tons of wires, transistors and recording instruments in the truck," its developers say.

"This application of electronic science in the field of audience survey astounds the layman and convinces the engineer," Jim Tanner, one of the two sons in the Tanner Engineering Co. at 22624 Avalon Blyd., Carson, told interviewers.

Sampling of who'swatching-what on TV pre-viously has been done mostly by telephone calls. The TEST device would spare TV viewers from such calls right in the middle of fascinating commercials, political plugs or scenes of Indian attacks, its developers claim. TEST means Tanner Electronic Survey Tabulation.

The Tanner company is composed of Charles Tanner, who besides being in the electronics and plastics industries is commodore of the Southern California Yacht Club at Marina del Rey, and his sons, Jim, of 16503 S. Pacific Ave., and Tom, of 16501 S. Pacific Ave., both Sunset Beach.

The Outcry

WHOLLY APART FROM the civil rights demonstrations, there is a notable tendency in American society today to publicize one's cause by marching and picketing.

More than ever before in U.S. history, citizens who want a traffic light at the school crossing or a wading pool in the park are inclined to gather at the corner and stall traffic to draw attention to their

What's the explanation?

We suspect that demonstrations are the inevitable reaction of a traditionally democratic society which is having increasing difficulty obtaining a voice in public affairs.

As the population grows, government at all levels tends to become remote from the individual, whose separate and personal identity is blurred and lost in the crowd, Representative government seems less representative; the bureaucrats begin to believe their offices exist for their own pleasure; it's harder for the citizen to get in touch.

To make themselves heard, to restore the democratic process, people join together and raise their voices in unison. They return, in effect, to the townmeeting of their New England forefathers.

Despite the evidence that governments are growing too big and too complicated to respond efficiently to public opinion, planners continue to extol the vir- BOB HOUSER tues of tomorrow's super-government. Human Element

CELEBRITIES WHO HAVE had their names in the papers thousands of times and made scores of appearances on television to the public, and often to themselves, to be somewhat more than human.

It is healthy for both sides to remember from time to time that all flesh is mortal.

The other day in Limerick, Ireland, Chicago's Mayor Richard Daley, touring the old country, arrived at a famous hotel for a civic reception. As he got out of his limousine, the good and famous Mayor heard a ripping noise.

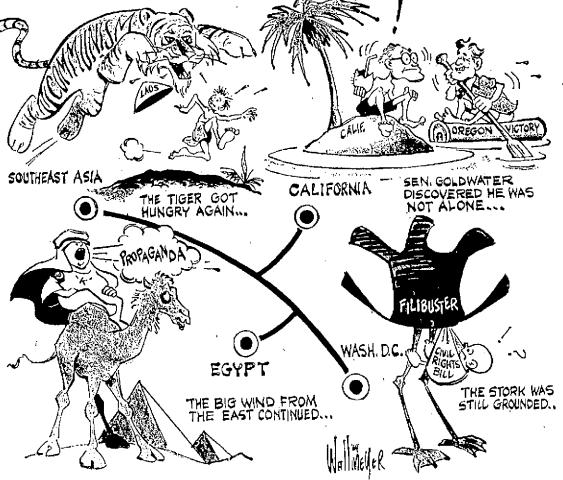

It was his immediate impression that he had split his pants. The invasion of Irish breezes to intimate areas of the body politic confirmed this impression. Blushing, Mr. Daley backed into his car, grabbed another pair of pants, and made a get-away into the hotel.

At the expense of an embarrassing few moments, Mr. Daley and the Irish learned a great lesson of humility. No event is so important, no man so JIM M'CAULEY exalted, as to escape the humanizing influence of thin cloth stretched beyond all endurance across the posterior of an exuberant politician.

The Promise

SUDDENLY, IT IS SPRING! Today, now, here this very minute. Not a calendar spring; that was days ago. Spring is a mood of Nature and Nature has no dates in little squares. We saw a harbinger of spring just yesterday, standing stiffly at attention, alert to our presence, as he guarded others searching for seeds in a patch of plant growth. His demeanor indicated that he and his had no link with our likes, unless he, too, liked Spring and had come back to find it. We shared the sun, but the wind carried a bite that neither of us liked. Then, a false move by me, a call by him and he and his little flock were gone. The sun, too, moved on its way, soon to give surrender to the mist again. The mood of Spring vanished into the cloud. Today the morning dawned gray and damp with no hint of yesterday's mood. But now, as we glance up from our work and out of the window, suddenly, it is Spring! The sun casts happy heams down upon us, the breeze pranks along its way inland, wearing a bouquet of the clean scents of the sea. Nature is smiling again, after a long season of wind and dust, wind and cold, chill breezes and mist. Suddenly, today, it is Spring. No matter tomorrow when this is in print, today it is Spring, and Spring is a promise.

this year because that is where the news has been. But three Republicans are vying doggedly for their party's nominomination—a prize which the polls devaluate.

GOP candidates Fred Hall, 47, of Long Beach, Leland M. Kaiser, 58, of Atherton, and George Murphy, 61, of Beverly Hills, ignore or deprecate the polls. In their present circumstances, it's the only way to fly.

The poll picture briefly: In late March was Murphy 38, Hall 20 and Kaiser 8, with 34 per cent undecided. In early May it was Murphy 27, Kaiser 14, Hall 1 and 48 per cent were undecided.

In other words, frontrunner Murphy had lost 11 points, Kaiser gained 6 to go into a second place that was still 2-to-1 against him, and Hall dropped 9 points into third place. And in the doing, the undecided vote jumped 14 per cent to a level indicating half of the GOP voters either consider the race a bore or are not impressed with their party's field this year. The same California Poil says Murphy would be clobbered by either of the two front-running Democrats.

Here are some highlights on the GOP contenders gathered from the press and from the League of Women Voters questionnaire.

HALL IS AN ATTORNEY, former Governor of Kansas, former Kansas Supreme Court Justice and former executive vice president of the World's Fair at Long Beach. He favors continued economic aid to developing nations. He strongly supports the entire Civil Rights Bill before the Senate. Pressing domestic problems, he says, are job creation through private enterprise, passage of the Republican compromise bill for Medicare, rewritten farm legislation to encourage the family size farm and to eliminate surpluses. He is for the UN, NATO and OAS, disagrees with some Democratic usage of them, calls for reestablishment

KAISER, A FINANCIER, and an organizer for Goldwater's presidential effort before his Senate candidacy, lists his platform: ,1) Create new peacetime industry and jobs. (2) Strengthen national security. (3) Balance the budget. (4) Reduce taxes. (5) Eliminate waste in government. (6) Stop bureaucratic interference with citizens and business. (7) Stop foreign aid waste. (8) Equal opportunities for all. Kaiser says elect a businessman to the Senate. He avidly dislikes Hall, refused to be photographed with him and once offered to punch him in the nose. He says he doesn't know where Murphy stands on the issues. He likes the principle of the UN but decries Democrats' "abolishing our nation's sovereignty," and agrees with Murphy that America is "a hated and despised nation."

MURPHY, VICE PRESIDENT and director of Technicolor Corp., is a former actor who appeared in numerous film musicals and tells his audiences he feels the "good guy" image in those films will help his cause. He also advocates rebuilding the U.S, image through intelligent use of films ahroad. He advocates "careful" foreign aid to make recipients self supporting, says aid could be cut 25 per cent. He favors civil rights, thought the House-passed bill unacceptable but expects the Senate compromise to be good. He favors a balanced budget, curbs on inflation and deficit spending. Opposes "inroads of socialistic practices -too much government restriction and regulation of industry." Favors constitutional government "by law rather than by directive." Murphy has worked in state and national GOP affairs for 25 years. Before his candidacy he was active in Americanism rallies like Project Alert and the Christian Anti-Communism Crusade

Both Murphy and Kaiser have been backed by state GOP volunteer groups oriented to ultraconservative philosophy. Hall has spurned them and they say they're happy

Support Growing for Salinger's Bid for Senate

THE UNITED STATES Senate candidacy of Pierre Salinger, which is receiving mounting support from Democrats opposed to extremist policies of the Young Democrats and the California Democratic Council, has received exceptionally good press reception.

Editors over the nation warmly praised Mr. Salinger upon the occasion of his resignation as presidential press secretary. His work in that position was nailed and there was wide agreement that he would make a strong candidate and, if elected, a most effective Senator. Here are samples of quotations:

SANTA BARBARA (CALIF.) NEWS-PRESS:
"This man knows what he is talking about whether it be on international problems of security, the Cold War, Southeast Asia, Latin America or our national and California problems such as water, farm labor, civil rights, the war on poverty, and the fight for steady prosperity without

He has a wealth of material on critical subjects which he cannot reveal lest he violate in some indirect way the confidence he enjoyed in inner circles of policy debate and policy decision in the White House."

RIVERSIDE (CALIF.) PRESS-ENTERPRISE:
"What tips the balance most fully in Mr. Salinger's favor is the obvious fact that his prestige and experience, as distinguished from that of his principal opponent, would put him one-up as a freshman senator. He has had close experience with the workings of both the national admin-Istration, from the White House down through the administrative agencies of the Congress. He knows the govern-ment and has contacts. He is ready to take over and be a Senator from the time he might be seated in the Senate. The ordinary period of adjustment would be cut to the absolute minimum. In short, his unique experience would give him an advantage that no other senator could hope to have without seniority. This would be to California's

THE SAN JOSE (CALIF.) MERCURY NEWS, May 17,

"Of the 11 Democrats running for the seat vacated by ailing U.S. Sen. Clair Engle, Pierre Salinger stands out.

Though only 38 years old, this native Californian has built up an impressive reserve of experience. He has served as an investigator for a Senate rackets subcommittee and, of course, as presidential press secretary for the late John F. Kennedy and for Lyndon Johnson. His knowledge of the Washington maze is an invaluable asset.

"The Mercury-News endorses Pierre Salinger in the June 2 Democratic Primary.

COLUMBUS (OHIO) CITIZEN JOURNAL, March 23: ... he was good at his job, too, as he has been at anything he has undertaken seriously. And if he beats the odds by getting elected in California, our opinion is he be a good U.S. senator. LEONARD LYONS, NEW YORK POST, April 6:

A poll taken by White House aides shows that in California Pierre Salinger's name is better known than even incumbent, Sen. Engle.

SAN FRANCISCO EXAMINER, March 23: Salinger joins a strong field of candidates, and will give a good account of himself . . . We welcome him home

ARTHUR HOPPE, SAN FRANCISCO CHRONICLE, I honestly think Mr. Salinger today is a warm, intelli-

... Salinger does not spring from nowhere. He has a White House base, having stood for almost four years within arm reach of the presidency. It was obvious that such an investigation could have widespread repercussions in the Cranston-Pierre Salinger race for U.S. Senator.

Cranston supporters and friends of Cranston-appointed inheritance tax appraisers have battled to head off any probe and tried to throw cold water on the Schrade charges.

Normally, any Senate resolution is printed in a routine manner in the Senate journal. However, the Sen-ate voted to censor from the journal the printing of a Schrade resolution which made this allegation:

Solid citizen Mike was out of character in these accusations. They were made in the heat of the Senate Democratic leadership's massive effort to check the Bobby Baker investigation.

The Senate rejected a proposal to widen the Baker probe. It was a party-line vote, all Republicans and nine Democrats voting to extend the investigation. The overall impression so far is that it has been a rabbity affair, timid, fearful and eager to conclude. The impression is that the

Wallace Toyed With Idea of Entering California Primary

Wallace hadn't been looking for easier pickings, he might have been a candidate for President in the California Primary.

The segregationist Governor has told friends that he was strongly urged by some California Democrats to enter the June 2 Primary in the nation's largest state. That would have created a major dilemma for the White House and for Gov. Edmund G. Brown of California.

Under California law, winning delegations in Presidential primaries must support their nominee at the convention until he releases them, Had Wallace run unopposed in California, he theoretically could have prevented the Democratic Convention at Atlantic City from nominating President Lyndon B, Johnson by unanimous acclamation, merely by sitting tight on his delegates.

Wallace considered the California invitation, but in the end rejected it because the outlook for achieving his purpose looked easier in Wisconsin, Indiana and Maryland. His applecant was upset by Hoosier Gov. Matthew Weish and a smoothly-functioning party organization in that state.

The Wallace plan was to run in states where incumbent Democratic governors were in trouble with the electorate. He figures that he would get a progressively higher percentage of the vote as the primaries were held in Wisconsin, Indiana and Maryland in that order. This would give the earance to some folks of a groundswell huilding behind him, and it was the hope

WASHINGTON-If Alabama Gov. George that this might scare the Senate out of passing a Civil Rights bill.

Wallace did much better than he thought he would in Wisconsin (34.6 percent of the vote) worse than he had expected in Indiana (29.8) and about as planned in Maryland (42.8). In the latter state, Gov. Millard Tawes was in trouble because he raised income taxes and because of savings and loan scandals during his regime. The state was ripe for picking and Wallace sensed it.

THE STREAM OF letters and gifts for Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy continues and from present indications it will go on forever. Those who send gifts apparently don't stop to think whether Mrs. Kennedy might actually want them. They just send them along and expect to be thanked for them. The other day some well-meaning person sent a couple of hamsters to the White House, addressed to Mrs. Kennedy and/or her children. While the White House ladies in charge of Mrs. Kennedy's mail were wondering what to do with the little ani-mals, the female gave birth to three tiny hamsters. Mrs. Kennedy laughingly declined the gift of the now five animals and the problem arose of what to do with them, A worker in the White House offered to take them and spent the next night feeding the newcomers from an eyedropper. What she will now do with them, she doesn't know, but she sure wishes people would stop sending animals to the Kennedy children. They already have plenty, thank you.

A Communist threat last week to overrun strategic Laos in Southeast Asia brought a grim warning of possible U.S. military intervention.

American jet reconnaissance planes kept around-the-clock checks on the Red-Chinese-backed Communist Pathet Lap attack which breached a 1962, 14-nation Geneva pact guaranteeing Laotian neutrality. Red China and Russia were among the United Nations ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson, recalled hastily from Europe, placed the U.S. case before the U.N. Security Council with suggestions for a U.N. peace-keeping role in all of the area which was once French Indochina.

He warned that "the United States cannot stand by while Southeast Asia is overrun by armed aggression."
And he rejected demands by Russia, Red China and France that the Geneva conference, which set up the present countries and guaranteed their neutrality, be reconvened.

Heiberg said there was "no Indication of what caused the flash fire. Nobody knows, that's the general impression," he said after completing his closed-door investigation into the tragedy.

"I think I can tell you that my impression is that the fire started in, at or near the passengers' deck," he said.

The Sunday Sermon

Pearls from the Sunday pulpit:

. If confidence begets championships, the Phila-delphia Phillies will represent the National League in the World Series this fall. Everybody on the club from batting practice pitcher Richie Ashburn to manager Gene Mauch - ESPECIALLY Mauch-believes the ragsto-riches Phils can triumph this season in the dog-catdag senior circuit.

. . . "Things are a lot different on this club than they were two years ago when we didn't win a single game in Dodger Stadium," mused Mauch before Friday night's 2-0 Phil verdict over the Dodgers. "We've got everything in abundance and we'll have it for years to come. Actually, we're going to be a better club in the next season or two, but I think we're good enough right now to win the cham-

Oozes Confidence-

... What about the slugging Giants (who just had whipped the Phillies two out of three games in 'Frisco' and the well-balanced Cardinals? "They've both got problems," shot back the candid, young boss. "No matter if they added Shaw and Hendley, the Giants still have pitching problems. They're going to find this out in July and August. And somebody else on that team better hit with consistency pretty soon, too, because Willie Mays can't keep up that great pace. No man alive can, The Cardinals are a darned fine club, but I just don't like their outfield. I don't think it has the punch to carry the club all the way. Maybe I'll be eating my words with garlic sauce in September, but that's the way I feel in May.

... Mauch still has tons of respect for the Dodgers even though the O'Malleys left the starting gate with all the speed of a crippled turtle. "Heck, they've had enough injury problems already to last the whole season," said Mauch. "They lose three pitchers in 10 days and still pluck some great kids from the deep freeze to fill the holes. The club isn't hitting either. Just wait until all the pitching's healthy and those batters start pumping up their averages. They'll go on a 10-game win streak one of these days and everybody'll forget the slow start."

... The handsome Mauch said he noticed something else about the Dodgers that impressed him. "They've still got the air of world champions," he declared. "It's written all over them in batting and fielding practice. That's a sign of class and when you've got class when things are gning bad, you're a pretty good ball club."

MAUCH'S OBVIOUS pride and joy this season is third baseman Richie Allen, a best bet right now to be major league rookie-of-the-year. "What an animal," Gene enthused. "He's got one of the greatest physiques I've ever seen. If I was interested in the fight business, I'd take out a manager's license and put Richie in the ring. He's strong enough to be heavyweight champion right now."

. Mauch drooled further over Allen: "The kid's really something as a basketball player, too. He has four brothers just like him and they have their own basketball team in the winter. They go all the way, no subs. They spring like panthers and run just as fast in the last quarter as they do in the first. See the batting cage over there? Richie's only 5-11, but I think it's just possible he could get a running jump and touch the top of it." (Mauch's enthusiasm might have placed him in wagering difficulties. The top of the cage extends about 12 feet high . . . and I remember the day Willie McCovey, who has at least a five-inch advantage on Allen, leaped and failed.)

. Mauch's tan fades when he recalls the Phillies exposed Allen to the expansion draft three years ago. "We had to put some names on the list and didn't know too much about Richie then," shudders Mauch. "So he was on the list presented to the Mets and Colts. Thank the good Lord, they both passed him up, It makes me nervous to think about it."

THE NCAA RULING which KO'd two USC stars, catcher Bud Hollowell of Long Beach and third baseman Larry Sandel of South Gate, may have been sufficient to prevent the Trojans from waltzing to another NCAA baseball pennant. Bud was the most valuable player in last year's NCAA World Scries, while Larry was the only USC third baseman with any appreciable amount of playing time this season.

. . The ineligibility edict still is unclear, which is par for the NCAA course. Basis for the verdict, however, seems to be that both youngsters played seven games for Rod Dedeaux's Trojans in the summer of '61 AFTER completion of their frosh season. The games were against service teams in Honolulu. "We all thought the players were academically sophomores," commented a Trojan spokesman Saturday, "and, consequently, nothing was out of order." (P.S. The "information" was passed on to the NCAA by another CIBA member, which makes the tea kettle on Figueroa St. boil just a bit stronger.)

. . PERSONALS: The Wilson High rowing team, which competed this weekend in the Schoolboy Championships at Poughkeepsie, N.Y., got a financial lift from the Century Club, Downtown Kiwanis and L.B. Rowing Assn. The three adult groups matched the money earned by the kids themselves to insure the Eastern excursion

The Open diew 2.381 entries this year.

NEW YORK Op-About 2,250 gollers Of these, 21 are exempt from all qualifying and 45 from local qualifying. So 428 of the early starters can earn places in the sectional qualifiers.

The most serious qualifying contests are expected at Memphis, Tenn., where the touring pros wind up their tournament today. There 90 golfers—85 pros-will be shooting for 39 qualifiers places. Among them are Mike Souchak, Ken Venturi, Gay Brewer, Al Besselink, Freddic Haas, Rex Baxter, Joe Campbell, Bill Collins, Phil Rodgers and Ernic Boros, brother of defending National Open champion Julius Boros.

A STRONG foreign contingent includes WELA SAITA Bruce Devlin and Bill Dunk of Australia, Dave Thomas of England and Bob Verwey and Stewart Davis of South Africa.

A few of the tour regulars and young

Machen Confident of Beating Floyd

These are the up-to-date stories of three outstandfighters-Sugar Ray Robinson, Joe Brown and Eddie Machen. All are in the news again.

Machen meets Floyd Patterson Sunday, July 5, in Sweden in the make-or-break fight of Eddie's entire career. Brown, 38-year-old former lightweight champion, meets Paulic Armstead in San Francisco Monday night as he strives to remain in contention for another crack at the crown he lost to Carlos Ortiz two years ago.

Then there was the sad re-port out of Portland, Maine, the past week that the once great and proud Sugar Robinson had received only $400 and travel expenses from New York for a 10-round fight with little known Gaylord Barnes.

And although Robinson won, it was Barnes who was given the "reward"-a television bout with ranking middleweight contender Joey Archer.

Sugar Ray, who made two or three fortunes with his and one has the makings of fistic prowess, thus had come down to fighting for "ham a truly great cinder spectacu-

"It's all tied up in real estate." he reveals. "Twe got an eight-unit do.0 in the 440 relay. apartment and my personal four-bedroom home in Baton Rouge and I got a triplex in Houston. With the income off Army paratroopers from Form my rentals, I don't have to worry about cating if I quit Campbell, Ky., pushed the

"But I'm still hoping for a rematch with Ortiz, He promised it to me. But at the end of this year, if I'm not in contention, I'll call it quits. If I am, though, I'll give it another year."

After his fight with Armstead, a rematch of their bout peting for the Pasadena Ath last month in Sacramento when the latter upset him via letic Club, turned in a fabu-a split decision, Brown heads for Colon, Panama, for a lous long jump exhibition in June 21 date against a local favorite.

MEANWHILE, MACHEN'S STORY, which has had the ups and downs of a Hollywood script, has the prospect of long Rock City College ippy ending.

"The fight with Patterson is going to put bread on toss of 55-10½ in the shotput table . . and if I win, then we'll have cake." and a school record discuss it was just a year ago last December that Machen flip of 159-7½ — good for the table .

reached the depths of despair. There wasn't even state fifth place bread on the table. He was committed to a sanitarium after San Francisco police found him sitting in a car with a pistol and a half-written letter that was interpreted to the sprint to heat Tom O'. The incident spotlighted the fact that Machen, rated the No. 1 contender for several years when Patterson ruled as the heavyweight king, was flat broke. He had no money for food for his family . . . let alone presents for Christmas in a couple of weeks. And the ultilities were going to be turned off because the bills hadn't

The Minskoff brothers, wealthy Los Angeles realtors who are currently constructing the largest building in Southern California, a 31-story apartment in Beverly Hills, came to Machen's financial rescue.

They dabble in boxing as a hobby. Leo promotes bouts, while Walter became Machen's manager. Starting in March, 1963, he has given Eddie $1,000-a-month bouts, while Walter became Machen's manager. Starting in March, 1963, he has given Eddie $1,000-a-month guarantee against his purses.

THE PATTERSON FIGHT should clear up Machen's financial troubles for the time being. And if he wins a bright future is ahead of him. Several big money fights have been offered him if he whips Floyd.

"Eddie will get a $50,000 guarantee for fighting Patterson plus about $60,000 from the ancilliary rights," Walter reveals. "The films of the flight will be flown immediately to this country and, because of the time difference, they'll be shown on regular TV that night at 7."

Thus, Machen will receive in the neighborhood of $110, 000 from the bont before taxes, and after settling everything, he should still have a nice piece of change for himself and family.

Eddie flew down from San Francisco the past week and will train in Los Angeles for the next couple of weeks before leaving for Sweden to complete his conditioning at the site of the fight.

MACHEN FELIS HE CAN BEAT Patterson ... in fact knock him out.

"I'm going to come out swinging and try to take him out in a hurry," Eddie says. "I've heren using that style in my comeback bouts and it has proved very effective—live knockouts. It's much different from the defensive style I formerly used."

Machen's best chance, of course, is in pressing Alachen's best chance, of course, is in pressing Patterson cardy and going for a quick knockout. Lookin' for Some Braggin' Fish

TWIN CITIES, Minn.—This promises to be a most interesting weekend. Note the dateline. I didn't say St. Paul and I didn't say Minneapolis because the moment you mention one you might get a sour look from a resident of the other. It's far safer for a stranger to say Twin Cities.

This is being written before all the weekend shenanigans start, mostly at Grand Rapids, upstate from here, and at Lake Winnibigoshish (wonder what the printer will do with that one). Most people call it Big Winnie Lake and I don't blame them.

This party is strictly one that Gov. Karl F. Rolvang throws for some outdoor editors each year. Most of those come from midwestern states, but Rolla Williams, outdoor editor of The San Diego Union, and I were on the California list this year. Don't think for a moment that we ever considered declining the invitation.

Those who know me closely realize that I have not been around the fishing spas this year because of that fall in the bathtub. Just a poor man's John Glenn! The fall cracked some ribs and wrenched some ligaments, but after intensive medical care, everything is smoothing out. Here I am, heating pad, pills, neuritis and all, and I'll bet my doctor would like to be here with me.

MINNESOTA'S FISHING SEASON opened last weekend and that normally is the time for the governor to entertain the outdoor writers, but this year was the "Pike for Vets" 15th anniversary celebration at Grand Rapids, So the governor postponed the fish fry until this weekend and decided to have the outdoor writers come a week ly, folks, it's in Minneapolis, not St. Paul.

I just hope that I can be one of those catching walleyes and helping feed the veterans next month, That's the way this program works out. We have an official banquet, then we fish a couple of days and donate fish fillets for the veterans. Their special night comes next month, says Hubert F. Dear, manager of the Grand Rapids Chamber of Commerce.

Grand Rapids gets into this act by virtue of the fact that it is the closest city to Big Winnie. It's one of the greatest events in the state. Last year, for instance, more than 1,000 veterans gorged themselves on walleye fillets. And brother, if you have never eaten walleye fillets, you have missed a bit of fishing life.

"TA "palr'k, L. "palr'k, L. "palr'k, L. "palr'k, L. "par"k, L. "par"k, L. "par"k, Minn. "par"k, Minn. "par"k, Minn. "par"k, Minn. "par"k, L. "par"k, L

I have never eaten walleye fillets in Minnesota, but I have enjoyed them on the shore of Careen Lake, Sask., and I know whereof I speak.

AT THIS WRITING, I have not met the governor, but everybody tells me that he is one of the wildest-eyed anglers in the state. There's a bunch of prizes, I'm told, but, of course, the governor isn't eligible. Even so, he wants to beat any outdoor writer who thinks he's a big

This "Pike for Vets" promotion is the kind of thing that could be undertaken at Long Beach, Of course, we could not supply pike fillets, but albacore or yellowtail steaks wouldn't go had. You big "meat" fishermen back home might kick that one around a bit.

Numerous organizations in the Grand Rapids area sponsor the "Pike for Vets" program. They organize fish-ing parties and deliver fish to a central processing station adjacent to the Grand Rapids Chamber of Commerce.

The fish are filleted immediately on arrival at the processing station, then iced and frozen for storage until the date for the dinner.

The project has provided more than 12,000 pike dinners for veterans since it was first organized by Arthur Pasche, a Grand Rapids lumber dealer, and Arthur Jelland, Grand Rapids water ski manufacturer.

KIRK'S RESORT AND Levins Resort are cooperating with Gov. Rolvaag, the Minnesota Bureau of Business Development and the Grand Rapids Chamber of Commerce in hosting this party. The two resorts are said to be among the finest in the Big Winnie country. Incidentally, the Mississippi River starts just south of Big Winnie, flows into and out of Little Winnie, then through Big Winnie. Gosh, what Southern California could do with all that water

Big Winnie resorts claim that it is the best walleye and northern pike lake in the nation. And, too, there are some lunker muskies, but it takes a lot of knowhow and fishing to get one.

Both of the resorts maintain stores and dock service, or for immediate cooking in one of the cabins.

The resorts also have motor launches for larger parties and guide service. There is a winter fishing season-through the ice, of course-and guides place oilheated houses on the ice for that type of fishing.

Kirk's and Levins are situated in the heart of the Chippewa National Forest and I'm told that it's no problem to bag a deer in the November season without ranging too far from the resorts.

Legion Ball Slate Set Next Week

By CHUCK MEDIC The 19th District American Legion baseball program bets under way next weekend.

As usual, there will be four leagues in operation with games each Saturday and Sunday until late July at which time the playoffs begin.

Once again the district and area tournaments will be at Blair Field. The state championships move to Ontario this year with the regionals in Mesa, Arizona, and the national championships in Little Rock, Ark.

Local interest will center ion the Harbor League which contains the defending na-tional champion A. L. Peterson Post as well as Shua Flyers, Alamitos Bay, Lake-wood, Wilmington and San

The leagen race looks like a wide-open affair with Shua, Lakewood and possibly San Pedro given a good chance to come out on top. Peterson will be hard put to repeat, having lost almost all of last year's team to age and professional ranks,

Wilmington goes Legion in a big way this year with two teams from Banning and two from Carson represented in three of the four area leagues.

The Bay, Pacific and Rio Hondo leagues will provide fine baseball for those in the outlying areas, with Bell-flower, Crossland, El Segundo and possibly Gardena, the teams to watch.

THE CONNIE MACK baseball program, now in its third year in Long Beach, will kick off the '64 season Friday with Anaheim, a new team in the league, visiting Blair Field for a contest with the Los Altos Shoppers, The Shoppers, for-merly Salta Pontiac, will again be chached by Al nightman.

Sharing Blair Field with the Los Altos Shoppers will be the Long Beach Blues coached by Bob Fullerton. There will be games every Sunday night as well as some oother night during the week throughout the season with the area tournament beginning August 1,

Of special interest will be the Rossmoor entry in the league. This new club will use the Naval Air Station, a newly lighted field for its home base.

Los Altos Shoppers, Long Beach Blues, Rossmoor, Paramount, Anaheim, Ventura and Monterey Park made up the seven-team league.

Smith, Mims in Santa Mónica Meeting Monday

California middleweigh champion Joitin' Smith will face veteran contender Holly Mims in a 10-round feature bout at Santa Monica Civic Auditorium Monday,

Mims goes in with an im-pressive record of 59 victories and six draws. Smith has scored 23 victories with seven losses and 19 knockouts.

Wilson, Millikan Eye CIF Tee Title Monday

Wilson and Millikan of the Moore League, plus unbeaten San Marcus and Santa Ana are favored to battle for the CIF team golf championship Monday at Santa Barbara Community golf course. Millikan is the defending champion but lost to Wilson for the Moore title. San Marcus not only has won 16 consecutive matches, but the Santa Barbara links is its home course.

depend on T.I. to provide the best people, the best facilities and the best service in the title field. Because serving you is the most important

T.I. Title Protection (Most do)

When you buy property, you want to be sure it's really yours. That your interests are well protected should someone make a claim against

But not all title insurance companies are alike-and the differences are important to anyone considering a real estate transaction. They explain why T.I. is the overwhelming choice of property buyers for swift, depend able, impartial title service. And why T.I. protects the ownership rights to more Southern California property than all other title companies

Only T.I., for example, has complete up to date records (going all the way back to rancho days) on every square inch of land in Los Angeles County. Only T.I. has a high-speed electronic computer to search property tax records swiftly and accurately. Other title companies have to do the job by hand. This can not only slow your title transaction but

T.I.'s superior facilities mean greater speed for your property purchase

And greater accuracy. But the most important facility we have to offer you is our people. We have America's largest, most experienced title staff. We're the only company with a school for our title officers. They go through the toughest training in the title industry before they start serving you. And we see that they're backed by a staff of title specialists

When you buy or sell property, you and your escrow officer can always

A SUNDAY CARSIDE CHAT

from RIDINGS CADILLAC

Long Beach's Only Authorized Cadillac Dealer The person ready to buy a "NEW" used car usually clready knows the make and year and model that he wants. His main concern is to find this particular car and to purchase it at a fair and just price. In shopping around he may find a price difference on this same model car. Don't be mislead as to the reason why some are priced cheaper. . . the difference in price is not necessarily a savings. The only reason for the price differential is answered by the car itself . . . QUALITY

SPEND WISELY . . thoroughly inspect and test drive the car before you buy. We, at RIDINGS, urgs you to compare our fine used cars with others before your linal decision is made . . There is a Difference . . . We are closed Sundays, but cordially invite you to visit our lot and browse around. All cars are clearly marked as to their equipment and selling price.

HUGE TRUCK IS BLURRED IN TWILIGHT AS IT CRUISES THROUGH INTERSECTION WITH DIRT FOR FREEWAY OVERPASSES

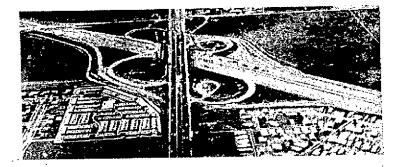

UMBLING day and yards of dirt since February for the completion of overpass approaches and cloverleaf ramps on a 4.5-mile section of the San Diego Freeway now under construction between Bolsa Chica Road and Newland Street. The Asbury Contractors, Inc., truck fleet still must haul another half-million yards in order to complete a million-dollar subcontract by July 1, and efficiency is the keynote. A giant loading machine at the barrow pit can load each truck in seconds with 23½ tons of dirt. The trucks make an average of 23 trips daily, dumping their loads on the construction site while trundling along at 20 m.p.h. Special traffic controls allow the trucks right of way. The huge quantity of dirt is needed because there are nine major overpasses on the $7.6 million section, and each overpass requires from 150,000 to 500,000 tons of dirt. Recently, some motorists have complained about the volume and speed of truck traffic. Spokesmen for the Guy F. Atkinson Co., prime contractor, agree that the trucks have created traffic problems. But, they point out, every truckload hastens the day when the new freeway will relieve the congestion of Orange County's busy highways.

ORANGE COUNTY EVENING NEWS INDEPENDENT, PRESS-TELEGRAM, MAY 14, 1964

The Million-Yard Dash

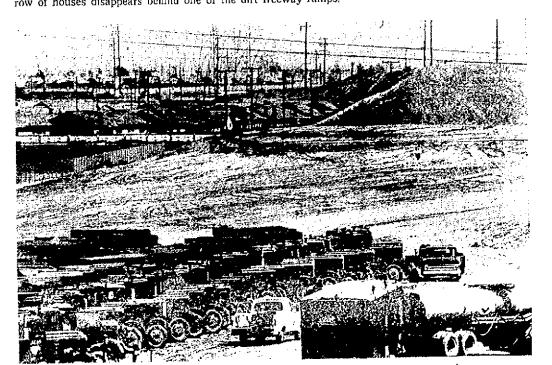

HEADLIGHTS of trucks make sweeping arc in time-exposure view of Newport Beach barrow pit from which dirt is hauled to freeway site.

Pride of Quality

R. H. Grant, Former Navy Officer, Now Prominent Builder

By VERN ANTHONY Southland Progress Editor

It's a long way from Connecticut to California, and it's still farther to Korea. But Robert H. Grant, builder of Stardust Homes, has covered the miles to become one of the largest builders in Orange County.

Grant, president of Robert H. Grant & Co., lives with his wife and three sons in Newport Beach. He was born at Hartford, Conn., in 1920 and holds a B.S. degree in electrical engineering from Worchster Polytechnic Institute in Massachusetts.

After graduation in 1942, Grant joined the U.S. Navy and was discharged a lieu-tenant in 1945. Following the war he worked as a test engineer for Boeing Aircraft Co., in Scattle, Wash., until

The next four years he was employed as a loan appraiser for Prudential Insurance Co. where he had close contact with a large number of builder-developers and obtained a wealth of knowledge in construction finance and building.

In 1951 he was recalled into the Navy, served on the aircraft carrier Bon Homme Richard in Korea and was discharged a lieutenant commander. Grant then became associated for a short time with Henry C. Cox and affiliated companies, a large residential developer in Orange County, as an assistant to Cox in the overall planning and financing of residential-commercial

GRANT BEGAN HIS OWN CAREER as a builderdeveloper in 1953 when he teamed up with Robert D. Moore Jr., to form a real estate development company called Moore Built Homes. Together they built and sold many homes in the low and medium price class in the Garden Grove and Anaheim areas before they ended business relations in 1956.

Since that time Grant has continued the organization, building under the name of Stardust Homes.

Grant likes to stress his company's fundamental policy of providing quality construction of medium priced homes with warranty and service after sale.

He has built more than 5,000 new homes in Southern California during the past 10 years . . . and now ranks as one of the largest builders in Orange County.

INASMUCH AS construction of residential units creates a demand for adjoining commercial facilities, Grant also developed commercial centers from the inception of his business.

These include two major hospitals, several medical-dental centers and, thus far, a nine-store-chain of neighbor-hood, convenience-type shopping centers called Quik-

Stardust Homes have been awarded the Certified Medallion Award from Southern California Edison Co., a special builder award from the Long Beach Press-Telegram, a special builder award in the design section from Better Living Institute, three N.A.II.B. (National Association of Home Builders) Journal Awards in merchandising, and the 1962 Life Magazine Marketing Council Award,

A SPORTS ENTHUSIAST, Grant enjoys skiing, deep sea fishing, sailing and ocean racing, and has participated in the Acapulco and Honolulu Races. He breeds horses at his Bresa Del Mar Ranch for racing at major race tracks, and also raises purebred Aberdeen Angus cattle.

Recreational and club affiliations include Newport Harbor Yacht Club, Trans-Pacific Yacht Club, California Thoroughbred Association, American Quarter Horse Association and the American Angus Association.

Grant is a director of the Home Builders Association. He is also on the Advisory Board of Newport National Bank, and a member of the Navy League of U. S.

The two dimpled five-year-olds, twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. William Skeen. are pretty sure of that, for their choice in headgear is the beribboned Salvation Army

A "Bonnet Party"? That's the Auxiliary's big annual fund raising event. An idea, which originated in Long Beach, and has been adopted by auxiliaries all over the United States.

The popular party will take place Tuesday at 12:30 p.m. in Long Beach Elk's Club. It will be a fashion show tea with hats and other door prizes to be awarded.

This year proceeds will go toward furnishing the fireside conference room in the new citadel. Wilma Hastings, an auxiliary member, will coordinate and commentate on the fashions to be modeled. "Banners and Bonnets," a song written for the Sal-vation Army by Meredith Wilson, will be sung by Bette Arntzen, Betty Kimber, Laura Killingsworth, Jacqueline McFadden and Patricia Zieg, all stars of the Long Beach Civic Light Opera.

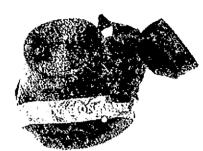

Tickets are being handled by Mrs. George Scufert, 5203 Killdee St., or can be obtained at the Salvation Army's temporary administrative offices, 206 E.

The auxiliary (more than 100 women belong) assists the Salvation Army in Long Beach. At Christmas time members wrapped 2,000 or more gifts for hospital patients; they also have collected maternity clothing for unwed mothers and

Army's Home League Bazaar. Besides these and many other services to the army, the auxiliary has donated a sizable amount of money, $3,200 of which was given to the Army to use for much

No wonder, Shelly and Shawna each want to grow-up to be in a bonnet. The Salvation Army's something to be pretty proud of-all those auxiliary ladies certainly agree.

By MARY NETH

Parents are going back to school these days to study elementary math. That "dull" subject has taken on a new look. It's become the most exciting, controversial issue in the curriculum--a challenge to moms and dads.

Dad, what's the LCM for 12? When does I plus 1 equal 10? How do you find the base seven of

If you have a child in a Long Beach school be prepared. For, if you haven't heard such questions, you're bound to be hearing them soon.

Modern math is in.

Old-fashioned 'rithmatic by rote is out. Soon, helping little Harvey with his homework may require schoolwork for mom and dad.

A number of local parents already have come to such a conclusion. They're members of the modern math class being taught Wednesday evenings at Millikan High.

Most enrolled in the class, which started six months ago, after a brush with elementary math left them thinking it far from elementary.

territying to a parent.

As Mrs. Robert A. Delfs put it, "I was intimidated by my children's questions. I couldn't help them, I didn't even know what they were talking about."

Says T. H. Donaldson, "I felt my daughter might start losing faith in her father—I was beginning to feel pretty dumb."

MODERN MATH made its appearance in Long Beach classrooms within the last three years. It was introduced to academically talented children ib fourth, fifth and sixth grades (about 10 percent of pupils in these grades) two years ago and to many junior and senior high students (approximately 20 percent) three years ago. In most cases, material used was written by the School Mathematics Study Group (SMSG), a group of mathematicians and educators supported by the National Science Foundation.

Next fall, with arrival of state text books, the new math program will be extended to include all children in first, second and seventh grades, In classes where state texts are not yet available, it will continue to be given more able students under the present plan.

According to Howard Hubbard, Long Beach School District's able and farsighted supervisor of high school math, (who helped set up the new courses for elementary grades), "The new mathematics program will be expanded and extended to include all pupils in the next few years."

It follows that more and more parents may find themselves perplexed by their offspring's home-

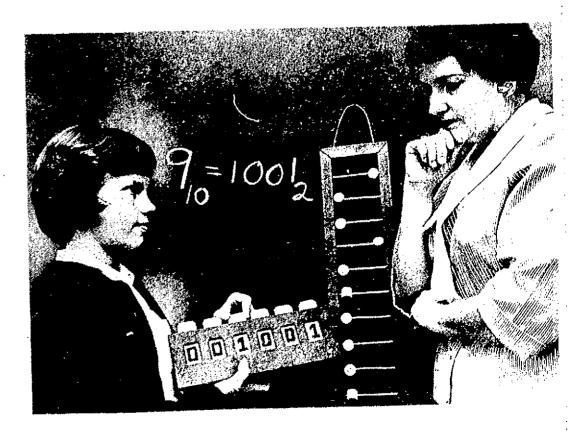

If so, Dorothy De Forest may see her class for moms and dads blossoming into a bigger-than-expected project. Already twice as many sessions are planned for next fall. "When we started the course we didn't know what to anticipate — whether 2 or 100 parents would show up," she says.

With only a few more sessions left this semester, no one doubts the success of the class. It's been well and enthusiastically attended by up to 70 local moms and dads.

"I've concentrated on concepts, not grade levels," explains Mrs. De Forest.

In between meetings, they toured Taxco, Cuernevaca, the Pyramids to the Moon and Sun, saw the bull fights and the fabled Folklorico ballet, shopped and roamed Mexico City, ferreting out all the old buildings (Montie's a real history fan). They returned Sunday, bridge gap un-bridged.

Are men usurping the rightful role of women in

Let's watch it, ladies!

Look who star as great dressmakers, chefs, teachers, hair dressers, home decorators, florists and in many other fields that women like to think they have primary talent.

AND WHO is the single major influence in the United States in baby care? It isn't your old grand-

The obvious signs of a major take-over are all

When you go to the market on weekends have you noticed the large percentage of men doing the shopping? And if the wife is along, just who is making the decisions? See the way she puts the can of tuna in the basket and he puts it back on the shelf and takes down the crab? Just let them do a few dishes and give the baby the two o'clock buttle and the next thing you know they've taken over the house management.

Examples are many and troubling. There's the husband who became so anti-laundry that he asked his wife to iron his shirts. When she properly pointed out a conflict of interest, he ironed his own, is still at it and doing a lovely job.

There's the father of ten, a captain in the Navy, who does all the family sewing. You'd think he had enough to do!

There are even a few male PTA presidents. (This must lead to housing problems on convention.)

An extremely sensitive area in the problem of male take-over is that of entertaining. Who is planning your social life?

Has there been an increasing amount of business instead of pleasure? One wife complains that she can make no social plans for the weekend until she gets the green light from her executive husband that there are no stray customers to whip up hors d'oeuvres

Another says that she doesn't dare get behind in her dry cleaning or hair doing as her husband is the type that calls at 5 p.m. and announces that they have a business dinner at Chasen's at 6 p.m.

Neither wife has a minute for the old neighborhood gang. But no doubt those gals are all being planned for by their own male Perle Mestas.

Probably the greatest break through by men into a women's world was the invention of the patio barbecue. How many trusting wives have innocently pre-sented husbands with a little portable barbecue and a chef's hat as a gala birthday gift? And awakened too late to find she has been ousted from her rightful position as meal planner and executor.

How insidiously the male cook moves indoors first with a meat marinade, then a little salad dressing, until he takes full kitchen command leaving the former head chef as scullery in charge of scraping

An authenticated case of kitchen kidnap occurred in the Naples area. A typical example, the wife made her first faulty move with the presentation of an electric barbecue spit.

Her husband got so fancy with the spit that the first thing she knew, he was spurning her simple but wholesome food-hot dogs, frozen chicken pies, chili beans-and taken over completely.

THEIR NEIGHBORS were fascinated to observe her washing the cars and doing yard work on week-ends while her husband cooked up a storm.

The day arrived when he came home and announced he had left his job as sales manager to devote all of his time to cooking as part owner of a restaurant . . . trading his grey flannel suit for white

Showing the kind of inner strength that makes women really great, his wife replied, "Oh well, I've always loved a man in a uniform "

Math Takes On a New Look for Moderns

IN THE PAST few years everyone has been talking about modern math, yet few people really seem to know what it's all about. The topic has become a catch-all for misconceptions. No wonder some parents have almost become hostile to the idea-ask why methods they were taught aren't deemed good

According to Hubbard, the start of most of the controversy springs directly from the name "mod-

'It's a misleading label, but it looks like we're

It seems modern math isn't modern at all-that accelerated math or renewed math would be better

All that's really new about the new math accord-Ing to Hubbard is it's appearance in lower grades. Most of the facts were known by the 19th century

The reason for the speed-up in introduction? "It's purely to help more children succeed in arithmetic-to grow up without thinking of math as a necessary evil; a dull, cut-and-dried subject.

"The why as well as the how is now being emphasized," says Hubbard.

"We're mathematizing arithmetic," says Mrs. De

Generally speaking, modern math emphasizes the structure of mathematics (rather than isolated topics).

It also aims at eliminating topics that are relatively unimportant and introducing recent and important developments.

Fascinating subjects such as the science of probability—or chance and the binary system, used for computers today, are among studies touched upon.

ONE AND ONE always will equal two and every child is still going to have to learn his tables, but now, according to experts in the field, he'll have a better idea of just what it's all about.

In their opinion, traditional teaching fell short of the job. It confined itself too much to mechanical development of computational skills and failed to develop the student's problem-solving abilities.

This is why such things as sets, different number bases and simple algebraic equations are being written in grade-school texts, and why great care is being given in teaching processes like that of "carrying" in addition.

WHAT'S BEEN the reaction from the first Long Beach parents taught the new approach for kids?

A few commented on the lengthiness of working out solutions—wryly noting that the scratch-paper bill is bound to boom, but on the whole they were all for going modern. Mrs. Edward Hunt, a former college math major with two children in accelerated classes, did inter-ject a bit of doubt though. Her worry? That some of the concepts might be racing beyond the reasoning power of the age group where they're introduced.

"I feel that if I hadn't had time to work with my children, they might have become pretty confused," she said. She also felt dubious about the separation of children according to ability-wonders "those in advanced classes aren't being pushed too hard." (As it is, the seventh grades will have three different text books: One for the advanced, one for the average, one for the least arithmetically tal-

Mrs. Delfs took an opposite view, said "my chil-dren seem to be thriving on the new methods," feels giving the children with more math ability a chance to go further "makes lots of sense."

There's no doubt that there will be controversy about modern math for some time to come, But, there's also no doubt it's here to stay and that Long Beach schools are to be commended for getting out

Slam Gone

It always helps to be able to play the dummy well, but it really helps if you have overbid your hand.

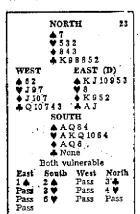

South's jump to six hearts was a perfect example of how to trap one's partner. North had to either pass at three hearts or watch his partner operate at six.

If West had opened a trump, South would have had no play for the slam, but West led the six of spades.

This gave South a chance to make the hand, but by trick three South had chucked it out the window. He took Fast's kine of spades with the ace, discarded a diamond on queen of spades and led a third spade. West ruffed and led back a trump and South's slam had vanished into thin air.

Had South just paused to think at trick two, he could have made the hand. The correct line of play would be to ruff a low spade, take the diamond finesse and lead another low spade.

SHOULD West fail to ruff, South would simply draw trumps and concede a diamond at the finish; Should West ruff. South would discard a diamond from dumbe to lead a trump, but South would now ruff a diamond with dummy's last trump, get back to his own hand by ruffing a club, draw trumps and spread his hand.

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Retired; She's Tired

DEAR ABBY: You burn me up! Wity do you always take the man's side when wives complain that their retired husbands won't leave them alone? You are greatly in the dark about the habits of retired husbands and how exasperating they can be. Why do you always go to bat for the man? I hope your husband retires and objects to your pecking away at the typewriter; that you never have a minute you can call your own, and that he will be underfoot every step you take. The retired husband who does absolutely nothing can drive his wife crazy. This is my problem. If I am gone 20 minutes, he comes looking for me. I am a wreck from my husband's retirement. Men who retire should not bury themselves alive, and expect their wives to inhabit the grave with them. Every woman needs a little aloneness. Why not give these lounge monarchs a little advice, too?—RETIRED MAN'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: So frequently have I advised retired men to volunteer their services to a worthwhile charity, to interest themselves in church work, civic affairs, politics, gardening, sports, and to make a few friends of their own so they won't be under their wives' feet from sunup 'til sundown, that I fear I have begun to sound like a broken record.

DEAR ABBY: I have always regretted not getting a college diploma. I started in the university, but I quit in my freshman year. I am now 33 years old, and I figured out that if I take courses three evenings a week it will take me eight years to get my diploma. And in eight years I will be 41 years old. Should I?— WANTS A DIPLOMA

DEAR ABBY: Last week somone poisoned our dog, and if a member of our family had died I don't think I could have felt worse, Our poor dog suffered for days, and we spent a lot of money on vets and buying him pills, only to lose him in the end. I think a pet poisoner should be tried for murder.-A DAILY

DEAR ABBY: I go with a widow. She is past 60 and so am I. I enjoy her company, but she has a terrible habit. She says she will enjoy them for breakfast, and since I am paying for the food served to us, she is entitled to I get very much annoyed, and have been tempted to walk out and leave her sitting there. Too Many Mothers for Seven-Year-Old

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I have a neighbor problem -an elderly woman who is very good to me but is constantly correcting my seven-year-old daughter, even when am with her. The child doesn't like this and I don't either, I did tell her the child objected but she said sometimes someone else can do more than the mother. She comes over quite often and I'm afraid my daughter will say something to make her

The child doesn't always obey me but that's my problem. I am alone-my marriage broke up recently—and I guess my neighbor thinks I need help raising the children, I would hate to make her angry because she is good and watches my children for me occasionally. I've told my girl to pay no attention to her-that she is old and doesn't know what to do with herself. I don't want to lose a good neighbor and I know she would be hurt if I told her right out how we feel about this. Do you have any suggestions? — CONFUSED AND WORRIED.

DEAR CONFUSED:

care, I think she is quite right in telling her what to do and what not to do; otherwise, it is strictly the mother's responsibility.

I am sure you could get the idea across by being very diplomatic and tactful - emphasizing that, for the good of the child, it is necessary that she be under the authority of only one person at a time,-M. M.

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I need advice. I am 21 years old and can't seem to keep a boy friend. On a date try to be nice and treat him like any boy would want to be treated. When my dates take me home they never say when they are coming back and sometimes it's three or four weeks before I see them again.

What is wrong?—LONE-LY GIRL.

DEAR LONELY GIRL: DEAR CONFUSED:

Perhaps if you explained hard to answer with no more information than you gave me. Discounting any personal faults you may have, perhaps you are trying too hard. And, I am not quite sure what you mean by "treating him like any boy would want to be treated." Perhaps if you stopped

Huntington Hartford Is Sold

Greek Theatre Association has purchased the Huntington Hartford Theater in Hollywood. The theater, considered one of the most beautiful and modern legitimate playhouses in the country, recently was offered for sale. A spokesman for the non-profit association said the purchase was made to preserve the property for Los Angeles as a theater. Other bidders were interested in razing it and erecting in its place office buildings or stores.

_The immediacy of the pur--chase has not permitted the formation of any definite plans for the use of the theater but James A. Doolittle, general director of the association, said: "We hope when we do reopen the theater we shall be able to present a continuing series of legitimate plays and musicals of the highest professional standards."

HE FEELS the theater is also ideally suited to the establishment of a repertory theater and is now giving consideration to this possibility.

Huntington Hartford originally acquired the theater in 1953 and reputedly spent over $2.5 million in the purchase and remodeling, making it a magnificently equipped and appointed playhouse.

Deriving from the second of these shows, as well as the exacting standards of observations set by instructors like Dick Swift and Dick Oden, is a proliferation of rather magnificant drawings.

By RACHEL MORTON

This afternoon at 5 o'clock, in the First Methodist Church of Long Beach, a special program is being given of Men-delssohn's "Elijah" by the Sanctuary and Youth Choirs, assisted by an orchestra of 30 members. The program is a tribute to Mr, and Mrs. the handle bars of his bi-Rolla Alford in recognition cycle. of their 50 years of service to music in Long Beach. Alford will conduct the performance and the soloists will be Robert Larsen, bass; the Bowl last summer with Rosalie Barker, soprano; Conthe New York Philharmonic, stance Hart, contralto, and Eugene Hall, tenor.

I am told that associates, pupils and friends of many years will be flocking to Long Beach to do homage to this man, Rolla Alford, who for many years has been the leader and inspiration of the best in music in Long Beach. Certainly we all owe him a deep debt of gratitude.

AS I HAVE looked over the press acclaim of his many musical accomplishments I am astonished that so great a man has lived so modestly among us. He be-gan the study of piano at the age of 6 and voice at the age of 12. When only 16 he was chosen director of the Glee Club of the YMCA in Winfield, Kan. He sang leading roles in several operates in his high school days.

Coming to Long Beach in 1914, he directed choirs in several churches here before becoming the music director of the First Methodist Church, a position he has held since 1924. His wife, who has been his invaluable assistant and accompanist, he met as a member of one of his Long Beach choirs and he laughingly relates how she used to go to rehearsals with him memorable performances of "The Messiah" by Handel in the Municipal Auditorium.

What's Emmy to Nominee?

By JOSEPH FINNIGAN

CLLYWOOD (UPI)—How valuable are television's Emmy awards? Do they help an actor's career? Will an Emmy save a faltering series from being tossed off the air?

There has been some evidence that an Oscar helps a winning movie. But so far nobody can say for certain that television's Emmy counterpart does the same for a series.

The Academy of Television Arts and Sciences, mother of the Emmy awards, airs the presentations 10 p.m. Monday on channel 4.

What does an Emmy nominee feel is the value of the nomination?

Richard Janssen, star of ABC-TV's "The Fugitive," is a nominee for best actor in a series.

"I think the only thing you should think about the award is that it is a compliment," he said. "You should not relate it to the future success of a show. An actor should do the best job he can and not work for an award."

It is not unusual for actors and shows which have been cancelled by the networks to be nominated for awards. It happened this year to Richard Boone, chief of an anthology series, and George C. Scott of "East Side/West Side." Both they and their shows are nominees—and worder cancellation. under cancellation.

IS THERE ANY RELATION between an Emmy award and a show's popularity with the mass of television viewers?

Some think there isn't.

Andy Williams, whose show is a nomince this year, said the award "gives performers, writers and produces an incentive to do something

But he disassociates Emmy from mass popufar appeal when he says, "This award is not a mass medium award. It's for the best show in a ctegory.

Eddie Montagne, producer of "McHale's Navy," a nominee for best comedy series, said Emmy winners are chosen by television academy members in major cities white a show's audience appeal might be in small towns spread across the nation.

"This is the second year we've been nominated," he said, "I think the nomination attraced attention to the show, That's basically what an award does."

It is difficult to measure a show's worth in terms of awards, he said.

"In smaller towns you'll find that viewers sometimes have no interest in shows that appeal to big cities."

JUNE LOCKHART, co-star of "Lassie," a onetime Emmy nominee herself and also a former secretary of the television academy, rated the award in terms of notoriety it gives a show.

"It's a momentary flash of publicity and netoriety that you can capitalize on," she said.

Recalling her own experience as a losing nominee some years back, she quipped, "From what happened to me, it's a good idea to get a nomination and you'll stay on the show six years.'

The general opinion among the stars and producers seemed to be that the viewing public and sponsors who pick up tabs for television shows aren't overly concerned with awards, When the glamor of an award ceremony passes, it's the rating game and audience potential that keeps a series on the air-Emmy or no Emmy.

Should Emmy Show Rate an Emmy?

By JACK GAVER

NEW YORK (UPI) - It is the hope of producer Bob Finkel that some year the telecast of the video industry's Emmy awards will be entertaining enough to be nominated for an Emmy,

Finkel has beefed up this year's awards telecast (10 p.m. Monday, channel 4) with ingredients as Reiner's clowning, a skit in-volving Dick Van Dyke and Mary Tyler Moore, leading lady of Van Dyke's weekly program, and a lampoon by the group that does "That Was The Week That Was."

In addition, there will be the contributions of comedian Joey Bishop, host of the Hollywood end of the program, and E. G. Marshall, of "The Defenders," who will host the New York portion.

"VIEWERS should not be asked to spend 90 minutes watching a group of people in evening dress hand each other statues," Finkel commented. "Don't misunderstand. The awards are still the prime reason for this affair. But between 'Thank you' and the other cliches, we'll try to get some laughs."

Finkel said Reiner will be joined in his spot by a veteran associate, comedy writer Mel Brooks, who is funnier as a performer than many actual comedians. The two have made a couple of bestselling record albums of a comedy nature, and their sub-ject for the Emmycast will be "Television --- 2,000 Years Ago."

"Carl told me he had figured out how they took ratings 2,000 years ago," said Finkel, "The fewer rocks people threw at you, the higher your rating."

The "TW3" group will have an offering called "That Was The Year That Was," which expose what television contributed to public knowl-

Bert's Eye View

MY CHOICE TO RECEIVE the Emmy for the "Program of the Year" is "The Making of the President-

An adaptation of Theodore H. White's Pulitzer Prizewinning book, the 90-minute television documentary is one of the most professional productions ever offered on video.

It's a prime example of how a documentary can incorporate the suspense of a drama although the outcome

"The Making of the President" is an education. Further, it is an educational television program which has escaped the wooden, stilted stigma of too many other video specials labeled as intellectual offerings.

It is a program readily understood by everyone from the sub-teens up.

First aired by ABC-TV (channel 7) last December, it will be repeated by that network at 9 p.m. on June 11.

By that time, it should have the Emmy for the "Program of the Year," another for top documentary and a third

It already has been named the Grand Prix winner at the Seventh International Television Film Festival in Cannes, France.

IN THE COMEDY FIELD, I look for the multi-Emmywinning "Dick Van Dyke Show" to repeat. It's a series which is consistently humorous.

In the variety category, my choice is "The Danny Kaye Show." Despite a few clinkers in its first season, this series basically retains the same high quality of Kaye's once-ayear specials. Kaye, himself, should also walk away with an Emmy for best variety-show performance,

For outstanding single performance by an actor in a leading role, I choose Roddy McDowall for his "Arrest and Trial" performance as a murderous psychotic.

1 would have preferred to select Jason Robards Jr. for his title portrayal in "Abe Lincoln in Illinois." It was a good performance, but I have seen him do better-The Iceman Cometli," for example.

As the outstanding actress in a leading role, I name Jeanette Nolan for her performance as an old woman politically victimized in "The Richard Boone Show," presentation of "Vote No on 11."

THE "ACTOR IN A SERIES" category presents a prob-There are four nominees from dramatic series and one, Dick Van Dyke, from a situation comedy.

In past years, "The Dick Van Dyke Show" has collected so many Emmy awards, it takes a statistician to keep count. The title star, however, never received an Emmy

It is an injustice that a comedian is classified with serious actors. But it is high time that the members of the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences recognize the outstanding talents of this comedian, despite categories.

My choice for the "Actors in a Series" Emmy is Dick

Van Dyke. I would have liked to select Richard Boone had Van Dkye been nominated elsewhere.

Paradoxically, the category conflict is not encountered in the "Actress in a Series" nominations. All the nominees are from situation comedies.

My choice is Inger Stevens, a fine dramatic actress who has capably demonstrated she is equally adept in the field of situation comedy.

"AND JAMES WAS A Very Small Snait," a "Breaking Point" presentation, should win the original drama writing award for Allan Sloane. For the best adaption, my ballot goes to Robert Hartung for "The Patriots," presented by "Hallmark Hall of Fame." Carl Reiner should repeat win in comedy writing for his "Dick Van Dyke Show."

The best dramatic series in my actions in the appealed.

The best dramatic series, in my opinion, is the cancelled "Richard Boone Show." In the musical field, "Telephone Hour" deserves the nod. "Science All Stars," a newcomer Hour" deserves the nod. "Science All Stars," a newcomer this season, should top the children's programming category. Well, there they are. How close my choice will tally with the final results is anybody's guess. Speaking of guessing, why don't you try? You've got nothing to lose and you might surprise yourself by how close you come.

edge and culture in the past

"I TOLD THEM that they could go the limit, with no holds barred," Finkel added.

"I haven't seen the complete script for this yet, but I know that, with virtually all of the top executives of television as a captive audience, the 'TW3' people are going to let us have it. Any video personalities who are too thin-skinned to take a ribbing should just forget the date of the awards."

Van Dyke and Miss Moore

will do a bit in which he is "Oscar" and she is "Emmy. They will debate the relative merits of the motion picture and television industries.

Finkel admitted that this might be a touchy item, suggesting rivalry between the two organizations that dispense the Oscar and Emmy awards. He refused to be drawn into comment on the critical reception of the recently telecast Oscar awards show, which some criticized as lacking "entertainment

Goodson-Todman Run Game-Show Factory

By JOAN CROSBY

NEW YORK (NEA) — At first glance, the people piling into the conference room look like a group of advertising agency executives about to run an idea up a flagpole to see if anyone salutes,

Then they all sit down and start to play games.

The conference room is located in the offices of Goodson-Todman, the game show factory which spews out television panel shows with the passion and single-mindedness of a Gabor collecting diamonds,

Presently there are seven separate G-T afternoon shows, good for 35 programs a week, plus five evening shows, for a grand total of 20 hours of television weekly. Each of these shows uses a master of ceremonies, and most of them average four panelists, which means G-T employs approximately 50 personalities a week on camera.

On the theory that the public can look at some sets of smiling teeth just so often, G.T. with What's My Line's associate producer Bob Bach in charge, has set up a series of weekly celebrity auditions to find new gamesters.

THE PEOPLE who audition range from opera star Blanche Thebom through Darryl Hickman, presently staring on Broadway in "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying," to Robert Earle, the host of College Bowl. If the candidates seem promising they are asked back a second time. If they still seem promising, they are spotted on a G-T show.

On one particular afternoon Stanley Prager, the former actor who is now producing The Patty Duke Show, comic Mickey Freeman, Johnny Andrews, a pioneer of early television, and Anne Meara, of the comedy team of Stiller and Meara, are auditioning their game potentials.

Among those watching are Ira Skutch and Jack Farren, who produce Missing Links and Get the Message, respectively, and Chris Carroll, who casts Password. Bob Bach is running the show.

As the would-be panelists play the games, the onlookers react as an audience would.

PASSWORD is first on the schedule. The word "shopping" comes up.

"It's a tough one, if you get it in six tries, it'll be good," Bach says. Prager gets it in two. "Let's play for a little money," he suggests.

"Agent" is the Password. "Is 10 per cent two words?" Freeman cracks.

Get the Message is next. "We didn't do well because our contestant was stupid," Prager said, when three rounds were completed. Bach, who had guessed all the messages, asks "Where's my money?"

What's My Line? is next. Bach picks an occupation out of a pile, saying "What'il I be?" Prager suggests "Let him be himself. I've never known what he really does." The category Bob picks is shown to the audience: "Onion Grower." The panel gets to work and quickly establishes the fact that they are looking for a vegetable.

They get bogged down when someone asks if it's a green vegetable. Bach, after consulting John Daley (he is playing that part, too), says "yes."

"Could we sit here now and comfortably eat this yenetable?" Freeman asks.

vegetable?" Freeman asks.
"Not me," Prager says. "I just had lunch."

The panel never guesses the occupation because they become mired in a green vegetable response. When Bach announces his "occupation," Prager jumps up.

"Onions are yellow. I know it's only a game, but would you please step outside?"

"So you say you perform a public service, right?"

'River Nile' Repeat

Winner of an Internation Film Festival top award, "The River Nile," will be repeat telecast at 10 p.m. today (Sunday) on channel 4 in COLOR.

GARY CONWAY AND WIFE MARIAN . . . Beautiful Service

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) - For almost every ex-Miss America there is some fortunate guy who can claim proxy to the title of Mr. America through marriage.

Usually this is as close as he comes to fame. An excepne comes to lame. An exception is a handsome young fella named Gary Conway who plays police detective Tim Tilson on ABC-TV's "Burke's Law."

He's a celebrity in his own right, despite the fact that Mrs. Conway was Marian Mc-Knight, Miss America of 1957 and one of the most beautiful beauty contestants ever to grace a bathing suit. The pair have a 2-year-old daughter, Kathleen.

The question that comes to mind with Conway, and presumably with the spouses of other Misses America, is: What's it like to be married to the most beautiful specimen of the female tribe?

Great, says Conway.

"I ALWAYS feel flattered when people appreciate Marian's beauty," he said without a trace of husbandly jealousy.

We've been married more than five years, and you become accustomed to having people starc at your wife. They may not know who she is, but they know a pretty girl when they see one." So does Gary.

When Conway and his Miss

"That was long before I became an actor," he grinned. I was such a non-entity even my teachers didn't know me.

"BUT THAT didn't make any difference to Marian. We were married in 1958 when I was still as obscure as a man could be. I'll never be able to say that she married me for anything but myself. I didn't have any money, and my prospects weren't too bright."

When they were newlyweds when they were newlyweds Conway remained on the fringes of the spotlight focused on his wife. Now, however, Gary has come into his own as the co-star of "Burke's Law" and finds the

"Burke's Law" and thus the situation reversed.
"Marian doesn't miss the receding limelight," he said.
"She never did care for it."

Conway continues to paint in his spare time, Marian appears in television commerclals to fatten the family larder.

The actor does not bear even a faint resemblance to the smart alcc detective he portrays on the ABC-TV series. He's quiet, studious and endowed with a sense of

"I guess the most attention I received by being the husband of a Miss America was during my tour in the Army,"

"My buddies were really impressed. And so were the officers. I was a hero to them, but things were different when I became a civilian again, I turned to acting and nothing has been quite the same since."

Could you please inform all us long-time followers of "As the World Turns" the REAL reason Eileen Fulton (as Lissa) is being written out of the story? It is quite evident the writers are stalling with a not-too-convincing episode of her abrupt and mysterious disappearance.

"Lissa" can stay lost! BUT you owe us an honest answer to what actual cause for Eileen Fulton's non-appearance

Mrs. B. Ray, Long Beach

CBS public relations spokesman who provided information for your ananswer, Mrs. Ray, resents your "stalling" accusations.

Claims a writer can write any way he wants to as long as it's within the bounds of decency. Claims serial writers have before written in or written out characters simply because the authors found that was the direction the story was going.

As for Eileen Fulton. Her appearances in the daytime serial led to her being signed for two Broadway productions, both of which she's in currently.

She's too busy making less money to appear on "As the World Turns." Honestly.

After reading the letter Mrs. Brown of Long Beach wrote about Lissa in "The World Turns," I want to tell you how many, many women I know who watch it feel.

Quote:
"If Bob takes Lissa back, we will all stop watching it."

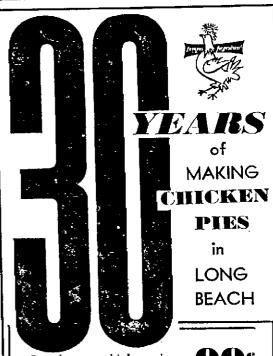

No one seems to look at his side of the story, Further-more, it is not a true-to-life story. After all a mother does not take such a firm stand against her son or daughter as Nancy has in true life.

Mrs. Burke, Long Beach As of this date, Mrs.

Burke, there are plans to bring Lissa back to the script. I don't know what

I do know what I'd like to do about it. Stop the world-I want to get off.

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) there were more people like Meredith Willson in show biz it would make for a happier way of life and would certainly be a boon for the frombone manufacturers.

CBS-TV, sensing Willson's wonderfully whoesome personality, has signed him for three hour-long specials this summer, two in June and one in July.

Famed for his recent Broadway hits — "The Music Man," "The Unsinkable Molly Brown" and "Here's Love" -Willson is busy writing new songs for the TV shows. More importantly, however, the public will get a clear view of the man himself.

The gray-haired pride of Mason City, Jowa, will act as master of ceremonies. He'll also do some singing and entertaining on his own.

Unlike the smooth perfec-tionists that usually blind televiewers with toothpaste smiles and glib patter, Will-son has an old-shoe, hick quality that is at once en-gaging. It shows in his musical hits.

A FORMER piccolo player for the old, old John Philip Sousa Band, Willson is still a nut for marches.

Sitting in the plush den of his Bel-Air home, the Music Man jumped up from a chair, dashed to the piano and plunked away on a new march he is writing for the Air Force Academy, His enthusiasm erased any vestige of ham-bone.

But a ham he is. Few com-poser-musicians since George M. Cohan enjoy an audience as much as Willson.

He and his beautiful wife, Rini, hit the road for personal appearances every year billed as "An Evening with Meredith Willson." It's a hodge-podge of entertainment and musical lecturing with a healthy dose of songs from Willson's works.

RINI has a splendid voice and Willson suffers from the illusion that he also is a singer. If the results aren't disastrous, neither are they a threat to Frank Sinatra.

"I like an audience," Willson said. "It gives me an opportunity to use some of the devices I learned from the masters — the timing of the Marx Brothers, Fanney Brice and George Burns.

You might say I'm a secret performer. I act out whatever I'm writing as I go along. And when I'm composing, sometimes I call Rini in and sing the music for her." Unfortunately for Rini, her hushand gets carried away with his work, often com-posing long into the night.

Southland

Southland sailing waters become a riot of color when boats of the midget ocean sailing class unfurl their spinnakers. Part of this zestful fleet is caught on Southland's cover today as sails take in some of the blast of famed "Hurricane Gulch." A gaudy yellow Thunderbird leads the pack, its red and yellow canvas ballooning with its fill of wind. Following closely are Cal 30s, in variety. "Hurricane Guich," in the shadow of San Pedro Hill, offers sailoring guys and gals. spritely breezes, even when other nearby waters offer nothing but calm. Time was when the sea offered little more than hard work, providing sport for only a sturdy few. But the mood has changed and whole families now turn to the water for recreation. Man and Nature have conspired to bring about a beauty spot in world culture, set in the soft clime of the Southern California coastal plain. It is the Huntington Library and Art Gallery in San Marino. There is represented, in abundance, some of man's best in works of art and literature. And there abounds beauty of garden and landscape. Rare volumes and papers, too, are there for the researcher. Russ Leadabrand tells about this famous institution next Sunday in "The Library That Huntington Built."

SOUTHERN California may be a great place to live, but...

Southland living, a siren call for more than 2,000 persons each month, costs the average family residing here $115 a week, far more than the average income in many states.7

The U.S. Department of Labor has just completed a detailed two-year study of consumer expenses and income in Orange and Los Angeles Counties.

The pocketbook profile proves that Southlanders prefer la dolce vita (the sweet life) and are willing to fork out shekkels for it.

While well-heeled, it still appears to be a securityminded, paycheck - to - paycheck kind of existence.

BESIDES THE $6,000 outof-pocket cost of living expenses (housing, food, heat-ing, etc.), the average South-ern California family also gives $296 to charity, spends $315 for insurance and retirement and pays $841 in income and personal taxes.

They are able to save only $107.

The survey revealed that while annual expenditures for current consumption have increased 44.3 per cent since 1950, the allocation of the "living loot" has been altered.

While (at the outbreak of the Korean War) the average Southland family set aside nearly 30 per cent for food and beverages, they now spend less than 25 per cent. Costs of shelter has taken up the savings, rising in the 10-year period from 14.4 per cent to nearly 18 per cent.

THE COST of driving and owning a car has also risen from 14.8 to 15.2 per cent, partly, the government says, because the percentage of families owning autos rose in 72.10 84 per that decade from 72 to 84 per

Medical and personal care costs have spiraled upwards in the family budget ledger,

Three of every four Southern California families now have medical care insurance of some type.

*Median annual income per family, for instance, in Texas is $4,884 and in Kansas, $5,296. Both are prospering. economically sound states. The annual per family income for the entire U. S., according to the Department of Commerce.

Southern California attracts as a living area but forces many families to carefully check their money.

The High Cost of Chivalry

By-Lana C. Phelan

CCTVE'VE LOST everything. The price is too high," states Hughleen Johnston, and tears spring un-bidden to her soft eyes.

This story has been written many times and many ways. Eugene Johnston, 46, a salesman of electric components in Orange County, was a man who did not hesitate to get himself "involved" when he saw a crime being committed. on Oct. 19, 1963, outside a bar in Anaheim, Donald Wray Shoesmith, 46, savagely attacked his estranged wife, Alice Jane. Mrs. Shoesmith screamed for help, Johnston, a patron at the bar, tried to pull the raging assailant from his victim. Failing in this, he ran to his car and got his small .22 caliber pistel in an attempt to make a citizen's arrest. Shoesmith, blind with fury, attacked Johnston, and in the ensuing struggle, Shoesmith was fatally wounded. There were many witnesses, but no one offered to aid Johnston.

JOHNSTON was held on a charge of voluntary man-slaughter. He was found guilty by a jury of 12 in Santa Ana Superior Court on April 7, 1964. Judge Robert Kneeland, before passing sentence, stated: 'This is one of the most difficult cases I have ever had to rule on. I am sure you acted with high motives in what you did . . . whether from poor judgment or whatever . . . you were found guilty by 12 people in the community. But there must be some protest registered by society for what you did." Judge Kneeland ruled sympatheti-cally that Johnston would be allowed to work during the week, returning to the jail at nights and during the weekends, for six months.

There were gasps of consternation from an unbelieving public. Comfort was taken by the more conscience-stricken members of society in the fact that Johnston would be allowed to continue working, and six months was a com-paratively short time,

JOHNSTON has been in Theo, Lacey County Jail in Orange County for more than a month now. The cost of Johnston's chivalry was re-vealed in a visit with his wife, Hughleen, Mrs. Johnston disclosed these revealing statistics of the real price the Johnstons' are paying for the "protest registered by society for what you did."

Hughleen Johnston, petite and pretty, tucked her small son and daughter, ages 5 and 7, into bed before telling her story. They do not know yet where their father is. He is "on a trip." Since Johnston is a salesman, and has been gone at intervals before, the children have accepted this for the time being. Sympathetic neighbors have helped to tighten the cordon of pro-tective silence around the little boy and girl.

THE JOHNSTON home is located in an upper middle-class tract. It is the kind of home that American women dream of — beautifully land-scaped, well arranged, ade-quate living space, tastefully decorated, neatly and immaculately kept.

Hughleen sat on the edge of her husband's big chair, soon to be sold for a fraction of its value,

"It happened on Oct. 19, 1963. They told me Gene had killed someone, I don't re-member much. I knew it couldn't be true. I kept saying, 'What are we going to do?' I don't drive a car. I had to buy a newspaper to find out what had happened. No one would tell me anything. I finally got an attorney who could get in to see my hus-band. We needed $1,000 to retain Gene's attorney. We still owe him $2,000 more. I gave him the papers on this house as security to help defend Gene, Our small savings didn't last very long. We sold our boat for $450 on a quick sale, all our camping equipment, Gene's electric drill, his precious tools . . . everything we could get our hands on."

SHE INDICATED the furnishings around her with a sweep of her hand. "Most of these things are sold. The children's beds are sold, too. Gene's company paid his sal-ary through Nov. 1, but they couldn't keep him on too long as they were a small company.

"Gene got out on bail on Nov. 22. I'll never forget it. It was the day the President was murdered. We felt we were dying too. A neighbor brought us $350 to partially pay the bondsman, We owe him $400 more, Gene applied for his unemployment compen-sation. The state made us wait five weeks as a penalty. The church brought us a turkey at Christmas."

She paused, fighting for self-control. "We had his un-employment money, and we kept selling things, but there wasn't enough. We still felt Gene had done the right thing before God and man, and that the court would clear him. We were stunned by the guilty

"GENE WENT into county jail in April. I asked everyone I could find to help him find a job in the hours he could work. A salesman needs to work all hours. We have no family to turn to for financial help. We are all on our own, Gene has located a temporary job, and we are so grateful for it, I have been getting a check from the company for from $50 to $60 a week, whatever is left over after Gene pays the $3 a day room and board to the county for every day he works. I just pray constantly that this job will last. Gene is not allowed to see the children or me at all during his work hours.

When You Go After That Job...

By Dick Westermann

APPEARANCE COUNTS! If advertising agencies can spend millions of dollars on art work and suggested packaging for a box of soap, you can invest a few minutes of your time to look your best for an employment interview.

Smile. After 20 years behind an employment agency desk, I still am astonished at applicants who come in looking for jobs with expressions that suggest they are headed up the final 13 steps of Death Row.

A job is the beginning, not the end! It should be synonymous with attainment, recognition, security and success. Don't get "job hunter's jitters." Stay cool.

IF YOU ARE a girl seeking an office job, wear a simple tailored dress or suit, hat, hose and gloves. Hair should be well groomed, makeup fresh but not overdone, little or no perfume. Nails should be polished. Be certain that your slip does not show. Do not smoke or chew gum in an employment interview.

If you are an office or technical man, remember to be clean shaven with a trim hairPersonnel

How not to apply for that job. Tip: Leave bubble gum, tight sweaters, spike heels and cigarettes at home.

cut. Suit should be pressed, shoes freshly shined, tie spotless, Beards are "out," Don't smoke or chew gum.

If you are a factory girl, the standard costume is capris, blouse, flat shoes and cardi-gan sweater. If you are slim, the sweater may be striped. If you are on the plump side, the sweater should be one color.

IF YOU ARE a factory man,, apply in denims, jeans, slacks and a sport shirt.

Remember that an application for employment is important. Many employers seeking perhaps 10 girls and 10 men must interview more than 100 of each, then take not the most promising applicants but those with patience enough to fill out the detailed application blanks.

Twenty per cent of the applicants give up before finishing the application and walk out muttering, "There must be an easier way."

There isn't-not if you want the job.

Prepare a record of your education and experience in advance, with names of persons you may use as references. If possible, have a pastor, priest or rabbi and a professional person among your references. These people are considered reliable by most executives who do the hiring. Also they understand personnel terminology.

A LETTER of recommendation from a past employer adds weight to an application.

If you have not been employed previously, a letter from your school principal is desirable.

Look upon an interview for employment with anticipation, rather than with nervous tension. It separates the sheep from the goats.

As you hand in your appli-cation, say clearly "I am Jane Cornell" or "I am Jack Rad-

Name the kind of craft and there'll be one around somewhere, running before the wind and chasing the spray on a breezy weekend. It's a way to shake off the hustle-bustle of modern life and relax, as these sailors are doing to the Salt and Spray

By Dave Taylor

NCE MEN went down to the sea in ships for their living, and only for their living.

Today, thousands of Southern Californians turn to the sea to escape from living—from the pace of modern life, that is

Down the full length of the Pacific Coast, in fact, whole families scramble aboard sail boats, motor hoats, or any other likely craft that will stay afloat for a weekend, a day, or just a couple of hours, and put as much water between them and the pressures they've left ashore as possible.

TELEPHONES have been invented, skyscrapers and freeways have been built, electric lights have been turned on, there are two cars in the ga-rage-and now that all these things are accomplished, people want to get as far away from them as possible.

Escape lies just beyond the beach, at a placeany place-where there is nothing the eye can see but sunshine, open water—and other boats.
And there are plenty of those.

Hoisted, parked, or afloat in just the area from San Pedro to Newport Beach there are more than 14,000 privately owned water craft of every description, ranging in length from eight to more than

Even with mooring fast becoming a greater problem on the water than parking in downtown Los Angeles as dock and slip space becomes more scarce, the number of boats continues to increase

THE LARGER percentage of these are sailboats in the family style classes ranging from eight to 20 feet and of the inside bay, or closed water, sailing type, and from 20 to 30 footers in the midget ocean racing classes.

Many families now are two and even threeboat groups with the kids cruising around the quiet bay in dinghys, Sabots and Lidos, while mom and dad are adventuring beyond the breakwater aboard the larger family boat.

These excursions may be anything from just an afternoon family sail to a small casual yacht club race, or a major contest involving entries from several clubs with coveted perpetual trophies at

Boats flying the banners of yacht clubs from Santa Barbara to San Diego made up the fleet of 847 craft of every size and type that sailed this year's annual Southern California Yachting Association Mid-Winter Regatta—the world's largest winter sailing contest-at Los Angeles and Long Beach Harbors in February.

THE RECENT Newport Beach to Ensenada race, held early this month, made the 125-mile open water voyage with a record armada of 420 hoats water toyage with a 10 feet to 100 feet. The Ensenada classic is the most popular of the international yachting events, and yearly participation is steadily rising.

Though membership in a yacht club may not be necessary for enjoyment of one's weekend boating, the clubs do offer the advantages of planned, supervised racing, and social contact with like-minded nautical types. Belonging to a yacht club, once a pretty exclusive deal, is about as natural today as going to a bowling alley, and no less than 21 SCYA affiliated clubs are currently going strong in just the San Pedro to Newport Beach area.

The big revolution in boating in recent years has been from wood to fiberglass hulls which are cheaper, often more attractive, and much easier to maintain. Where wooden hulls obligated the yachtsman to a day of work on his boat for every day of sailing, the new glass hulls require only about a day of work for a month of use.

EVEN FOR SOME of the more serious of the yachting fraternity, after bigger things than just a Sunday cruise around the harbor, fiberglass has come into its own. Manufacturers are now producing glass boats as large as 40 feet capable of considerable range under most sailing conditions. And, while there are those among the old guard purists who still insist that wood is the only decent, the only gentlemanly thing to build a boat of, it begins to look like fiberglass is here to stay.

Real enthusiasts don't seem to mind working on their boat so long as they don't become a slave to it. It's part of the sport, and most owners seem to look forward to the puttering they can do aboard the boat on non-sailing days, and to enjoy keeping it clean and in top shape.

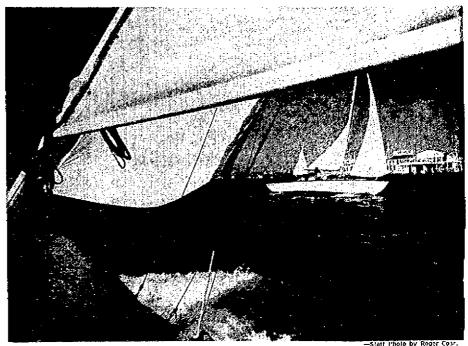

"It gives you a feeling of satisfaction in doing a whole job," one owner explains. "At work my job is just part of a much bigger job. There I can never have the feeling of looking at something that I've done by myself from start to finish—something that's all my own. On my boat I do everything—cleaning, painting, mending and sailing, That's something I can do that is mine."

OF COURSE, the larger ocean racing yachts from 40 to more than 100 feet require nearly fulltime attention the year around to stay in condition for the big open sea races and long-range cruises.

Then the day approaches for a big race Word goes out through the "grapevine" that crews are needed, and experienced sailing hands-many of (Continued on Page 34)

Grace and beauty are the marks of the sailing yacht and the quiet peace aboard is a refuge from the daily grind. And the motor sailors find their happy cruising, too.

Mud Flat Days in San Pedro

By Maymie R. Krythe

Only a true visionary would ever have been able to foresee vast development of Long Beach-Los Angeles Harbor that had its beginning in the mud flats of San Pedro. Above, Timms' Landing, San Pedro, in 1860s.

F CAPT. SHALER of the Leila Byrd, who dropped anchor in San Pedro Bay in 1805 and started the smuggling trade with early Californians, or Richard Henry Dana, who first saw the bay in 1835 from the Pilgrim, could return to these shores, they'd be astounded. For such seafarers never dreamed that the greatest man-made harbor in the world would some day arise from the San Pedro mud flats and that a lively shipbuilding industry would be established there.

It's interesting to recall that the first ocean-going-craft was built here by a New Englander, Joseph Chapman. While in the Sandwich Islands (Hawaiian) he had been shanghaied by pirates and finally landed on the California coast. He got into the good graces of the Californians through his ability as a "Jack of All Trades."

On Christmas Eve, the 60-ton brig Danube had been wrecked at San Pedro Bay. The crew then enjoyed a holiday feast in Los Angeles. Later, pieces of the brig were taken to San Gabriel Mission, where the clever Yankee, Chapman, made replicas, Indians took the parts down to the Bay, where they were reassembled. The launching of the Guadelupe, named for Mexico's patron saint, was a gay affair, with bonfires, feasting, and horse racing on the beach. The small boat was used for several years in the otter trade off the shores of Southern California; but it finally came to an end during a heavy storm.

ABEL STEARNS was one of the shrewd Yankees who reached the Southland in the pre-American per-iod; he became a Mexican citizen, married beautiful young Arcadia Bandini, acquired great land holdings, including Rancho Los Alamitos, and from his Casa de San Pedro on the Bay practically controlled the hide and tallow trade for years! He built a small ship, named for his wife, Ar-

In early days when ships came down from the north, or around the Horn, they had to anchor near Deadman's Island in the open roadstead, because of the heavy storms that often swept over San Pedro, Bay. Passengers and freight were rowed ashore in small boats, manned by the

However, after an energetic young man from Wilmington, Del., Phineas Banning, reached the area in 1851, just after California had entered the Union, he changed the picture at the bay. He soon built up a fleet of small steamers and lighters to serve the passenger and freight trade. Then he established stagecoaches to convey travelers to Los Angeles, while his freight wagons conveyed much needed goods to the city.

Among the little steamers used in servicing incoming or outgoing ships, Banning had the Clara, Comet and the Ada Hancock. The last was named for the daughter of his good friend, Union Gen. Winfield Scott Hancock. Unfortunately, the holler of the Ada Hancock blew up; several persons were killed and others hurt. The steamer was taking passengers out to the Senator, bound for San Francisco. Both Banning and his wife were in-jured. This was judged "an act of God" at the inquest and Banning was not blamed, as such accidents were not unusual in those days.

IN SAN FRANCISCO, Banning bought, for $22,000, the Cricket-98 feet long. Since it drew only 21/2 feet of water, it could get over the sand-bar in the Wilmington Channel. It was the fastest of her type on the coast, and Banning was quite proud of her. However, he became very in-dignant when an Easterner made these disparaging remarks about the Cricket in a newspaper article:

"It is so small that its upper deck was reserved for the ladies, and men passengers stood around the hoiler on the lower deck, surveying the beautifull scenery—mud flats, sandbars, seaweed, and seals basking in the sun, while the little Cricket crept up the shallow water of the slough."

.In spite of such remarks the Cricket did play an important part in local shipping and carried many distinguished persons, including U. S. Congressmen, governors, railway tycoons, and Army officers. Banning never lost a chance to take such visitors around the bay and explain the need for a sheltered harbor.

One day there was excitement on the Crick(The sheriff was taking a man named Cerradel for imprisonment at San Quentin. Since he had killed another man, John Rains, many thought he had received too light a sentence. Some men came aboard, took Cerradel from the officer, hanged him, and then after weighting his body with stones, dropped it into the channel.

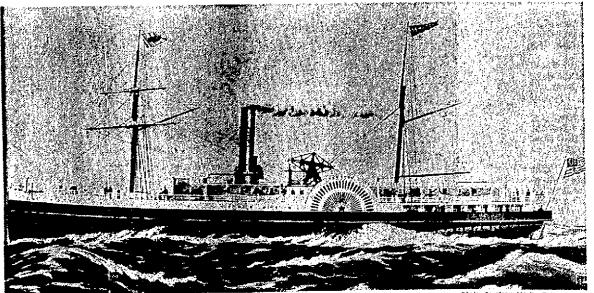

BANNING STARTED a shipyard at San Pedro Bay and in 1869 launched the first steamer ever built there. the Los Angeles, a vessel somewhat larger than the Cricket. The craft was christened with great ceremony, and was used for many years as a lighter. Once, when the grandfather of the late Gen, George Patton, Den Benito Wilson, a close friend of Banning, was being taken to the Orizaba, en route to San Francisco, the Drum Barracks band played on the Los Angeles in his

The steamer that always stirred interest when it came in and out of the bay was the Senator. Built in the East, she had come around the Horn for use on the Sacramento River during Gold Rush days. Later, she was used as a constwise vessel between San Francisco, San Pedro Bay and San Diego. Since the overland stage route was rough, most travelers preferred using the Senator. It had "large and airy rooms," "a ladies' salon" and "a bridal chamber." After many years of service, she was changed to a barkentine, her engines were taken out; and after being towed across the Pacific she served in New Zealand as a coal barge, an unhappy ending for 50 proud a ship.

Since ships came into the bay from many parts of the world, and there was a busy coastwise trade, Wilmington, founded by Banning in 1858, was a lively place. The main hotel, named the Wilmington Exchange, was a popular meeting place for sailors and many other types, including ranchers, etc. Naturally, fights often occurred.

One day a sailor, Cliff Wilson, drank too much, then "put into Wilmington under full sail." He tied a horse to the railing of the small post office and went to another saloon. When he remounted, Cliff "forgot to heave up his anchor." Result, he pulled down the porch and caused some injuries to the town barber.

So during those far-off days, when ships and shipping were in their early stages at San Pedro Bay, life was exciting, even though people of those times had no idea of what the harbor would be like a century later.

Proud steamer in the coastwise trade and a frequent caller of San Pedro Bay, the Senator finally came to a lowly finish, completing her seagoing career as a coal barge in New Zealand. In her day she carried many noted persons

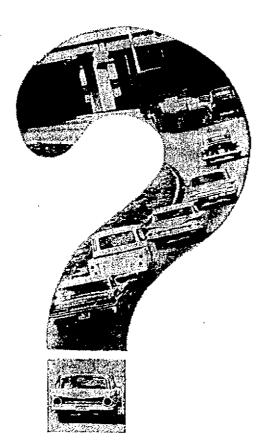

HE TIME is 5 p.m. Thousands of the 2½-3 million people who use the Los Angeles area freeways every 24 hours are swarming homeward and Joe Doe, who lives in, say, Nebraska, is on the last leg of his journey to visit cousin Weldon in Glendale. Joe is tired. His wife is snapping at him. The kids are whining. The California sunshine Joe has heard so much about is glaring smack dab into his eyes. He reads the signs clearly enough—"Bakersfield, Hollywood, Glendale" — but he doesn't realize he has missed his cue sign a mile and a quarter earlier. Now he is trapped in one of the middle lanes.

Glancing into his rear-vision mirror, Joe sees that a following car is almost nipping his rear bumper. Others are swishing past on both sides. He tries moving to a right-hand iane. No luck. The swirling maelstrom is as fixed as the sun, but Joe knows that if he misses the turnoff he may be shunted miles out of his way and no telling how long it will take to find his way back.

Suddenly, in desperation, he looks closely at the triangular dividing point immediately in front of him. Some thoughtful soul has put almost the equivalent of an extra lane there! He squeezes over and into the Glendale turnoff. From there on it's a cinch. The signs guide him to the street exit he wants and, a little shaken but happy, Joe is at long last united with cousin Weldon.

IN BYGONE DAYS Joe as well as all other travelers would have been in the right-hand lane. There was no other right place to be, but according to a study made by the Traffic Department of the California Division of Highways, Joe is not the only one who needs today's thoughtful planning and efficient signing. Human error invariably increases when a problem is unexpected so the signs must tell that motorist where he is in order to know when to expect some change. They must do it almost instantly. And they must serve effectively despite another limiting factor; the use of the freeways by several different classes of travelers.

More than 5½ million tourists and at least 36,000 new families come into the Los Angeles area annually. They need one kind of information. Another kind is needed for a large portion of the 6½ million permanent residents of this urban complex which sprawls over 4,000 square miles and includes at least 85 individual cities. Satisfying all of these requirements is quite a job.

"Part of our problem would be solved if people realized that there is a definite pattern to signing," says Frank Lew, assistant district engineer. "But," he adds, "constant research is needed to keep pace with increasing speeds."

■ IGNS INVOLVING decisions as well as orientation are another target for study and improvement. One mile is now a desirable distance for the first indication of a turnoff. The average driver actually needs 800 feet in which to read a sign and make a decision. He needs one inch of letter height for each 50-75 feet of distance between himself and the sign when traveling at freeway speeds. This establishes the present height of letters at 12 inches instead of 10 inches used on earlier freeways. Caps and lowercase letters have been found to be more readable than a message all in capital letters. Wherever possible, the message is now limited to one designation. More than three is virtually useless.

Signs leading to and from freeways presently leave something to be desired. The problem is complicated by variations in available rights-of-way which in turn necessitate a multitude of different designs for interchanges, entrances and exits. The signing must be customized to fit prevailing conditions. If it is not wholly adequate, it will improve. The traffic department is working on it whether it be to tell us where we are or how to get where we want to go, it all takes a lot of signs.

ASIDE FROM SHEER volume, 67,642 in 1963, signs must all be adequately illuminated and weatherproofed. All are expensive. Nearly $2 million was earmarked for signs last year. A single-message unit such as we see at some exits or dividing points costs about $6,000. Larger ones bearing two or more designations cost $7,000. Major units that bridge the entire width of a freeway cost a minimum of $12,000.

Regardless of costly requirements, the traveler must be alerted to the hypnotic sameness of the whole course of a freeway. He must know where he is at all times in order to make intelligent decisions. The tall, skinny palm tree in front of the white ranch house is no longer a familiar guide. More than likely it has been bulldozed away along with most of the ranch. In the days when rose trellises and orange groves fringed many Southern California highways, motorists chugged up to a friendly signpost bearing half a dozen designations and stopped for a leisurely inspection.

But this is the era of the slick package. Speed, convenience and simplicity are all part of the parcel and the signs on our freeways are strictly conformists—sleek symbols of our accelerated way of life.

PARNELLI JONES AND INDIANAPOLIS CLASSIC

The Thinking Man's Daredevil

By Rich Roberts

THE TYPICAL auto racing driver is a cocky sort of rogue with no more future than the next turn.

He's ready, willing and eager to drive anything with wheels into oblivion. His one objective in life is a checkered flag and he knows only one way to live-with his foot on the floorboard, death in his eyes, a roar in his ears and malice in his heart for anyone who gets in his way.

Then you have Rufus Parnelli Jones, who somehow overcame a lack of those qualities to reign as champion of the Indianapolis 500-mile Memorial Day classic,

"As many races as you run you never learn everything. says Jones, who is Rufus to his close friends and Parnelli to racing fans everywhere.

SOFT-SPOKEN and quite mellowed considering his bold profession and 30 years of age, Parnelli recalls the days he put his career in gear on the jalopy tracks around his Torrance home,

"It was exciting and fun, but I really had more bravery than common sense, I used to crack up a lot. Then I learned that it didn't take guts as much as it did ability, As soon as I learned that I started winning."

Jones must rate as the standard bearer for the conventional type of Indianapolis roadster with the engine up front against the growing challenge of lightweight, rearengined models developed on the European Grand Prix circuit.

World champion Jimmy

Parnelli Jones, auto racing veteran and champion, learned early in his speed career that ability was more important than bravery in race driving.

Clark of Scotland drove his waspish Lotus Ford to second place at Indianapolis last year, chasing Jones to a record victory. And Clark would have won if Jones had been disqualified for leaking oil.

JONES' own sponsor, Southern California sportsman and national auto racing figure J. C. Agajanian, built a lightweight car with a powerstandard Offenhauser mounted sternward to meet the challenge this year, but Parnelli isn't sure it's the an-

one can do, and with modifi-cations it will do even better," he says, "The new one looks real good and has a lot of good ideas in it, but you can go too far on this light weight business. You can get so light that the car just might break up on you. We should try to build them light and keep them safe, too."

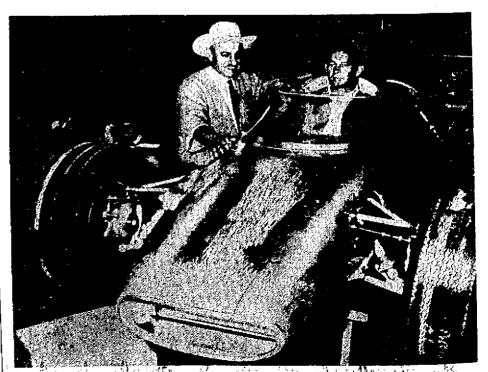

It was Jones' instinct for safety first that justified In-dianapolis officials in allowing him to continue when his brakes went out while he was leading the 1962 race - the year he became the first man to turn a lap of the historic track at 150 m.p.h. But, forced to ease up behind slower cars, he steadily lost ground as veteran Rodger Ward came on

"ACTUALLY, the greatest chance I had to win the year before—my first year there," he says, 'They had drilled safety and tire wear into the drivers so much that I felt I was just driving along taking it easy, and there I was in front. I'll probably never have it that easy again."

In that rookie race of 1961, Jones was running ahead when a car he was about to lap kicked up a bolt that struck him on the forehead. Dazed, Parnelli slowed down, causing his fuel mixture to go rich and turn his engine

Last year misfortune struck a pacesetting Parnelli again, although he overcame it to win. His crankcase cracked, gushing a dangerous stream of oil onto the track. However, officials hesitated in dropping the disqualifying black flag because of a plea

Career Sisters Share a Home

Heavy coffee tables, reminiscent of ancient Rome or Grecian construction, stand in front of a sofa in the home of Hazel and Mildred Spildaw, career women - sisters.

dred Spildaw chose Torrance as the convenient city in which to live, and, specifically, the new tract home on the corner of 3330 W. 171st St as their future residence when they moved there about a year ago. The home was well suited to the needs of two career women who wanted 2 place that would be easy to maintain both inside and out; would afford privacy for both owners when desired; have livable qualities which would lend themselves well to entertaining dinner guests, or, perhaps, friends or relatives from back East who might stay a week or so. And, of course, having worked and saved to purchase a home, they wanted it as attractive as possible.

Edna O'Brien, NSID, has been a long-time friend of the Misses Spildaw, so they turned the job of decorating the entire home over to her.

The house consists of a small entrance hall with a half-wall at the left viewing a long and rather narrow living room; a passage way straight ahead (with a door which can be closed leading to the bedrooms and family room) and a wide open kitchen and full dining room to the right. There are two bedrooms and haths.

STRUCTURALLY, the home could not have been customized better to suit the occupants. Even career women spend much time in the kitchen, especially if they enjoy cooking and serving meals artistically. The kitchen in the Spildaw home is at the far right with an abundance of work area, cupboards and storage space, including a recessed area for washing appliances. The stove is on the wide bar area which is between the kitchen and dining rooms, so that the cook is never isolated from her guests.

The owners wanted the dining room to be exactly that, not a family room, Furnishings consist of a Danish Modern set with a buffet that has a glassed area above for displaying heirloom treasures. A thick clive green oval rug is the color accent for the dining table and chairs.

ON THE LEFT side of the entrance hall a tall, white, Grecian statue, "Chantelaine" greets guests. She sets the mood for the living room decor. As mentioned before, the room is long and rather narrow, with many windows and somewhat limited wall space for furnishings. Ample seating space without clutter was achieved thus: A teen-foot sofa in two sections runs the length of the room on the right, facing the windows across the way. In place of an ordinary coffee table, three heavy tables which resemble the base of Roman or Grecian columns, and a re called "Antique Stone Te-quila" tables are placed in front of the sofa. They are unique and handsome decorative accents. Behind the sofa, lamps are placed against the wall, flanking a gold crown fixture.

Across the room, twin occasional chairs are upholstered in accent prints of apricot, olive green, and the golden tones. The colored TV is in one corner with a large fern behind it, and, nearby, is a high-backed Italian chair uphoistered in olive green velvet.

One of the bedrooms has lavender color accents, with lavender lamps, pillows, and occasiona chair. The adjoining bath is done in apricot and green with a mural on the wall adding depth to the room.

THE NEXT bedrom is done in apricot and shades of strawberry and pink. Hanging shelves and lamps are above the bed, and a long gold chest runs the length of the windows on the far side of the room. Closet doors are mirrored.

The family room has its own private bath which qualifies as a guest room suite. Here a white sofa (daybed) faces the TV which has twin antique white bookshelves and chests on either side. An apricot occasional chair is in one corner. The decoration of the adjoining bath was considered important for this reason: the window and far wall of the bathroom can be seen from the other end of the home near the bedroom which is accented in lavender. However, the bath "belongs" to the bedroom which is done in the apricot and strawberry tones. Wallpaper which has a lavender, apricot, strawberry, and olive green print ties in the whole color scheme of the bedroom suites. Thus, the portion of the bathroom which is visible is papered in the proper colors and a window is draped in white and finished off with a canopy made of material that matches the paper.

A cement patio circles the kitchen and dining room where flourishing potted artifical plants need no care and the grass never needs cutting. Carefully selected plants and shrubs are growing on the still new front lawn.

Ranch Styled With

USTIC warmth, emphasized by a contemporary version of the old-fashioned front porch, characterizes this up-to-date three bedroom ranch home.

Its suburban charm doesn't end at the threshold, either. The interior design, practical and convenient in every way, features a sunken living room which extends beyond the rear walls of the house and has windows on three sides. It also has a homey, floor-toceiling stone fireplace separating it from the entrance foyer.

Designer of House of the Week B-95 is architect Samuel Paul. The house contains a modest 1,315 square feet of living area in overall dimen-sions of 35 feet deep and 62 feet 3 inches wide. Paul suggests a 75x100 foot lot to take full advantage of the exterior features

ITS FLOOR PLAN is a well ordered arrangement of living room, combination kitchen-dining room, family room, three bedrooms, entry foyer, one full bath, a lavatory, washroom, one-car garage and partial cellar.

The exterior is a handsome blend of stone veneer and wood siding with an intersecting roof line, in the shape of a cross, which further emphasizes its rustic character. While the shape of the house is unusual, it consists of simple rectangular forms which permit a direct and simple framing system to be used in construction.

The effect of the front-torear roof gable is even more striking inside. It allows a battened cathedrat ceiling to flow through the house unobstructed, producing an unusual sense of spaciousness, To preserve the effect, the closets in the entry (which also serve as a divider) don't extend all the way up to the ceiling.

THE INFORMAL AREAmost used portion of any modern home—likewise is well planned for efficient, relaxed living. An especially fine feature is the lavatory, convenient not only to the family room-kitchen area but to the outdoors as well.

The living room fireplace, as desirable as it is for its homey effect, is offered as an optional feature by architect Paul who realizes a per-son's desires don't always conform to the family housing budget.

Should you decide in favor of the budget, an ornamental rail would be substituted as a divider in the foyer, pro-ducing a balcony two sleps above the sunken living room. If the fireplace is constructed, however, the boiler flue would be placed within the

Efficiency Plus Rustic Warmth

THE WASH ROOM, incidentally, deserves further attention. For reasons of plumbing economy, it couldn't be placed in a better place. Far from being a duplication of the adjoining bathroom facilities, this innovation eases the morning rush those of us who have lived in one-bathroom houses are familiar with, and in addition provides a handy and attractive powder room for guests.

The kitchen-dining area of this house is ideally laid out. The step-saving U-shaped kitchen (with sink overlook, ing the terrace for excellent supervision) is separated from the dining area by hanging cabinets. Sliding glass doors lead to the large, flagstone rear terrace. The terrace also is accessible from the living room and the garage, making it an excellent relaxing area you'll appreciate more in the warmer weather.

ciated in all kinds of weather. It provides the best of all covered entrances in rain or snow, and in warm weather is good for just sitting—like grandpa used to do. If nothing else, though, in combination with the front patio the porch serves as a pleasing and gracious entrance.

Another interesting (and useful in stormy weather) feature is a contemporary version of an old-fashioned front porch. Design provides an air of rustic charm.

The Telegraph and a Dark Horse

By Hoyt McAfee

SENATORS and representain Washington tingled with excitement one historic day-May 24, 1844. They all wondered what in thunder was going on at the Democratic national convention in Baltimore, only 40 miles away! Pressing congressional duties had kept the Democrats from attending their party's biggest show, a truly frus-trating experience for them.

But now they had gathered at a central location in Washington to receive a direct report from the "firing line" in Baltimore. It was truly an epoch-making moment in epoch-making moment in American political history, a first in a communications sense.

In explaining, the news of what had developed at the Democratic national convention that date (May 29, 1844) was due to be flashed from Baltimore by telegraph, that "new-fangled," "mystifying," and "out-of-this-world" contraption invented by Samuel F. B. Morse.

CURIOUS, TENSE and impatient friends of the national lawmakers also awaited that first flash. Would It— the "new-fangled contraption"—really bring the mes-sage to them? That was the $64 question of that moment.

When it finally came through, if a bit slowly, the congressmen and their friends in the capitol responded with whoops of delight. First, because they had been participants in a history-making event-the first political message ever sent by telegraph. Second, because the Democrats convened at Oddfellows' Hall in Baltimore had produced a real thunderbolt.

They had done so by choosing as their nominee for president a man who was, from the outset, strictly a NON-CANDIDATE! He had at no time sought the nomination. Not so much as one delegate had been pledged to him at the time the convention got under way. Talk about a dark horse to end dark horseshe was itl

JAMES KNOX POLK, a North Carolinian by birth, had unexpectedly taken the Democratic convention by storm on the ninth ballot. How that came to pass, without Polk lifting a finger in his own behalf, created as much of a sensation as that initial telegram message dispatched from Baltimore.

It all started when former president Martin Van Buren forged into the lead over his rival for the nomination, Lewis Cass of Michigan, Two ballots—then a 3rd, 4th, 5th, 6th, 7th and 8th followed. Still no break-through for either candidate. With the convention thus deadlocked, a new name was suddenly proposed for consideration that of James K. Polk.

Polk, a former speaker of the House of Representatives (and a popular one), immediately picked up 44 votes. Then the stampede was only Amid shouts of excitement and one stormy demonstration after another, all the delegates at the Democratic convention switched to Polk. No one was more over-whelmed with surprise by that sudden, out-of-nowhere victory on the ninth ballot than the nominee himselft

lators in Washington whipped off a terse message, it read:
"Three cheers for James K.
Polk!" At his inauguration the following March (1845), incidentally, Samuel Morse sat on the outdoor platform as an honored guest.

USING A special telegraph key, he flashed an account of incoming President Polk's address to Baltimore—another first in U.S. political history. Polk's speech, an eloquent one, ran somewhat over 4,000

Promptly, then, Polk—the very first "dark horse" candidate to reach the White House-settled down to his challenging duties. Soon thereafter Texas was admit-ted to statehood. Then came Polk's test under fire, his most crucial hour-the outbreak of war in May 1846 against Mexico.

This bloody conflict with a neighboring country gave the U.S. and President Polk many anxious moments. But it brought to the nation's at-tention at least two brilliant military leaders — Zachary Taylor (who later became president) and Gen. Winfield Scott. Additionally, a certain junior officer, named Ulysses S. Grant, attracted special attention because of his daring and skill in military tactics.

Soon after the fall of Vera Cruz and the capture of Mexico City by American forces, the Mexican government sued for peace. By terms of the Treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo, the Rio Grande was established as the boundary be-tween the U. S. and Mexico. In return for payment of $15,-000,000, Mexico also ceded to the U.S. large chunks of territory.

THESE AREAS included: California, Arizona, New Mexico, Nevada, Utah, nlus slices of Wyoming and Colo-rado. At later dates—under Polk's administration — two additional states joined the union. Namely: Wisconsin union. Namely: and Oregon.

Gourmet Traveler

By Irma McCall

ETIRED Long Beach school principal A. H. Martin anticipates two especial pleasures this spring from his unique tour—Cities of Central Asia. He hopes to discover new gourmet treats, perhaps in Samarkand or Ashkhabad, to delight lucky friends here. Then, too, he can add a brand new line to the huge map of his travels decorating an entire livingroom wall.

Martin may be the most traveled retiree in town, with a record of six major trips covering 250,000 miles. His suitcase doesn't bulge with colored slides of Elifel Tower and Changing of the Guard. That package, Mr. Custom Inspector, contains a Swiss copper saute pan, the perfect utensil in which to prepare a delicious beef fondue,

The inspiration for Martin's current bon vivant dinners struck him in a cosy rathskeller in Geneva.

"My traveling companion, Jack Stellato, and I noticed patrons dipping chunks of meat into a sort of chafing dish," he explains, "so I asked the waiter what it was."

"Becf fondue."

SOON THE TWO men were happily spearing inch-squares of tender beef in boiling oil and then nibbling rare to well done tidbits, according to taste. Condiments included chutney, pickled vegetables, cocktail mush-rooms and onious, sweet and sour cabbage, artichoke hearts. As a California touch, Mr. Martin adds avocado and papaya to his side dishes.

All of us cherish the memory of some perfect meal trout fried by a mountain stream—pressed duck in the famed Paris restaurant Tour d'Argent.

"The dinner I'd like most to repeat," Martin says, "was served in Cypress. I could have eaten four helpings instead of two-iamb roasted on a skewer, and then cabbage, onions, and cucumber flavored some special way. And we dipped pieces of unleavened bread in mashed-up eggplant."

RUNNER-UP in mouthwatering fare turned up in Athens - dolmadakia: rice. meat, and spicy sauce baked in grape leaves. In Japan Martin developed a mild desire for raw cuttle fish.
"Once when my bus stopped at a poor village be-tween Bogota and Quito, I tween Bogota and Quito, I was really lungry, so I was glad to see some Indian women come up carrying dishpans full of steaming hot spuds and barbecued goat. It's fun to try everything."

Friends here will await Martin's return from Asia with recipes of rare viands perhaps sampled by Marco Polo. સુરકુપુર્કુકુસ્કુર ⁽)

"I'VE ONLY seen Gene four times since he left. Cabs cost $4.50 each way, there are no buses, and I have no other transportation, I can't take the children to that place. They are too young. When they are older, I pray to God they will understand."

When asked if she had con-sidered going on the state wel-fare roll, Hughleen Johnston paled visibly, and her clasped hands were shaking. "Yes, I have to think about it. We have always worked for everything-Gene was always so willing to share. He has worked so hard for what we have, but to have to go on welfare...how can this happen? Gene is no murderer. He only tried to save a woman's life. He felt he had to, that no man could do less, and it has cost us all we have and now we owe so much in addition."
"The very worst thing of all, last weekend the baby got sick. His temperature was 104 degrees, I've never been so scared in my life. They won't even let you in at a hospital without money, and I have none, Thank God, he is all right now. I'm the most afraid for the children, although I am afraid to open the door at night.

"THEY SAY a citizen must go in with just his bare hands to try to stop a crime, even though the criminal may have a gun or a knife. Even the police don't have to do this. Is this a good law? How are we

this a good law? How are we caught in such a trap?"
This, then, is the real price of chivalry—not just "six months" as a token of social disapproval. Gene Johnston comes out in September or October of this year, 46 years of age, to begin his life, His home, car, everything he owned swept away, facing a mountain of debt, a marked man with a criminal record, facing three years of proba-tion. He will have paid his debt to society, and it is very certain he will not again become "involved."

"I WAS LUCKY they didn't black flag me as soon as I started leaking oil," Jones says, "because later on they could see with binoculars that the leak had stopped when the oil dropped below the level of the crack, But I don't feel I lucked out, I still had to outdrive Clark and the rest of them."

Parnelli plans to keep on outdriving them for the next two years.

"Then I hope to call it quits, With what I've earned and my investments I should have enough to be set for life."

He confesses that he would like to finish his career with a string of three consecutive Indianapolis victories,

"That's the biggest thing I could do. It's never been done, so is nice to think about, but it's so difficult to achieve that it's silly even to consider it."

THE LATE Bill Vukovich came close with two in a row but met fatal disaster going for his third. Jones doesn't live in fear of the high mortality rate of race drivers, but he does respect it.

"A lot depends on the driver's ability, his equipment—and his luck. I believe I'm learning all the time, and 1 do more of my own mechanical work than most drivers, so I know what's going for me. I think I still have enough luck left, too."

HOW YOUR CHILD LEARNS

Personal Issue

By Howard E. Kent

QUESTION: Does the personality of a student affect the grade he gets from the teacher?

ANSWER: Data obtained in a study conducted at Southern Illinois University indicate a definite relationship between the grades teachers give and the teachers' ratings of the personalities of their students. The child who, when asked why he got a bad re-port card, answers, "Be-cause the teacher doesn't like me," may be exactly right.

The problem in this case is to see what can be done to make the teacher like him.

QUESTION: Do youngsters planning a career usually want to do what their fathers do?

ANSWER: You might suppose that such would be the case, but it's not.

Research at Rutgers University showed that the occupational aspirations of children do not reflect their parents' occupations. In general, youngsters have different-and higher-aspirations.

QUESTION: Is there any proof that "distributed" study is more effective than concentrated study?

ANSWER: Yes.

A research project revealed that a group working 20 minutes a day for six days on an assignment learned more efficiently than a group that worked 120 minutes at one sitting.

Generally speaking, it's better to cut a study chore into pieces instead of trying to do it all at once.

Outdoor living can be as comfortable as you make it, as these units from Sketchbook plans demonstrate fully.

By Bill Meyerriecks

SKETCHBOOK'S autdoor furniture projects are based on several equal points. Comfort, good design and sturdiness are our main considerations,

These elements, we feel, are in the S-161 projects plan for the Chaise Lounge and Corner Bench. Both of these projects are show fully in the do-it-yourself plan offered. And neither is a difficult unit to construct. The average handyman can accomplish either one in a weekend of spare time with hand tools.

The chaise lounge is one that you won't find manufactured. It is a sturdy one with extra length. Why longer? We figured this for several reasons. If you happen to be tall, this is a lounge where your feet won't hang over the end. But even an adult of average size will enjoy the luxury of the extra two feet at the foot of the lounge. It provides a spot to put down that Sunday newspaper's extra sections as you browse through it, or your mate can sit down and have a cozy chat as you relax. It is made primarily of 2 x 4 standard lumber and cotton duck canyas covering the back rest and lounge proper. Standard chaise cushions can be used.

THE CORNER BENCH is a useful unit and popular on patio or in back yard to fill in space on corners now not fully utilized. The sturdy, slatted design of the L-shaped unit measures 6 feet in both directions, It is a simple, mitered construction of top and legs that will stand plenty of punishment.

Both projects are shown in the Sketchbook plan in full detail and step-by-step assembly. Complete parts and material lists are provided. One big plus suggested in the plan is the use of special fastening devices that can speed up assembly and make taking apart of the units for storage considerably easier. Behind Political Scenes

By Vera Williams Southland Magazine Book Editor

WHAT REALLY goes on behind the scenes in political conventions? Is there wheeling and dealing? Do a handful of cronies instead of the delegates at large pick the potential president and vice president?

As a member of Adlai Stevenson's national campaign staff, Ralph G. Martin, topflight newspaperman, saw first-hand the maneuvering behind the ballots and bandwagons in 1952 and 1956.

In "BALLOTS & BAND-WAGONS, The Exciting Events Behind Five Major Political Conventions" (Rand McNally, $5.95) he writes about the convention politics that few people ever see or hear about.

The Republican convention of 1900 when Rough Rider Teddy Roosevelt, up for vice presidential nomination, found himself in the middle of a battle of the bosses.

The Republican convention of 1912 when Teddy fought a bitter battle with William Howard Taft, his own hand-picked successor, a fight that tore the party asunder and brought about the election of Woodrow Wilson, Democrat,

The Republican convention of 1920 when a handful of powerful senators in a smoke-filled room picked Warren G. Harding because Ohio politician Harry Daugherty thought Harding LOOKED like a president.

The Democratic convention of 1932 when front-running Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York had to make a deal to win.

The Democratic convention of 1956 when the open for the defeat that four years later made John F. Kennedy president.

The book is significant reading before the 1964 conventions.

ONE of the most captivating stories to emerge from World War II is "DIS-PLACED DOCTOR" by Richard Berczeller (Odyssey, $5), the memoirs of a surgeon who escaped from Austria in 1938, with the help of Anna Freud. wife, of Sigmund Freud.

France regarded him as an enemy alien, so then began a series of fantastic adven-tures. Dr. Berczeller first was physician to an exclusive brothel, then wangled a commission in the Foreign Legion, which sent him to a clinic on the Ivory Coast. Returning to Paris because of illness, he was imprisoned and given, inexplicably, pate de foie gras — and nothing else — three times a day.

In 1941, after a roundabout trip which included a about the which included a stop-over in a concentration camp in Casablanca, the Berczeller family arrived in New York. There the doctor delivered groceries --and kittens — and struggled to learn to speak English.

He now is on the staff of the Beth Israel Hospital in New York, He tells his story with charm, irony and occasional bitterness,

A. L. ROWSE, leading historian of the Elizabethan age and author of a definitive biography of Shakespeare, explores Shake-speare's sonnets, their passion and pain, in "SHAKESPEARES SON-NETS" (Harper & Row, $5). He sets forth his conclusions, and the reasons for them, on such long-disputed questions as the date of the sonnets, the identity of Mr. W. H. DEAR MISS RULE: Would you inform us on ZA-BRISKIE .-- R.M., Long Beach

R.M.: ZABRISKIE is a German respelling of a Slavic, home-possession Polish surname. The source name was Za-brjaza-ski, denoting the home location. This poetical phrase deciphers as "home behind the birch tree."

DEAR MISS RULE: Would you explain the background of FIEDLER.-O.K., Garden Grove

O.K.: FIEDLER had two interesting early German sources. It was principally an occupational term, "fied-ler," meaning "violin player or fiddler." The other origin was from Slavic east Ger-many where the term "bid-ler" meaning "man who walks with a staff or pole" was altered to the German spelling "Fiedler."

L.L.: LUCERO, a F.C. Spanish name, had its start as an endearing baptismal cognomen in the early medieval period, Lucero means, literally, "Morning Star," referring to the beautiful planet Venus which shone brightly when the beloved little "Lucero" ancestor was born.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give data on REMY. - N. H., Garden Grove.

Another source for Remy was the French-Latin "Remigius" meaning "oarsman or rower of boats." This was used in honor of St. Remigius who in the 6th century baptized the famous French King Clovis. The first-listed source, "Ram" when coupled with "eye" meaning "isle," was used as the Scotch surname Ramsey.

DEAR MISS RULE: Kindly give information on ORTEGA. -E. A., Long Beach.

E. A.: ORTEGA is Spanish and means "hazel-grouse." This surname refers back centuries to a shop-sign which pictured this game-bird as the trademark of the owner. The Ortega shield is divided into four sections. The upper left and lower right sections are blue, emblazoned with a gold fleurde-lis. The remaining sections are gold, decorated with eight fur tails and a silver bowl covered with eight ermine and black fur tails.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please inform us on HEALY. - M. L., Long Beach.

M. L.: HEALY is from a distinguished Irish clan, the progeny of a remote and wise leader called Faiadhac, meaning "ingenious, scientific one." His sons formed the clan O'Heilidha, a form of his name. This was moder-nized to O'Healy and Healy in the 1500s. The Healys were natives of Sligo and Cork. Their coat-of-arms has a goldcollared rampant tiger on a silver shield. Famed in this family's ancestry was Patrick O'Healy, bishop of Mayo who was martyred in 1579.

DEAR MISS RULE: Would like genealogy on FRODS-HAM.—H. F., Anaheim.

A Fancy for Stone By Vynola F. Limerick

MIKE TURNER, 348 Carroll Park West, is a snapstone fancier, For several years, this 16-year-old high school boy has been accumulating a wide variety of objects carved out of this soft stone that has the peculiar oily feel of wet soap,

Although steatite or tale, other terms for this substance, has many commercial uses, for centuries craftsmen have used it to create idols, amulets, utensils, seals, scarabs other artistic handiwork.

Mike's collection includes a beige and black teapot wreathed with a garland of primroses. A small bird perches on the lid. Another interesting piece is a spotted mother monkey, who by the apt expression she has on her face is completely bewildered by the antics of the two little ones she has with her,

THE MINUTELY accurate work on the carvings is amazing, A small figurine of a Chinese fisherman is complete in every detail.

One of the most unusual pieces among Mike's 35 carvings is a replica of an em-peror's tomb. Steps lead to a dias, where, beneath a throne, is a tiny coffin. All this is done in beige and a deep pink.

Soapstone art ranges in hand cut roses, daisies, chrysanthemums and other flowers and leaves. Betel nuts and lotus pods are used frequently in the designs of Oriental origin,

The soothing powder known as talcum is produced from soapstone. United States mines and mills more talc than all the rest of the world. A dozen states, California among them, produce this material.

The list of commercial uses for soapstone or steatite is practically endless. It has come a long way since sheets of it were used for window from soapstone blocks.

Certainly he and his devoted wife (Sarah Childress Polk) set an example in clean living. A warm, informal air permeated the White House, although no dancing parties were permitted to be held there. Also, no alcohol in any form (liquor, wine, or beer) was ever served at White House receptions. It would, in Polk's view, serve "as a wretched example for the White House to tolerate drinking on its premises."

So be and his wife won the cheers of overwhelming numbers of Americans of that day by dispensing "health-giving milk, fruit juices, and soft drinks" at all White House functions. It was an example which earned them this tribute: "That inspiring couple in the White House.

NONETHELESS, Polk himself had grown weary of his heavy burdens and actually looked forward to the end of his term of office. On the occasion of his return to private life, he recorded this en-try in his diary:

"I feel exceedingly re-lieved! For I am now free from all public cares, I'm sure that I shall be happier in my retirement than I've been during the 4 years that I've filled the highest office within the gift of my countrymen."
Various other U. S. Presidents have shared Polk's feelings ("I'll be glad to leave the White House")—notably America's only bachelor president: James Buchanan, a man who was rejected for the presidential nomination three times before he finally made the grade on his fourth try!

large-boned Siamese cats, most are medium-sized—long, svelte, and a bit on the dainty side with smallish feet. Every now and then there is a Siamese kitty (and some other breeds) that appears to be a miniature. There can be several reasons. Sometimes close inbreeding brings out undersized cats. Sometimes malnutrition or disease dwarfs a cat's growth. And often there is simply a "runt" of the litter.

I don't like the word "runt." It has derogatory intonations, as though the animal concerned was peculiarly stunted. I prefer the word "mutation." The miniature Siamese shown with this article with an average size Siamese is a miniature, Tammy, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Mike Earley of Long Beach. She is lovely. Her proportions seem right, and her owners probably wouldn't take a ranch in Texas for her.

There have been mild flurries of perpetuating miniature cats by breeding miniature to miniature. I wish I could report more. I can only add that miniatures would need to be well guarded, for even one big tom could upset the applecart.

WHILE ON the subject of mutations, let's poke around and see what other genetic possibilities are somewhat rare.

Most of us have seen cats with extra toes or even one toe overly large. This is a dominant mutation, meaning a cat with surplus toes is quite apt to produce kittens with extra toes. Breeders of purebred cats avoid such cats, but owners love them.

Did you ever see a cat with white hind feet and solid colored front feet? Probably not because mittens universally appear on the front feet if on the hind. Very little seems to be known about this other than that it is true. Mittens may vary as to size.

YOU MAY HAVE seen cats, notably Siamese, with kinked tails. This is an unwanted mutation. Sometimes a cat's tail is missing entirely, or there is just a stub. The Manx cat is tailless. He quite possibly started as a mutation, and so many of them appeared they became a breed.

You have certainly heard of Mexican hairless dogs or Chinese crested, little dogs that are coatless except for a tuft on the head and one on the tail. Whether these dogs were bred as the result of a desirable mutation is not up for discussion here. The fact is, it is said the the Mexico naked cats also appear. And occasionally there is one born to an ordinary home-produced litter. It may die from exposure so we never see one even as an oddity at cat shows.

An interesting mutation, preserved by careful breeding, started the Rex cat, a feline with only the downy hairs of the undercoat which gives him a curly appearance.

It is said by some that the Peke-face, long-hair cat appears sponstaneously in liters. Others claim ability to control this mutation, which is doubtful since we see so few of this type cat. The cat has an indented nose, a wrinkled muzzle, pop eyes.

Daisies Like It Sunny

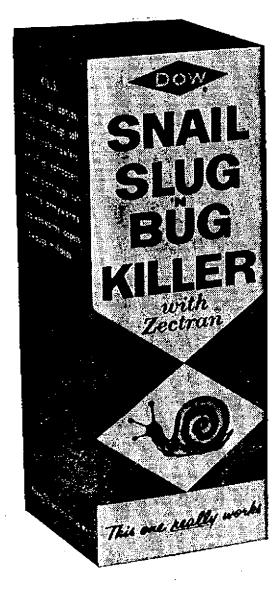

By Joe Littlefield

DLANTING half a dozen gloriosa daisies in the garden will bring rich rewards for the flower lover, both in the flower bed and as cut flowers indoors. Plant them 18 inches apart in a sunny spot and they'll grow vigorously, Blooms may be single, semi-double or double and colors are yellow, orange, bronze and two-tone. The plants will grow to about two feet tall and will spread.

The reason Lady (Martha) Washington geraniums have grown like sprawly vines, We're thinking of changing its name to Aphid 'n Thrips Killer.

In a way, it seems only right. Our Snail, Slug אי Bug Killer with Zectran® insecticide is just as great for knocking out aphids and thrips on flowers and plants. One spraying and the little monsters are gone; and once dry, there's no danger to children or pets. But on the other hand, Dow Snall, Slug N Bug Killer gets rid of snalls, slugs, and practically any gardening insect pest you can name. Kills more pests, in fact, than any other single product around.

Until we make up our minds, ask your garden supply dealer for it by its present name: Dow Snall, Slug 'N Bug Killer. And while you're talking to him, check on Dowpon® Grass Killer Bar that you rub along the edge of walks, flowerbeds, buildings to eliminate unwanted grass. Two more great ones from The Dow Chemical Company.

They may be single, semi-double and double in form.

making the grower most unhappy with them is because they were not pruned back properly last September or early in October.

The vine-like branches at that time should be pruned away back, leaving two to four mature leaves on the remainder, and new growth should then be pinched back a couple of times. This forces bushy growth. Try it next fall and, come spring 1965, those plants will look like showtype azalias, they will be so massed with blooms.

Your local nurseryman has varieties of Lady Washington geraniums ablaze with flowers. Try them in large pots as well as in sunny garden

Watch for chewing worms on geraniums, English prim-roses, passion vine, and other plants. Spray with a stomach type insecticide spray, However, it is work-saving and money-wise to have an insecticide spray that controls a wide range of pests, whether sap sucking or chewing. This means such a spray may be used to control aphids, thrips, spider mites, and moth orms, beetles, snails, slugs, cutworms, grasshoppers, snails, slugs, and sowbugs. Keep in mind too, the spray should be safe around pets and children as soon as it dries.

Shade trees growing in lawn area sometimes create a problem of roots coming to the surface, robbing water from the grass and because of shaded areas, encourage fungus growth.

The trees that normally root deeply are not nearly as had about consuming surface water away from grass as the shallow rooted trees, especially those having many small feeder roots. These are the real culprits and can destroy a lawn.

Deep watering and feeding with various types of injector watering devices should be practiced with trees of this kind in lawns. Otherwise the heavier roots will be encour-aged to come to the surface and the result will be an uneven lawn.

Too much shade will discourage the growth of some grasses. Care should be taken in planting the type of grass that will tolerate considerable shade. Stagnant water accumulating in shady also encourages fungus, Much can be done to correct fungus conditions in lawns by using a copper-ether disinfectant when fungus appears. This treatment will also destroy lawn moth larvae at the same

Peach-belled campanula is one of most beautiful as well as one of the most popular perennials among the bellflowers. It grows to 3 or 4 feet.

Little Bells Cheer a Garden

By Murtha Hurley

MOST gardeners are familiar with the handsome biennial, the Canterbury Bell, and agree it adds glory to garden heds and is a splendid cutting flower. Even if they have not grown it, many, too, have heard of the "Bluebell of Scotland," famed in song and story. It is interesting to note these two are close kin. Both belong to the large bell-flower family, the Campanulas, meaning "little bells."

Their variety is infinite, including annuals, biennials, perennials, dwarf rock garden plants, pretty edgers, medium height plants. trailing hanging basket types and stately background plants. Flowers are bell-shaped varying in size from dainty blooms to the large Canterbury Bells. The prevailing colors are varied tones of blue, though there are white varieties and pinks, rosy-mauve and the deep purple of Canter-bury Bells.

PERENNIAL campanulas are a hardy lot, thriving with scant attention and enjoying a long flowering period, blooming continuously all summer, supplying lovely cool color, grace and charm to summer-time and fall garden beds. Though the plants should always be given the advantage of cool, half shady places.

The perennial group includes the popular peach-leaved peach-leaved campanu-la persicifolia and campanula carpatica, both excellent border plants or fillers in a perennial planting, campanula poscharskyana, the Siberian bellflower and dependable edger, Campanula isophylla a hanging basket plant. Cam-panula fragilis also is a trailer and campanula garganica makes a fine plant for window boxes, baskets or rockeries. The tailest of all bellflowers is campanula pyramidalis, growing over five feet tall. It makes a spectacular potted plant.

Blennial campanulas include the two popular Canterbury Bells, campanula medium and campanula medium calycanthema, the pop-ular "cup and saucer" type, that have three or four huge bells packed one within the other above a flattened petal that resembles a saucer.

ALL BELLFLOWERS form dense clumps of rich foliage and are profuse bloomers. The different varieties carry the season of bloom, starting with the Can-terbury Bells that, in the mild Southland cli-mate, unfold their beau-teous flowers in late spring to the various perennials that bloom all through summer and on through fall.

Campanula fragilis is really a toughie. It is good for a basket, wall, rockery.

Campanula carpatica is charming as rock garden, border or well plant.

It's fun to play in the snow at Mt. Hood, Ore., even in the summer. This scene was taken above the 6,000-foot elevation.

Millions Start Roaming the West

By Fred Taylor Kraft

T HAS already started, the summer impouring of millions of vacationists into Western America, and before year's end more people will have visited the great scenic and resort area from Alaska to Mexico than any other similar area in the world.

This Roaming of the West will include the Eskimo villages and the colorful old gold rush cities of Alaska, the interminable forests and natural wonders of the Canadian provinces of British Columbia and Alberta, the scenic won-derlands of the Pacific Coast States, and the fishing villages of Baja California.

Thousands from the midwest, the south and east coast will come west for a neverto-be-forgotten tour, others from foreign lands, but mostly the influx will be Americans—like you and your neighbor—who feel they should not let another year go by without seeing more of Western America's marvels.

ALASKA will get a big play since the quake carlier this year left hotels and transportation facilities intact, Some will fly to the 49th state, others will take the "Marine Highway," a 450-mile ferry system running from Prince Rupert, British Columbia, north to and through the southeastern Alaska Panhandle, and still others will traverse the Alaska Highway.

The Alaska Highway-from Dawson Creek, B. C. north and west to the Yukon-Alaska houndary-traverses some of the wildest and most beautiful scenery in the world. Maintenance costs of this 1,221-mile gravel highway range close to $12 million a Western Canada offers an unending variety of natural marvels, including the widely known Jasper and Banff National Parks. Her cities and villages have an old world charm and her people are friendly.

ALWAYS POPULAR with with tourists, the Pacific Northwest expects an unprecedented flow of visitors this year, Popular destinations in Washington State will be Olympic National Park's 'Rain Forest," a million acre "last wilderness."

coastline, spectacular

fish-filled lakes and streams, snow-capped mountains, and forests and glens make Oregon a "natural" for vacationists all summer long. The state is a favorite destination for Southern California families.

An increasing tourist flow is predicted this year in Idaho and Wyoming. The same is true of Reno and Las Vegas, in Nevada, where stage shows appear to get more lavish each season, and where gambling seems to hold its own year in and year out.

CALIFORNIA offers more than any other state for the vacationist—the redwoods in the northern coastal counties, glamorous San Francisco, such national parks as Yosemite and Sequoia, Lake Ta-hoe, fishing and camping in the High Sierra. Resorts becken in the Big Bear and Lake Arrowhead areas, Palm Springs continues as an attraction for many, even in summer. Still closer to home is Calalina Island, always a favorite for Southlanders.

More and more campers and fishermen choose Baja California for a week, a weekend or an entire vacation, particularly resorts at the extreme tip of the 1,000-mile long peninsula.

Getting to the Fair

F YOU plan to drive from the Long Beach-Orange County area to the New York World's Fair, you can de-termine the distance in less than a minute by consulting the unique new Best-Western/Best Eastern Travel Guide.

This 146-page guide, which 6 million copies (with a total of 876 million pages) have just been published, not only shows the total distance, but the distance between the larger towns, and miles between each town, eliminating continual referral to a road

THE GUIDE is the brain child of M. K. Guertin, Long Beach, who founded Western/Best Eastern Hotels 15 years ago. He is the present executive officer of the association, now the world's largest referral group of motor hotels with 857 members and 45,107 rooms. Each motel must pass rigid standards to be accepted as a member of the group.

(Guertin, widely known in motel/hotel circles, has just been appointed to serve on the motel advisory committee of the American Hotel & Motel Association.)

Best Western Motels formerly operated west of the Mississippi River, but now covers the entire nation and part of Canada—hence the change in name to Best-Western/Best Eastern Mo-

SOME OF THE outstanding motels of the nation belong to the association - including such sleek palaces as the 11-story Gabe's Motor Inn, Owensboro, Ky., shown in the accompanying illustra-

Each motel in the association features free reservations. For instance, Guertin, who operates the Beach Motel, 4217 E. Ocean Blvd., Long Beach, and the City Center Motel, Los Angeles, recently made a reservation at the Roosevelt Inn, New York City, for a client who wished to attend the Fair, and another at Koths Colonial Inn, Dearborn, Mich., where the same client wished to pick up a new car.

Guertin says his office receives as many as 800 requests a day for the free guides, many of them from outside the United States.

Berliners Bowl

A second bowling alley recently opened on Berlin's fashionable Kurfurstendamm. The alley is one of Europe's largest and most elaborate. In honor of the grand opening, actress Heid Bruhl (German star of "Annie Get Your Gun") and former heavy-weight boxing champion of the world, Max Schmeling, rolled a few frames before a capacity crowd, American tourists are frequent visitors to Berlin's two bowling atleys, according to the Berlin Tourist Office.

Today's yachtsman seems too attracted by the adventure, the freedom, and the escape of life on the sea to give much thought to being afraid

Skipper Ken Gilman tells of a time when he was sailing a 96-footer through bad weather off the coast of Oregon.

"We were fighting a 30-foot surge, and I was having plenty of problems of my own when I looked back and saw this little 24-foot sail boat going like heck through the trough of a wave right behind

"IT WAS JUST a man and his wife out sailing that boat for all it was worth. They were coming up as fast as that boat would carry them and, when they got within shouting distance, they hol-lered for us to please slow

. . down so they could follow in our wake.

They were both excellent sailors, and later told me they took their boat in those waters every year at that time in about the same kind of weather."

Was there a chance those wo might one day conclude that such sport was really an awful lot of work, and a bit risky, to boot, and it might be just as well if they were to pass it up for the duration? Tilman shook his head, and

flashed a knowing grin
"That's one day that will never come," he said.
"They're hooked."

Caricalure by Bob Acril DOROTHY QUICK

True to Her Name

NO WONDER she's so happy in her work. She's a hostess at Jones Dining Room, 120 E. 5th St., where she has the fun of meeting scores of old friends and new each day.

Her name is Dorothy Quick and she's as swift as her name. She's quick to smile, quick to seat people at their favorite tables and quick at remembering the names of vast numbers of patrons. Dorothy has been a Jones' employe for more than 18 years, For 14 years previously she worked for the Child's estaurant chain in New York City, Atlantic City and Miami.

Dorothy finds pleasure in her work because Jones' guests find such pleasure in the food and service there. The Dining Room and adjacent Cafeteria are two of the most skillfully run restau-rants in this area. On Mother's Day, they accommodated more than 2,000 diners—all of whom received detailed, friendly service and food so delicious they praised it to the heavens.

Owners Harold A. Jones and his wife Ivalou, now in their third decade in the restaurant business here, serve fabulously generous dinners. The Sunday repasts, priced from $2.30, include fresh shrimp cocktail or vegetable juice or fruit juice; chilled relishes, soup, marvelous salad, potato, vegetable, basket of fresh rolls, muffins and cheesebread; heverage, and dessert selected from a nearly endless variety. Among the entrees are roast leg of spring lamb (the restaurant's most popular item), breaded pork tenderloin, roast turkey, Vir-ginia ham, chicken and many sea food dishes.

Generous luncheons and dinners are also featured in the Cafeteria, where the price is lower but the quality is equally high.

ore often than the authorities care to admit, a satellite has soared out of control, a missile has exploded into fiery bits of debris or the sea has gustied into a submarine, all because of a faulty fitting. Shoddy workmanship is not only costing this country millions of dollars and menacing thousands of lives, but may, unless checked, cost the U.S. its glittering crown as the greatest technical nation on earth.

Sen. Barry Goldwater recently charged that U.S. intercontinental ballistic missiles are unreliable. A blistering reply came from Defense Secretary Robert McNamara. But the truth is that nobody is more outraged than McNamara at the botches and blunders that have plagued the nation's military equipment from the Polaris below the sea to the capsule in space.

Although our scientists and engineers have performed technological miracles, when it comes time to put the prototypes into production, something all too often goes wrong. Somewhere in the mills of mass production is that guilty minority where pride in workmanship has worn thin.

It shows up in defective bolts, valves and tubes and in careless welds, wiring and castings: McNamara recently sent inspection teams to talk to maintenance men at 32 military installations. Report: equipment satisfactory, but "significant" evidence of "poor workmanship and inadequate quality control by manufacturers."

Contractors have delivered space equipment clogged with loose washers, bolts, nuts, wire ends, solder balls and metal elippings. Motion pictures taken not long ago inside an orbiting, unwanned capsule showed such rubbish floating weightlessly around in the capsule. And in another empty capsule, trash choked the air circulating fan. An astronaut might have suffocated.

720 'DISCREPANCIES'

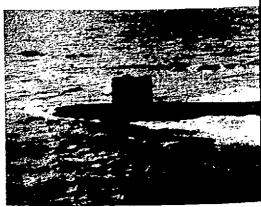

There have been an average of 10 malfunctions on each U.S. manned space flight. Many gave the astronauts anxious moments. The back-up capsule for Astronaut Gordon Cooper's 22-orbit flight had 720 "system or component discrepancies." Of these, 526 were traced directly to flaws in the manufacture.

Investigators found design flaws and sloppy fabrication at the root of failures of the Ranger shoot-the-moon program. As the latest Ranger rocket hurtled toward the moon, for instance, technicians tried in vain to trigger the six TV cameras on board. All they could pick up was the rocket's weird wail, which stopped as it smashed into the moon. Then, unaccountably, the sweet voice of a saleslady: "Spray on Avon colonne mist."

It's no secret that 3 out of 10 of our great ICBMs

have failed to perform as expected. Why? The Air Force says 90 per cent of the failures have been caused by faulty parts. One Minuteman missile exploded in a searing, blinding flash on its launch pad at Cape Kennedy. Cost to the taxpayer: $22 million. Reason: failure of a $25 part.

Some Navy experts are convinced that the loss of the atomic submarine Thresher was due to a defective fitting that collapsed under pressure and allowed the sea to pour in.

Thresher disaster, in which 130 men died, may have been result of faulty workmanship. Some Navy experts now be-

Even Adm. Hyman Rickover, father of the atomic sub, has come perilously close to going down permanently in one of his own inventions because of minor malfunctions. "On more than one occasion," he says, "I have been in a deeply submerged submarine when a failure has occurred in a sea water system because a fitting was of the wrong material. But for the prompt action of the crew, I might not be here."

Statistically, the number of shortcomings may seem insignificant when measured against the 30,000 parts in a Mercury capsule, the millions of parts in an atomic sub or the billions of units that make up all of our military and space hardware. But statistics are cold comfort to the man doomed to death under the ocean or in the icy infinity of space, because a tiny part went wrong.

Perhaps perfection is impossible. Our machinery is growing ever more intricate and complex. The Defense Department alone stocks more than 4 million items supplied by 25,000 manufacturers; and it adds new parts at the rate of 41,000 monthly. It may seem hardly surprising that some are defective.

Yet most of the botch-ups don't take place in the new fields, but in the old, established industrial processes. The shocking fact is that more than 50 per cent of the parts, all quite conventional, for the Navy's nuclear propulsion plants had to be reworked to meet specifications. To get simple castings, the Navy had to order more than twice the number it needed—and those finally selected had to have 200 to 300 welding repairs before they were safe enough to use.

READING DIFFICULTIES

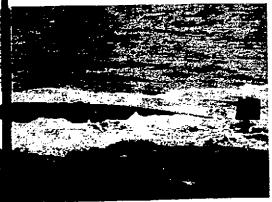

In another situation, Adm. Rickover found repeated examples of poor workmanship on atomic subs. Radiography had long been used to check welding and castings. The Admiral sent out Navy experts to check on the contractors. "We found," he says, "that inspectors were often quite untrained. In fact, they were at times no better qualified to read radiographs than a layman is to interpret his own X rays."

Rear Adm. W. A. Brockett of the Bureau of Ships gave PARADE a depressing report on materials supplied for Polaris subs. A staggering 48.4 per cent of the fittings did not fit. The thousands of defects the Navy has uncovered, Admiral Brockett says, "are a cause for concern."

Where does the fault lie?

Manufacturers complain that many designs they get from the Pentagon are bad. On the other hand, admirals and generals complain about careless craftsmanship. Adm. Rickover, always outspoken, points an accusing finger at the American executive who has retreated into his air-conditioned, plush office and doesn't always know what's happening in his plant.

A major part of the problem, procurement experts contend, is quality control. It is simply that too much lieve that a defective fitting gave way, allowing the sea to flood the sub white it was making a routine test dive.

shoddy work is leaving the factories and plants and being shipped out to the government.

On the other hand, some contracts have been influenced more by politics than performance. They have been awarded because of an odorous brew of cocktail parties, old-buddyship, political pressure and geographical considerations.

One Air Force general named to PARADE two leading corporations that, he claims, produce inferior equipment but continue to rank high on the annual list of 100 top defense contractors because they give the best parties in the industry.

ATTEMPTS AT REFORM

Adm. Brockett told PARADE that it took him a whole year to get one influential company knocked off the bidders' roster after it had repeatedly supplied shoddy equipment to the Bureau of Ships. Within a few weeks, congressmen brought enough pressure on the Navy to have the firm reinstated.

Brockett has issued strict orders to his officers not to accept free meals, drinks or gifts from contractors. "Evening entertainment at night clubs is to be avoided like the plague," he directed. And Secretary McNamara has made it mandatory that the Defense Department take a company's past performance into consideration when negotiating new contracts. Yet the fact remains that politics and government are as hard to separate as salt from sea water.

In addition, it is known that some firms—definitely in the minority—have deliberately encouraged and allowed should work to be delivered to the government because it is cheaper. One firm now under investigation, a repair organization that contracts from the government, had been telling some of its employees to scar up and damage the repaired item so that it would be returned for further repairs even sooner.

Yet there is evidence that the situation need not be this way. Both government and industry are striving to put a halt to these practices and to promote pride on the production line and in the inspectors as well, so that fewer shoddy pieces are delivered.

In Lynn, Mass., General Electric's Flight Propulsion Division formed its plants into a community called Turbotown, drew up a Declaration of Independence from Error and offered citizenship to workers who pledged to eliminate defects from their work.

BARBERSHOP FOLLOWS THE TREND

The idea caught on. More than 97 per cent of the employees signed up for "citizenship." Across the street from one plant, Spiro the Barber renamed his shop "Turbotown Barbershop" and offered "Quality Haircuts" and "Zero Defects." Within a few months employees had called attention to 2,600 potential causes of error; defects in the Turbotown-produced T58 engine dropped a dramatic 75 per cent; Air Force generals classed a J85 gear box from Turbotown as the best gear operation they had ever scen.

The story has been repeated elsewhere. In Anaheim, Calif., North American Aviation's Autonetics Division adopted a PRIDE program to encourage individual initiative among its workers. PRIDE badges, stickers and brochures blossomed by the thousands throughout the plant. More than 1,000 banners were unfurled over the exit gates asking workers: "Can you take pride in what you did today?"

Plaques were awarded to outstanding workers each month; and some employees even began marking their work with a personal stamp they had designed. "It's their way of saying they are proud of what they have built," explained supervisor Glenn Claypoole.

Again, results were spectacular. Suggestion boxes overflowed with proposals for improving quality. Defects in the intricate guidance system for the Minute-

Workmanship makes comeback: Exemplifying Western Electric's drive for perfection in its Burlington, N.C., shops, wirewoman Mabel Sumner (above) has made no faulty connections for past 4 years. man missile dropped 84 per cent; defects in other, less vital, gear dropped 90 and 74 per cent, respectively. At press time, 40 consecutive Minutemen had been fired without a single failure of an Autonetics part.

Western Electric's North Carolina plant has developed pride in work by girls who do soldering jobs. Those who can complete 100,000 perfect soldering connections are eligible to join the Perfect-Soldered-Connection Club. Says S. C. Donnelly, assistant works manager: "In commercial wiring, no more than I poor solder connection in 10,000 can be tolerated, in military work, no more than I per 20,000. And we keep upgrading these standards until fantastic ratios are achieved. As a result, we have workers who compile records of millions of consecutive connections without a single failure."

In their scramble for the defense dollar, executives need to put good products ahead of high profits. They must encourage pride in craftsmanship, and they must institute rigorous quality control inspection. Workers must remember that faulty insulation in a small wire is enough to destroy months of work and send millions of dollars blasting sky-high.

There will always be human errors in any human endeavor. But if America is going to retain its prestige as the world's greatest workshop, then the pride in a job well done must be maintained or, when it has grown thin, restored.

which dogs do you think are the most wanted in the nation?

The answer, which may surprise you, is the "failures." Ever hear of that breed? The failures in fact consist of many breeds, mostly German shepherds, Labrador retrievers, golden retrievers and mixtures of retriever and shepherd.

These failures are dogs who have failed to pass the exceedingly tough exams given by three of the major organizations in this country which train dog guides for the blind. They are Seeing Eye, Inc., Leader Dogs for the Blind and Guide Dogs for the Blind.

Each of these outfits has been swamped by hundreds of requests for the dog rejects and wants no more.

"We have a mile-long waiting list," explains William F. Johns, executive director of Guide Dogs for the Blind, "and we don't want it to grow any longer. Enough is enough."

"Whatever you do," one Seeing Eye official declares, "don't mention anything about our dogs who fail to make the grade. Over the years the demand for these has exceeded the supply by a tremendous margin."

"You won't believe it," declares Harold Pocklington, director of Leader Dogs for the Blind, "but we've got people who are willing to wait years for a reject dog and will go to any pains to get one."

The basic reason these canines are in such strong and wide demand is that they are well-bred, intelligent and well-trained—certainly more so than the average dog available from the local pound or even a kennel. More important, too, no charge is made for a reject even though it costs anywhere from $1,000 to $1,500 to train one.

MATTER OF TEMPERAMENT

In many cases the dogs who are finally rejected are disqualified by one small defect, generally in temperament.

Erich Renner, head dog-trainer for International Guiding Eyes and an ace California breeder of German shepherds, points out: "Each dog, like each human being, has an individual temperament. Sometimes we'll get a dog who's just too playful. Such a dog will make a marvelous pet and friend, but as a guide dog she won't stick to business. So we fail her.

"Other organizations for the blind train both male and female dogs. But we take only females for guide training. I believe them to be more gentle and easier to handle. But here again we get our fatheres. One dog will be traffic-shy. Another will insist upon chasing birds. A third will balk at the special harness she has to wear. These are very minor faults ordinarily, but when the dogowner is blind, they become major ones. Each time a guide dog leads her blind master, she has his life in her paws. That's why our standards are so high."

Since 1942 Guide Dogs for the Blind has trained some 1,500 dogs—it is the only organization for the blind which insists upon breeding all its guide dogs

AMERICA'S MOST WANTED DOGS

by LLOYD SHEARER

Blind pianist George Shearing fondles Lee. Reject guide dogs are in great demand.

Dog leads blind owner past obstacle, must have strong sense of clearance, distance.

—and according to director Bill Johns, "When we reject a dog after some training, it's usually because the dog has not developed a good enough sense of responsibility."

"We use German shepherds and retrievers," Johns explains, "and occasionally we get training failures. We reject a dog permanently when we're convinced it lacks a sense of high responsibility. It comes down to basic obedience. Some dogs don't give a darn whether they run their masters into a telegraph pole or into the street. Some can't perceive clearances too well. These are the dogs we reject. They're all high-grade physically and mentally, or we wouldn't have taken them to begin with.

"It's a lot like college entrance nowadays. Only the best get in, only the very best survive, and even those who fail are of vastly superior intelligence."

RAISED BY 4-H MEMBERS

Most dog-trainees are 1-year-old German shepherd or Labrador bitches who have been given as puppies to members of the 4-H clubs. These 4-H boys and girls raise the puppies in their homes. The organizations which farin out the dogs pay for food and medical care.

By the time the potential dog guide is 12 months old, she's had a background of love, care and a wide experience of home life. She is then turned over to the association for the blind.

Before her intensive 4-month training period begins, she is X-rayed and tested. If she's too large, too small, physically or mentally not up to par, she's rejected out of hand. At least 50 per cent of the candidates are turned down. These rejects are first offered to the youngsters who raised them, then to the some other eager family on the waiting list.

Those dogs accepted for training undergo an education which is divided into 4 phases: obedience exercises, guide work, educated disobedience and one month with their blind masters-to-be.

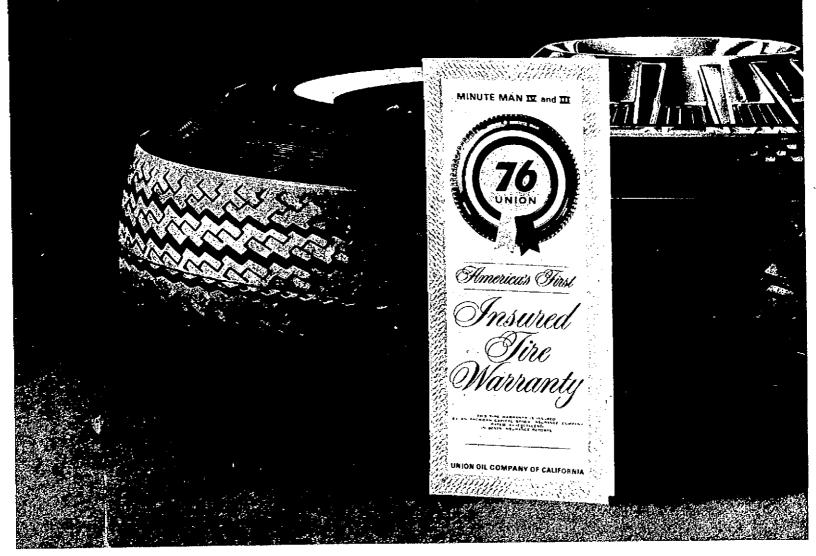

FLUNK-OUT STAGE

Most of the candidates get through the first training phase easily. The second period, in which the dog wears a guiding harness on its body, is more difficult. Many dogs find it difficult to stop at street curbs, because for them it's a completely unnatural stop. Several dogs "bust out" in this second phase of their training, and it is these dogs which are most wanted by the knowledgeable petloving segment of the public.

When such a dog is given away, the association emphasizes the fact that the dog has failed as a guide dog and must under no circumstances be used to guide a blind person. Many years ago a rejected dog was foolishly lent to guide a blind salesman and led him into a trafficteeming street where he was killed.

Dog rejects are only for the seeing. And for the seeing, as dogs go, there are none better. Unfortunately, there aren't enough "failures" to go around.

BASEBALL'S LOVABLE STUMBLEBUMS

In the 1923 World Series Casey Stengel hit two home runs, each giving the New York Giants a victory over the Yankees. As he rounded third on the second blast, Casey, then 34, thumbed his nose at customers in brand-new Yankee Stadium.

The late Jake Ruppert, Yankee owner, was outraged. He demanded that Commissioner Landis fine Stengel. "He has insulted our fans," stormed Ruppert.

Now, 41 years later, Stengel is tormenting the Yankees again. At 75, old Casey is luring baseball customers out of Yankee Stadium to Shea Stadium, the new home of the Mets, where the faus are certain to see the worst bullplayers ever.

Furthermore, the Mets' fans are proud of it. The Mets won their fans the hard way—losing 120 games in a single season and being shut out 30 times.

After watching four runners thrown out at home plate and four easy double-play balls muffed, Frank Frisch, one of baseball's all-time stars, was aghast. "I don't have to go out of my house again as long as I live—I've seen everything," he groaned.

Bill Veeck, who once owned the St. Louis Browns, conceded: "The Mets deserve their title. They won it fair and square. They achieved total incompetence in a single year."

A DAY TO REMEMBER

There was the day one infielder broke for short centerfield to take a pop fly, which was caught by another infielder near the pitcher's mound. And the day pitcher Roger Craig had Orlando Cepeda trapped off first twice. Ed Bouchee dropped the ball both times.

Not long ago, one suburbanite happily revealed he had been elected president of the community's Mets' Fan Club. A business associate dryly observed: "Isn't that about like being elected captain of the Titunie?"

Last summer the Mets promoted a Banners Day. It was such a huge success that Macy's department store asked to sponsor the 1964 event, a trip to Spain to be the first prize. As we go to press, the Mets are playing hard to get.

One fellow carried a banner proclaiming his devotion to Mary Throneberry, an ex-Yankee, who once was one of the Met misfits. "We Love Mary," it said. The fan climbed on top of the dugout, and the police promptly tossed him out. Minutes later he was in the bleachers waving his banner. Throne-

Which recalls the day the Mets threw a birthday party for Casey, whose natal day is the same as Mary's.

"How come I didn't get a cake?" pouted Mary.

"They's afraid you'd drop it," squelched Stengel.

One fan says, "If you can't love the Mets you can't love anyone." A New York writer compared the fans' devotion to the love of a mother for an errant child. The New York 'Times, in an editorial a few weeks ago, said: "We confidently predict a third year of glorious unsuccess for the Mets."

Actually, baseball veterans are amazed. They don't know what to make of it. The Mets drew 922,530 in 1962. Last season attendance moved up to 1,080,108—just 228,812 behind the pennant-winning Yankees, whose own attendance fell 184,654 below the 1962 figure.

Conservatives estimate the Mets—still probably doomed to last place—will this year draw 1,500,000; others say 2,000,000. In their first game this season they proudly lost to the Pittsburgh

Pirates before 50,312 paying customers. The Yankees, the day before, could only muster 12,709 for Yogi Berra's losing debut with the Boston Red Sox.

The hig bonus, of course, is the new stadium itself and the adjacent World's Fair. Fair visitors may visit exhibits in the morning, rest and see the Mcts in the afternoon, then return to the Fair.

Yet no one seems to know precisely why the bumbling Mets captured the big city. Many New Yorkers quit going to baseball games when the Giants and Dodgers went to California late in 1957. Others became sated with Yankee success. Some crossed off the Yankees when they fired manager Stengel, who had won 10 pennants in 12 years, 1949-60. Many apparently were ready for a new team, a return of the National League. That the Mets were almost devoid of talent seemed to help.

FORMULA FOR FAME

The Mets play the sort of baseball that invites bankruptcy and cruel jibes. Remember the Phillies? They finished last 21 times, but they did it in merciful privacy. St. Louis quit entirely on the Browns, and the club wound up in Baltimore. More recently, Milwaukee's Braves slumped from first to sixth; attendance went from 2,400,000 to 750,000. But, strangely, a Met who drops a simple pop fly is a hero. If he whiffs with the bases loaded his fame is secure.

This must come as a shock to those who grew up on the law of the sports jungle—win or get out. Stengel himself got fired as a nonwinning manager at Boston and Brooklyn. Football coaches lose jobs for the same reason. But it isn't that way with the Mets.

Sometime, somehow, last season the Mets won three in a row. Lindsey Nelson, the TV voice, said to James K. Thomson, the business manager: "That's great. If we win today we could have a great advance sale for the weekend."

Thomson said, "No, Lindsey, it doesn't work like that. When we play two or three good games, the advance sale drops off. It because when we lose!"

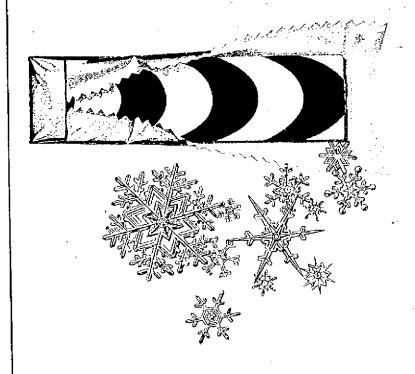

sale drops off. It booms when we lose!"
What will happen when and if the Mets begin to look like a baseball team?

The Mets' current motto is: "We'll win more in '64." One club official says: "We've been selling the sizzle for three years; sooner or later, we've got to start selling the steak." Mets' fans take a different view: One, writing for tickets, included a note: "I just hope WE don't ever achieve mediocrity."

HUSBAND-HUNTERS. The market for U.S. husbands is getting smaller. In 1930 this country boasted 102.5 males for every 100 females. By 1950 the proportion had dropped to 98.6 men for every 100 women. Today it's 96.2 males per 100 women.

PEYTON PLACE. TV stations and networks throughout the world borrow ideas and procedures from each other regularly. In Great Britain one of the most successful programs has long been Coronation Street, which is aired twice a week. Next season ABC-TV plans to schedule a scap opera, Peyton Place, two nights per week, on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 9:30 to 10 P.M. The program, produced by 20th Century-Fox, stars Maureen O'Sullivan's daughter, Mia Farrow, Dorothy Malone and several unknowns.

DEATH IN JAPAN. Leading cause of death in the 15-29 age group in Japan is suicide. Highest rate is among men under 25. Drug poisoning is the favored suicide method. Most suicide attempts are made in the summer. Most frequent causes: failure in love, business or school work.

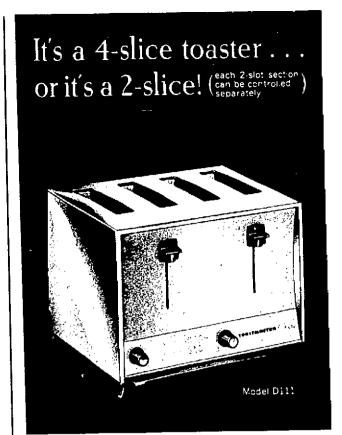

EASY DIVORCE. East Germany under the Communists has become one of the easiest countries in which to obtain a divorce. All a man who wants to get rid of his wife, and vice versa, need do is to testify at the divorce hearing: "She hinders my social development." Result: the divorce rate in the Soviet zone of Germany is 50% higher than in West Germany; young marriages in the Communist sector are breaking up at an alarming rate.

QUIZ FOR OVER 35s. Do you worry about growing older? Are you easily upset over trifles? Do you nurse grievances? Do you feel your talents are not recognized, blame your troubles on bad luck? Do you become easily depressed or disappointed? Have you postponed making a will? Do you invent flattering stories about yourself? Do you secretly enjoy hearing of other people's misfortunes? Would you find it hard to live in a totally new environment? Do you resent the fact that your wife or husband is growing older? Do you often find marriage monotonous and wish for your freedom? If your answer is "yes" to seven of these questions, chances are you're an immature, escapist and frequently unhappy middle-ager. So at least claims British marital expert, Dr. Eustace Chesser, in his latest work, Challenge of the Middle Years, soon to be published in this country.

BOLD EXPERIMENT. Juvenile delinquency, on the increase pretty nearly everywhere in America, is declining in Montana. Why? Montana scrapped its juvenile courts two years ago, insisted upon dealing with all offenders, regardless of age, in open court. Their names, addresses, crimes, parents are all completely reported in the newspapers. The publicity has proven a genuine deterrent to crime. Juvenile felony cases in Montana are down 49%, traffic cases 75%. Judge Lester Loble, who introduced the "treatment like adults" practice, says: The system is effective because we lecture offenders and their parents in open court so that their cases can be fully reported. It passes responsibility on to the parents. They can no longer hide behind the anonymous charges which used to go on the record in the juvenile court."

SITUATIONS VACANT. In booming West Germany desperate employers announce 632,000 job vacancies, are recruiting labor from all over Europe, are disturbed that pools of relatively cheap labor in Italy, Turkey, Greece and Spain are finally drying up.

Mrs. John F. Kennedy

I saw your wonderful letter in last week's magazine and I want to tell you how touched I am by PARADE's idea to have the boys and girls of America each give a day to raise money for the John F. Kennedy Library.

The President had such faith in our young people, and I can think of no birthday present which would have pleased him more.

Sincerely,

WORK A DAY FOR JFK,

The initial response to PARADE's open letter to the nation's youth (May 17) suggesting a fitting remembrance of John F. Kennedy's May 29 birthday has been tremendous.

The letter suggested that America's young people give up one day of leisure, devote it to work and offer the earnings as a birthday present to help build the John F. Kennedy Library in Cambridge, Mass. The gift would be even more appreciated if you included a note explaining how the money was earned. Some of these letters will be published in PARADE.

No matter how small your gift, your name will be printed in the book of donors, which will be kept in a place of honor at the Kennedy Library.

Mrs. John F. Kennedy is among those who have endorsed PARADE's proposal. She writes: "The President had such faith in our young people, and I can think of no birthday present which would have pleased him more."

So, if you haven't sent in your contribution, please join the thousands of other youngsters who have already participated. Send the proceeds of a day's work for JFK to Kennedy Library Fund, Parade, Box 1640, Grand Central Station, N. Y. 10017.

My Favorite Jokes

by Jack E.
Leonard

EDITOR'S NOTE: Jack E. Leonard (né Jack Lubitsky) was born in Chicago in 1911, the son of a tailor. Although Leonard weighs close to 300 pounds today, he started out in show business as a thin, lithe Charleston dancer. He won several contests around Chicago in the early 1930s and was spotted by comedian Billy House, who put him in a vaudeville sketch. Leonard has worked steadily ever since. He added the "E" to his name many years ago when he returned from England to find a crooner named Jack Leonard working with the Tommy Dorsey band. The "E," he claims, stands for "Edorable." Leonard was the first of the so-called "insult" comedians in this country, and his style has been copied by many. Jack has a new album out called How to Lose Weight, which was inspired by his wife, the former Kay Dillon, whom he met while they were both working for the U.S.O. lack, with wife and assorted poodles, is based in New York. Herewith some of his favorite jokes:

I tove California. I think it's one of the finest suburbs Japan ever had.

Frank Sinatra once asked me how much weight I had lost, "Frank," I said, "I've lost more than you ARE." Frank Sinatra, incidentally, is the only singer I know who can walk through a harp.

I'd like to tell you about a fellow comedian— Jack Carter, He's got a great comedy style mine! I love Texans because they're all very religious people. They worship each other.

My wife is a very lovely lady but also a very fussy housekeeper. She keeps putting newspapers under the cuckoo clock.

A teenager pulled up to a filling station in Hartford, Conn., and said to the attendant: "Give me a dollar's worth of gas. I want to go to California."

The attendant said: "What are you, nuts? You can't go to California on a dollar's worth of gas!"

"I know that," answered the teenager. "This is a stick-up."

A beautiful redhead strolled into a dress shop on Michigan Avenue in Chicago. "I wonder," she said to the manager, "if I might try on that red suit in the window."

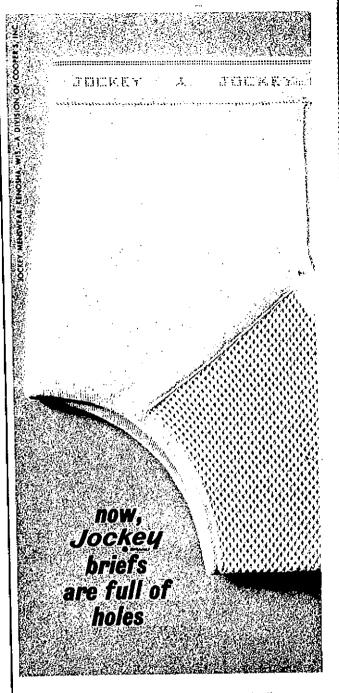

"You bet," he said. "It might help business."

Two weeks ago my wife and I went to a dentist. "I want a tooth pulled," my wife told the dentist, "and I don't want any anesthetic because I'm in a hurry."

"That's very brave of you," the dentist said. "Which tooth is it?"

"Jack," my wife said, "show him your tooth."

I'm getting old. Know how I can tell? Nowadays when I sit down in a restaurant I inspect the menu before I inspect the waitresses.

Weary Solons Leave Legacy: Tax Hike in '65

SACRAMENTO (UPI) -The legislature Saturday adjourned its tedious 1964 session with a few firecrackers, a bit of confetti and general agreement that there must be a tax increase in 1965.

The Senate adjourned at 1:05 p.m., the Assembly 25 minutes later. Both had convened at noon Feb. 3, making this the secondlongest session in history. The longest was 1947s.

BEFORE leaving, assem-blymen received Gov. Brown's personal thanks for a "job well done."

Brown, who did not appear before the Senate, added he hoped the legislators would vote next year to increase their salaries.

After completing their major business Friday, ap-proving a $3.65-billion budget and a Long Beach tidelands oil compromise, the lawmakers Saturday passed, among other things, a November ballot proposal that will ask voters for a $260-million bend issue to continue financing state construction loans to school districts

WASHINGTON (UPI)-Nearly $1 million worth of plutonium lost in a satellite failure last month apparently was vaporized on re-entry into the atmosphere and poses "no health hazard to the world's population," the Atomic Energy Commission said Saturday night

An AEC spokesman said scientists "are able to conclude" that the plutonium was dispersed in very fine particles at the edge of space where it will remain while gradually losing its radioactivity.

About 2.2 pounds of plutonium-238, costing approximately $450,000 per pound, was lost off the west coast of Africa when the satellite carrying it failed to go into orbit. One Defense Department source said "human error" apparently caused the malfunctions, but the AEC had no comment on this.

The plutonium was fuel for a SNAP-9A generator designed to provide power for the Navy navigational satellite launched from Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif.

THE DEFENSE Department and the AEC did not identify the satellite further, but apparently it was one in the Navy's "Transit" series, launched about April 21. At least two similar plutonium-powered SNAP (Systems for Nuclear Auxiliary Power) generators are in orbit in other satellites. Military officials generally do not identify satellites launched from the California base. The AEC issued a brief statement May 11 about the failure of this satellite when queried by the Atomic Industrial Forum Inc. of New York. an association devoted to fostering development of atomic energy for peaceful purposes. The forum noted that an "elaborate interagency review system" has been designed to assure that the possibility of failure in such launchings is taken into account

"together with all technical and political implications." (Continued Page A-2, Col. 3) by the President, as all earlier ones have been," it said.

SAN FRANCISCO (49-Six Samoans presenting a fire dance at a church party died Saturday night in a blaze apparently touched off by their flaming torches. More than 60 spectators were injured.

Panic spread among 200 present at the performance given by the Samoan Benevolent Catholic Society. Flames spread up a curtain near a stage in the parish hall adjoining All Hallow's Church in the Bayview district.

EYEWITNESSES said spectators fought to get out of the building as flames spread across rafters.

At least 60 were taken to one hospital and an undetermined number to three other hospitals.

The fire apparently broke out as a dancer tried to light a sword wrapped in cotton and doused in gasoline for the traditional fire dance.

Firemen said a stage curtain near the dancer blazed up and a man attempted to put out the flames with a hand fire extinguisher. Witnesses said the blaze seemed to follow the extinguisher stream up the curtain and fanned out over Firemen called it a "horrible massacre" and said the street in front of the build-

Do We Want Control by Left Extremists?

L.a.C. Says: GOP Senatorial Candidates Overlooked

The bitter fight between the Rockefeller and Goldwater forces has obscured the contest for the Republican senatorial nomination. The political feud between the Unruh-Salinger, Brown-Cranston forces has had the spotlight. The Republican candidates for the party senatorial nomination have had little publicity because they have not been slinging mud at each

It is time that Republicans take an interest in it was, after all, "a successful these candidates. The one nominated will oppose either Salinger or Cranston in the November final election. The GOP candidates are George Murphy, Leland Kaiser and Fred Hall. The record of George Murphy is one of 20 years of dedicated service to the Republican Party in California. He was one of the most successful stars in motion pictures—then an outstanding success as a businessman in motion picture and television production. His moderate conservatism has been a force in the party during years when, through his and other conservative efforts, the Communists were driven out of key positions in Hollywood.

Leland Kaiser is a respected and successful financier and businessman who has devoted much of his time to GOP party activities. Fred Hall is-in my opinion-a newcomer-opportunist who does not deserve support. Murphy does deserve support because he has demonstrated his allegiance to the principles of the Republican Party over many years. And he will be the most effective speaker and opponent of the Democratic candidate when the two fight out the fivemonth campaign ending with the November election. *

* Murphy has been making some good impressions before several Republican meetings a day. But there has been little publicity because his common sense, conservative speeches have been overshadowed by the charges of corruption against each other by Salinger and Cranston. But, in the final campaign, Murphy will be a formidable opponent. And he will not only have the Republican vote but also a large conservative Democratic vote in the state.

He would be effective in opposing Cranston because of Cranston's ultra-liberal CDC connections. He would be equally effective in challenging the Unruhbacked Salinger candidacy. He will have the statement of Robert Kennedy as an effective weapon against Salinger. Kennedy, who was viewed as a candidate for the Senate in New York state, said this week: "All things being equal it would be better for a citizen of New York to run for the position." The same remark could well apply to Salinger who was a citizen and registered voter in Virginia when he entered the California race.

The bitterness between the Rockefeller and Goldwater forces caused the voters to turn to Lodge in several states. The power fight between Pat Brown and Jesse Unruh forces will cause a large portion of voters to turn against the Brown-Cranston and Unruh-Salinger candidates. This can mean a big swing behind Murphy when the June 2 primary is decided and the campaign for the November election starts. Murphy is deserving of support and capable of carrying on the kind of campaign that can bring a victory to the Republican Party in California. The senator to replace the ailing Sen. Engle will be of vital importance to California. It is time for Republicans to support a candidate who has a good chance of winning. In my opinion, George Murphy is such a candidate.-L.A.C.

Now, I don't know anything about golf—but I DO know when a fella's in good form.

I guess that's why the paper gave me a pair of binoculars (also a supply of tranquilizers) and sent me off to cover the World Entertainment Golf Championship at Recreation Park.

During the first reel of the two-day golf ex-travaganza, 130-some luminaries from the tinsel world of movies and TV hit-and-hunted golf balls for the enjoyment of their ambulatory audiences.

I think their golf must have been pretty good. At least, I didn't see a single one miss the ball or lose his toupee.

SOME WERE in especially good form.

Take James Garner (and what gal wouldn't).

This fall-dark-and-handsome of Maverick and movie fame seems to be top box office on the golf course as well as at the movie houses.

He was sporting blond streaks in his black hair—and, of course, any inquiring reporter has to find out about a thing like that. After all, it may be the next male fad.

But don't start streaking your hair, boys. He's only bleached for his next movie, "36 Days," in which he plays a graying officer, Beaween camera clicks, golf strokes and autographs (he should have had a handicap for writer's cramp), Garner finally explained: "They had to bleach to make the streaks look gray on the screen."

GARNER'S tipped hair was just one of many Hollywood touches. In fact, it's a "Mad, Mad, Mad, Mad World" in technicolor when the movie colony takes over a golf course.

One movie-struck male was wearing a flip: (hairstyle, of course) . . . there was a lady with a crew cut . . . but a couple of Yul Brenner types had the most real-gone hairdos of all.

Distinguished mustachioed gents sported kookie hats . . . Mickey Rooney was sprouting a fuzzy goatie . . . John Agar was wearing blue pants, aqua sweat shirt and red shoes...one bearded character looked like he'd just arrived by covered wagon.

The day's champ, Bob Wilke, husky badman "Wagon Train," pampers his golf clubs with mink coats, designed by another player in the golf show.

Abe Lipsy, who supplies movie sirens with furs to drag across the screen. (He just did a floor length chinchilla for Cyd Charisse.)

And there were some pretty good lines if you happened to be on hand to hear. Like when TV showman Red Rowe, signing an autograph for small-fry spectator Billy Deeble of 3420 Marna, looked at the boy's braces and quipped:

.BJ, Ike Honor Late Marshall

Johnson and Eisenhower shared a sun-bathed platform at Virginia Military Institute to dedicate the $600,000 Marshall Research Library.

The white stone building houses the papers and memenioes of Marshall, the VMI grad who was Army chief of staff in World War II and both secretary of State and secretary of Defense in the postwar years.

Johnson keyed his address before an audience of 10,000 to Marshall's original proposal that the "Marshall Plan" of the Iron Curtain-an idea rejected by the Communists for the reconstruction of Europe be applied to both sides. The chief executive said the United States works to carry on Marshall's vision of a single European civilization

Eisenhower who served under Marshall as Allied commander in Europe during the war, said the Marshall papers collected here "will tell future generations what those of us who were privileged to serve with him have long known—here was truly a great man."

Dassault Kidnaping 'Political'

PARIS LP—A series of telephone calls Saturday night indicated the kidnapers of Mrs. Marcel Dassault had political motives or that foes of President Charles de Gaulle were trying to exploit the kidnaping for political purposes.

Police threw all their resources into a hunt for the three men—two gunmen and a driver—who carried out the predawn abduction of Mrs. Dessault, 63, the wife of a millionaire French warplane builder.

Anonymous callers contacted two Paris evening papers and the French Press Agency, in each case purporting to speak for the kidnapers.

In the first case, the caller told Le Monde the kidnapers wanted a ransom of 10 million fancs ($2 million). Then France-Soir was notified that Mrs, Dassault would be freed in 70 hours if ex-Gen. Raoul Salan were released. Salan is serving a life term for leading the anti-Gaullist terrorist Secret Army Organization in Algeria.

There was no way of telling if the callers had any real connection with the kidnap gang.

Goldwater Says Nixon Chief Rival

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Sen. Barry Goldwater said Saturday he thinks former Vice President Richard M. Nixon will be the "final hurdle" in his bid for the Republican presidential nomination, regardless of how he fares in the California primary.

"If I didn't win in the first go-round, Nixon would be the hurdle to get over," said Goldwater, referring to the Republican national convention in San Francisco.

In what he called his last formal news conference before the June 2 primary, Goldwater also disclosed that Nixon had telephoned him about two weeks ago to discuss general convention matters.

Goldwater flew here Saturday to open a statewide saturation campaign in his critical joust with Gov. Nelson Rockefeller for the state's 86 votes at the GOP convention. He attacked some of the "henchmen and hatchetmen in 'Stop Goldwater' movement.

L.A. Escapee Holds Utah Pair 14 Hours

SALT LAKE CITY (P)-A church official and a police officer talked a jail escapee into giving up his gun Satur-day night after he had held a taxi driver and his wife hostage for 14 hours. When Lt. George Neilson motioned to officers outside the suburban Salt Lake City home that he had the gun, about a dozen men rushed the house and overpowered the man. No one was hurt, The man was identified as Jim Lindley, 30, who reportedly escaped April 19 from a detention camp in Los Angeles County, Calif., where he was serving a one-year sentence for assault with a deadly weapon. Mr. and Mrs. Chester Robards, who had been held hostage in their home since 6 a.m., were not harmed.

Florida's Democrats Set to Vote

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) -Florida Democrata nominate a governor Tuesday, cli maxing a bitter runoff campaign that established the Negro bloc vote as a political force within the state for the first time in history.

The race between big city mayors Haydon Burns of Jacksonville and Robert King High of Miami was dominated by the civil rights issue, with Burns cast as the conservative and High donning the mantle of liberalism.

Rutledge Péarson, state president of the National Association for the Advance ment of Colored People, publicly declared that Florida Negroes bloc-voted for High in the first primary May 5 and would do so again in the run-

BURNS LABELED High the "NAACP candidate," pleading with Floridians not to let the radical element take over the state. High accused Burns of race-baiting.

With other major statewide races settled May 5, the fore-cast is for only 1,035,000 of the 2.2 million registered Democrats and Republicans to vote, some drawn by local contests and a handful of state legislative runoffs not settled in the first balloting.

The winner of the Burns-High contest will face Republican nominee Charles Holley, St. Petersburg legislator, in November. But Democratic nomination for governor has always meant election in Florida. Barring an upset. Tuesday's election will also be deciding Florida's leader for the two years starting in January.

Council Hits Udall Plan

Supporting the position of the supervisors and other California officials, the Long Beach City Council is strongly opposing the Pacific Southwest Water Plan advanced by Secretary of the Interior Stewart L.

Councilmen have ordered preparation of a resolution asserting that the plan in it present form fails to protect California's priority in Colorado River water to the extent of 4.4 million acreter used for the Central Arizona project.

The resolution awaiting final council approval, also declares:

-The Udall proposal would render useless an aqueduct now providing a vital source of water supply to 9 million persons.

-It is derelict in that it recommends immediate appropriations for the Central Arizona Project but makes only vague promises regarding future water devel-sers-feet annually.

-Also endorsed is the Kuchel-Engle Bill ($ 1275) for elarification of conflicting relationships between the western states and the federal government on the subject of water rights.

Terms of the resolution were suggested by Brennan S. Thomas, general manager of the Municipal Water Department. They parallel the position taken earlier by the Board of Water Com-

The Outcry

WHOLLY APART FROM the civil rights demonstrations, there is a notable tendency in American - society today to publicize one's cause by marching and 'picketing.

More than ever before in U.S. history, citizens who want a traffic light at the school crossing or a wading pool in the park are inclined to gather at the corner and stall traffic to draw attention to their

What's the explanation?

We suspect that demonstrations are the inevitable reaction of a traditionally democratic society which is having increasing difficulty obtaining a voice in public affairs.

As the population grows, government at all levels tends to become remote from the individual, whose separate and personal identity is blurred and lost in the crowd. Representative government seems less representative; the bureaucrats begin to believe their 🤝 offices exist for their own pleasure; it's harder for the citizen to get in touch.

To make themselves heard, to restore the democratic process, people join together and raise their voices in unison. They return, in effect, to the townmeeting of their New England forefathers.

Despite the evidence that governments are growing too big and too complicated to respond efficiently to public opinion, planners continue to extol the vir- BOB HOUSER tues of tomorrow's super-government. was Murphy 38, Hall 20 and Kaiser 8, with 34 per cent undecided. In early May it was Murphy 27, Kaiser 14, Hall 1 and 45 per cent were undecided.

In other words, frontrunner Murphy had lost 11 points, Kaiser gained 6 to go into a second place that was still 2-to-1

against him, and Hall dropped 9 points into third place. And in the doing, the undecided vote jumped 14 per cent to a level indicating half of the GOP voters either consider the race a bore or are not impressed with their party's field this year. The same California Poll says Murphy would be clobbered by either of the two front-running Democrats.

Here are some highlights on the GOP contenders gath-Mayor Richard Daley, touring the old country, ar- ered from the press and from the League of Women Voters

HALL IS AN ATTORNEY, former Governor of Kansas, former Kansas Supreme Court Justice and former executive vice president of the World's Fair at Long Beach. He favors continued economic aid to developing nations. He strongly supports the entire Civil Rights Bill before the Senate. Pressing domestic problems, he says, are job cresion. KAISER, A FINANCIER, and an organizer for Goldwater's presidential effort before his Senate candidacy, lists his platform: ,1) Create new peacetime industry and jobs. (6) Stop bureaucratic interference with citizens and business (7) Stop foreign aid waste. (8) Equal opportunities for all. Kaiser says elect a businessman to the Senate. He avidly dislikes Hall, refused to be photographed with him and once offered to punch him in the nose, He says he doesn't know where Murphy stands on the issues. He likes the principle of the UN but decries Democrats' "abolishing our nation's sovereignty," and agrees with Murphy that America is "a hated and despised nation."

MURPHY, VICE PRESIDENT and director of Technicolor Corp., is a former actor who appeared in numerous film musicals and tells his audiences he feels the "good guy image in those films will help his cause. He also advocates rebuilding the U.S. image through intelligent use of films abroad. He advocates "careful" foreign aid to make recipients self supporting, says aid could be cut 25 per cent. He favors civil rights, thought the House-passed bill unacceptable but expects the Senate compromise to be good. He favors a balanced budget, curbs on inflation and deficit spending. Opposes "inroads of socialistic practices too much government restriction and regulation of industry." Favors constitutional government "by law rather than by directive." Murphy has worked in state and national GOP affairs for 25 years. Before his candidacy he was active in Americanism rallies like Project Alert and the Christian Anti-Communism Crusade.

Editors over the nation warmly praised Mr. Salinger upon the occasion of his resignation as presidential press secretary. His work in that position was hailed and there was wide agreement that he would make a strong candidate and, if elected, a most effective Senator.

Here are samples of quotations: SANTA BARBARA (CALIF.) NEWS-PRESS:

What tips the balance most fully in Mr. Salinger's favor is the obvious fact that his prestige and experience, as distinguished from that of his principal opponent, would put him one-up as a freshman senator. He has had close experience with the workings of both the national administration, from the White House down through the administrative agencies of the Congress. He knows the govern-ment and has contacts. He is ready to take over and be a Senator from the time he might be seated in the Senate. They were made in the heat of the Senate Democratic leadership's massive effort to check the Bobby Baker investigation.

The Senate rejected a proposal to widen the Baker probe. It was a party-line vote, all Republicans and nine Democrats voting to extend the investigation. The overall impression so far is that it has been a rabbity affair, timid, fearful and eager to conclude.

The impression is that the investigators are hiding something or that they are Jenkins was not summoned by the investigators to testify. An astonishing oversight, if it was an oversight. He did however, make an affidavit denial.

There are other items of interest unexplored by the senators. Chances are the newspapers will continue to press the matter, as they should. Nothing new in that. The Teapot Dome Scandal might have fizzled in the 1920's but for the sharp reportorial brain of the late Paul Y. Anderson of the St. Louis Post-Dis-

The Senate stock market investigation of the early 1930's certainly would have been abandoned within weeks of its beginning but for the hard hitting repertorial job by members of the Senate press gallery.

Interested parties in the 1920's and 1930's tried Mike Mansfield's shabby tactic of claiming a foul against the press. It didn't work then and it probably will not work now. But it wouldn't hurt if the voters also came alive.

friends that he was strongly urged by some California Democrats to enter the June 2 Primary in the nation's largest state. That would have created a major dilemma for the White House and for Gov. Edmund G. Brown of California.

Under California law, winning delega-tions in Presidential primaries must support their nominee at the convention until he releases them. Had Wallace run unopposed in California, he theoretically could have prevented the Democratic Convention at Atlantic City from nominating President Lyndon B. Johnson by unanimous acclamation, merely by sitting tight on his delegates.

Wallace considered the California invitation, but in the end rejected it because the outlook for achieving his purpose looked easier in Wisconsin, Indiana and Maryland. His applecart was upset by Hoosier Gov. Matthew Welsh and a smoothly-functioning party organization in that state.

The Wallace plan was to run in states where incumbent Democratic governors were in trouble with the electorate. He figures that he would get a progressively higher percentage of the vote as the primaries were held in Wisconsin, Indiana and Maryland in that order. This would give the appearance to some folks of a groundswell building behind him, and it was the hope

The segregationist Governor has told he would in Wisconsin (34.6 percent of the vote) worse than he had expected in Indiana (29.8) and about as planned in Maryland (42.8). In the latter state, Gov. Millard Tawes was in trouble because he raised income taxes and because of savings and loan scandals during his regime. The state was ripe for picking and Wallace sensed it.

> THE STREAM OF letters and gifts for Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy continues and from present indications it will go on forever. Those who send gifts apparently don't stop to think whether Mrs. Kennedy might actually want them. They just send them along and expect to be thanked for them. The other day some well-meaning person sent a couple of hamsters to the White House, addressed to Mrs. Kennedy and/or her children. While the White House ladies in charge of Mrs. Kennedy's mail were wondering what to do with the little animals, the female gave birth to three tiny hamsters. Mrs. Kennedy Jaughingly declined the gift of the now five animals and the problem arose of what to do with them. A worker in the White House offered to take them and spent the next night feeding the newcomers from an eyedropper. What she will now do with them, she doesn't know, but she sure wishes people would stop sending animals to the Kennedy children. They already have plenty, thank you.

THE WEEK IN REVIEW Red Peril in Laos Stirs U.S. Action

By HARRY WILSON SHARPE

A Communist threat last week to overrun strategic Laos in Southeast Asia brought a grim warning of possible U.S. military intervention.

American jet reconnaissance planes kept around-thelock checks on the Red-Chinese-backed Communist Pathet Lao attack which breached a 1962, 14-nation Geneva pact guaranteeing Laotian neutrality. Red China and Russia were among the pact's signatories.

More than 15,000 American soldiers already are committed to a costly anti-Communist war in neighboring South Viet Nam which, like Laos and Cambodia, is coveted by Red China.

U.S. withdrawal would open the rich storehouse of all East Asia to possible Communist conquest.

ADLAI STEVENSON President Johnson sought to end the crisis through diplomatic channels and the United Nations. But he made It clear that Laotian neutrality would be protected at whatever cost. He was weighing whether to send the Seventh Fleet and stand-by troops to Thailand adjacent to Laos as President John F. Kennedy did in similar circumstances two years ago.

United Nations ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson, recalled hastily from Europe, placed the U.S. case before the U.N. Security Council with suggestions for a U.N. peace-keeping role in all of the area which was once

He warned that "the United States cannot stand by while Southeast Asia is overrun by armed aggression." And he rejected demands by Russia, Red China and France that the Geneva conference, which set up the present countries and guaranteed their neutrality, be reconvened.

"WHAT IS NEEDED," Stevenson declared, "is to respect and honor agreements already made." He added that there was fighting in Viet Nam and Laos because the Communists had systematically violated the Geneva pact. Then he quoted Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev that every nation's territorial integrity must be made

In Congress the House Foreign Affairs Committee unanimously approved President Johnson's request for an extra $125 million to beef up the war in South Viet Nam. It also approved in full his new $3.4 foreign aid authorization bill which carries more Viet Nam funds.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara told the committee the United States must do what is necessary" to protect all of Southeast

Former President Harry S. Truman once said "you can't trust the Russians."

The State Department gave those words some substance by disclosing that more than 40 Soviet eavesdropping devices had been dug out of the walls of the U.S. Embassy in Moscow. They apparently were planted in the Stalin era in 1952 before the remodeled building was turned over to the United States in 1953.

THE DEPARTMENT was not sure whether sensitive state secrets had been compromised. But it noted that American personnel at many posts act on the assumption their offices or homes might be bugged.

Some of the devices were dead. Others were very much alive. U.S. Ambassador Foy D. Kohler lodged a stiff protest with the Russian Foreign Office. It promised to investigate.

The State Department refused to confirm that a Soviet defector, secret police agent Yuri I. Nossenko, tipped it on the monitoring network, Nossenko defected Feb. 4. He was brought to Washington for questioning. Soon thereafter U.S. technicians demolished a "security sensitive" room in the embassy. Microphones were found deep in the masonry.

In politics, segregationist Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama gave Democrats a scare in the Maryland presidential preference primary election. He polled 43 percent of the vote, only a few thousands short of win-ning control of Maryland deleagtes to the Democratic national convention.

WALLACE INVADED the state in an anti-civil rights crusade—as he had in Wisconsin and Indiana—to oppose President Johnson's stand-in candidate, Sen. Daniel B. Brewster. He capitalized on racial antagonisms created by vociferous and sometimes violent civil rights demands of Maryland Negroes. His next target is Louisiana.

Heavy Negro and white support in Baltimore and Maryland suburbs of Washington saved Brewster-and Johnson-from defeat. Brewster got 52.5 percent of the Northern and Southern senators differed over the significance of Wallace's vote in an impending Senate showdown on the House-passed civil rights bill. Johnson declined to comment.

When the Long Beach Transportation Company invited the public to write in for its handsome new route maps, it never dreamed that 5,000 people would respond.

The office at 1330 Cherry Ave. across from the cayernous bus depot looked for all the world like a branch post office last week when the maps finally rolled off the presses and were delivered for mailing. It was all hands to stuffing the folded 131/2 x 18-inch maps into prepared envelopes, which quickly overflowed in huge stacks from desks to floor.

THE DELUGE was a direct result of a half-page advertisement in The Independent, Press - Telegram which invited those interested in the revised routes to write for new maps,

"We had no idea we'd get such fantastic response." said awe-struck William F. general manager. "And they're still coming in!"

Along with the requests came many comments and suggestions. "Suggestions by those who actually use the lines are an important way of improving our service," Fatell emphasized Farell emphasized. "Keep em coming!"

THIRTY thousand maps were printed. Including a

Crew Quiz Closed in Ship Fire

Norwegian Consul Gustav Heiberg said Saturday he had completed his investigation into a fire aboard the freighter Sandanger which claimed 10 lives Monday,

"It is my impression that many officers and crew mem bers tried to get into the pas-sengers' corridors at once, but it was impossible because of smoke and fire. They tried to rescue them. They did everything at once to get them out."

Seven passengers, two stewardesses and the Sandanger's captain were lost at sea. Only one of the bodies has been recovered.

"I HAVE finished my examination or hearing of the crew," the consul said. "Now it is up to the authorities in Norway to handle the rest of the investigation. I plan to send them a letter with my information in the next few days.

Heiberg said there was "no indication of what caused the flash fire. Nobody knows, that's the general impression," he said after completing his closed-door investigation into the tragedy.

"I think I can tell you that my impression is that the fire started in, at or near the passengers' deck," he said.

the fire spread with explosive speed, but what caused it is still unknown," added Vice Consul Arild Riiberg. The blaze erupted while the ship was off the coast of Baja California, Mexico. It was en route to France and was carrying cotton, wood pulp and citrus.

The 451-foot ship is being towed toward Long Beach by two tugboats. They are ex pected about Tuesday.

The bodies of nine of the victims were believed to be still aboard the 5,600-ton ves-

The publishing of route maps marks a "first" for Long Beach, according to Farell. Though nobody could prove it, it's a fair guess than 5,000 mailed requests for a bus-route map constitute a record for any city In California.

Sports Merry-Go-Round By HANK HOLLINGWORTH

The Sunday Sermon Pearls from the Sunday pulpit:

. . If confidence begets championships, the Philadelphia Phillies will represent the National League in the World Series this fall. Everybody on the club from batting practice pitcher Richie Ash burn to manager Gene Mauch — ESPECIALLY Mauch—believes the ragsto-riches Phils can triumph this season in the dog-eatdog senior circuit.

.. "Things are a lot different on this club than they were two years ago when we didn't win a single game in Dodger Stadium." mused Mauch before Friday night's 2-0 Phil verdict over the Dodgers. "We've got everything in abundance and we'll have it for years to come. Actually, we're going to be a better club in the next season or two, but I think we're good enough right now to win the cham-

Oozes Confidence

. What about the slugging Giants (who just had whipped the Fhillies two out of three games in 'Frisco' and the well-balanced Cardinals? They've both got prob-lems," shot back the candid, young boss. "No matter if they added Shaw and Hendley, the Giants still have pitching problems. They're going to find this out in July and August. And somebody else on that team better hit with consistency pretty soon, too, because Willie Mays can't keep up that great pace. No man alive can, The Cardinals are a darned fine club, but I just don't like their outfield. I don't think it has the punch to carry the club all the way. Maybe I'll be eating my words with garlic sauce in September, but that's the way I feel in May

... Mauch still has tons of respect for the Dodgers even though the O'Malleys left the starting gate with all the speed of a crippled turtle. "Heck, they've had enough injury problems already to last the whole season," said Mauch. "They lose three pitchers in 10 days and still pluck some great kids from the deep freeze to fill the holes. The club isn't hitting either. Just wait until all the pitching's healthy and those batters start pumping up their averages. They'll go on a 10-game win streak one of these days and everybody'll forget the slow start."

. The handsome Mauch said he noticed something else about the Dodgers that impressed him. "They've still got the air of world champions," he declared. "It's written all over them in batting and fielding practice. That's a sign of class and when you've got class when things are going bad, you're a pretty good ball club."

MAUCH'S OBVIOUS pride and joy this season is third baseman Richie Allen, a best bet right now to be major league rookie-of-the-year. "What an animal," Gene en-thused. "He's got one of the greatest physiques I've ever seen. If I was interested in the fight business, I'd take out a manager's license and put Richie in the ring. He's strong enough to be heavyweight champion right now."

. Mauch drooted further over Allen: "The kid's really something as a basketball player, too. He has four brothers just like him and they have their own basketball team in the winter. They go all the way, no subs. They spring like panthers and run just as fast in the last quarter as they do in the first. See the batting cage over there? Richie's only 5-11, but I think it's just possible he could get a running jump and touch the top of it." (Mauch's enthusiasm might have placed him in wagering difficulties. The top of the cage extends about 12 feet high . . . and I remember the day Willie McCovey, who has at least a five-inch advantage on Allen, leaped and failed.)

Mauch's tan fades when he recalls the Phillies exposed Allen to the expansion draft three years ago. "We had to put some names on the list and didn't know too much about Richie then," shudders Mauch. "So he was on the list presented to the Mets and Colts. Thank the good Lord, they both passed him up. It makes me nervous to think about it."

THE NCAA RULING which KO'd two USC stars, catcher Bud Hollowell of Long Beach and third baseman Larry Sandel of South Gate, may have been sufficient to prevent the Trojans from waltzing to another NCAA baseball pennant. Basis for the verdict, however, seems to be that both youngsters played seven games for Rod Dedeaux's Trojans in the summer of '61 AFTER completion of their frosh season. Machen Confident of Beating Floyd

These are the up-to-date stories of three outstanding fighters-Sugar Ray Robinson, Joe Brown and Eddie Machen. All are in the news again.

Machen meets Floyd Patterson Sunday, July 5, in Sweden in the make-or-break fight of Eddie's entire career. Brown, 38-year-old former lightweight champion, meets Paulie Armstead in San Francisco Monday night as he strives to remain in contention for another crack at the crown he lost to Carlos Ortiz two years ago.

Then there was the sad re-port out of Portland, Maine, the past week that the once great and proud Sugar Robinson had received only $400 and travel expenses from New York for a 10-round fight with little known Gaylord Barnes.

And although Robinson won, it was Barnes who was given the "reward"-a television bout with ranking middleweight contender Joey Archer.

"The fight with Patterson is going to put bread on the table . . . and if I win, then we'll have cake."

It was just a year ago last December that Machen reached the depths of despair. There wasn't even stale flip of 159-71/2 — good for bread on the table. He was committed to a sanitarium fifth place. after San Francisco police found him sitting in a car with Oregonian Dyrol Burleson a pistol and a half-written letter that was interpreted to staged a tremendous finish-

The incident spotlighted the fact that Machen, rated the No. I contender for several years when Patterson ruled as the heavyweight king, was flat broke. They dabble in boxing as a hobby. Leo promotes bouts, while Walter became Machen's manager. Starting in March, 1963, he has given Eddie $1,000-a-month guarantee against his purses.

THE PATTERSON FIGHT should clear up Machen's financial troubles for the time being. And if he wins a bright future is ahead of him. Several big money fights have been offered him if he whips Floyd.

"Eddie will get a $50,000 guarantee for fighting Patterson plus about $60,000 from the ancilliary rights," Walter reveals. "The films of the flight will be flown immediately to this country and, because of the time difference, they'll be shown on regular IV that night at 7."

MACHEN FEELS HE CAN BEAT Patterson . . . in fact knock him out.

"I'm going to come out swinging and try to take him out in a hurry," Eddie says. "I've been using that style in my comeback bouts and it has proved very effective-five knockouts. It's much different from the defensive style I formerly used."

Machen's best chance, of course, is in pressing Pat-terson early and going for a quick knockout. And if he does win, they've arranged a $75,000 purse to light Henry Cooper in England while waiting for a crack at Cassius Clay-or Sonny Liston.

Lookin' for Some Braggin' Fish

TWIN CITIES, Minn.—This promises to be a most interesting weekend. Note the dateline. I didn't say St. Paul and I didn't say Minneapolis because the moment you mention one you might get a sour look from a resident of the other. It's far safer for a stranger to say Twin Cities.

This is being written before all the weekend shenanigans start, mostly at Grand Rapids, upstate from here, and at Lake Winnibigoshish (wonder what the printer will do with that one). Most people call it Big Winnie Lake and I don't blame them.

This party is strictly one that Gov. Karl F. Rolvang throws for some outdoor editors each year. Most of those come from midwestern states, but Rolla Williams, outdoor editor of The San Diego Union, and I were on the Cali-fornia list this year. Don't think for a moment that we ever considered declining the invitation.

Those who know me closely realize that I have not been around the fishing spas this year because of that fall in the bathtub. Just a poor man's John Glenn! The fall cracked some ribs and wrenched some ligaments, but after intensive medical care, everything is smoothing out. Here I am, heating pad, pills, neuritis and all, and I'll bet my doctor would like to be here with me.

MINNESOTA'S FISHING SEASON opened last weekend and that normally is the time for the governor to entertain the outdoor writers, but this year was the "Pike for Yets" 15th anniversary celebration at Grand Rapids. So the governor postponed the fish fry until this weekend and decided to have the outdoor writers come a week

Every spring since 1949 residents of the Grand Rapids area have been donating their catches of walleyed pike for a dinner at the Veterans' Hospital in Minneapolis. Actually, folks, it's in Minneapolis, not St. Paul.

I fust hope that I can be one of those catching walleyes and helping feed the veterans next month. That's the way this program works out. We have an official banquet, then we fish a couple of days and donate fish fillets for the veterans. Their special night comes next month, says Hubert F. Dear, manager of the Grand Rapids Cham-

Grand Rapids gets into this act by virtue of the fact that it is the closest city to Big Winnie. It's one of the greatest events in the state. Last year, for instance, more than 1,000 veterans gorged themselves on walleye fillets. And brother, if you have never eaten walleye fillets, you have missed a bit of fishing life.

I have never eaten walleye fillets in Minnesota, but I have enjoyed them on the shore of Careen Lake, Sask., and I know whereof I speak.

AT THIS WRITING, I have not met the governor, but everybody tells me that he is one of the wildest-eyed anglers in the state. There's a bunch of prizes, I'm told, but, of course, the governor isn't eligible. Even so, he wants to beat any outdoor writer who thinks he's a big

This "Pike for Vets", promotion is the kind of thing that could be undertaken at Long Beach. Of course, we could not supply pike fillets, but albacore or yellowtail steaks wouldn't go bad. You big "meat" fishermen back home might kick that one around a bit.

Numerous organizations in the Grand Rapids area sponsor the "Pike for Vets" program. They organize fish-ing parties and deliver fish to a central processing station adjacent to the Grand Rapids Chamber of Commerce.

The fish are filleted immediately on arrival at the processing station, then iced and frozen for storage until the date for the dinner.

The project has provided more than 12,000 pike dinners for veterans since it was first organized by Arthur Pasche, a Grand Rapids lumber dealer, and Arthur Jetland, Grand Rapids water ski manufacturer.

KIRK'S RESORT AND Levins Resort are cooperating with Gov. Rolvaag, the Minnesota Bureau of Business Development and the Grand Rapids Chamber of Commerce in hosting this party. The two resorts are said to be among the finest in the Big Winnie country.

Incidentally, the Mississippi River starts just south of Big Winnie, flows into and out of Little Winnie, then through Big Winnie. Gosh, what Southern California could do with all that water.

Big Winnie resorts claim that it is the best walleye and northern pike lake in the nation. And, too, there are some lunker muskies, but it takes a lot of knowhow and fishing to get one.

Both of the resorts maintain stores and dock service. with boys on hand to clean and fillet fish for the freezer or for immediate cooking in one of the cabins.

Kirk's and Levins are situated in the heart of the Chippewa National Forest and I'm told that it's no problem to bag a deer in the November season without ranging too far from the resorts.

LONG BEACH

As usual, there will be four leagues in operation with games each Saturday and Sunday until late July at which time the playoffs begin

Once again the district and area tournaments will be at Blair Field. The state championships move to Ontario this year with the regionals in Mesa, Arizona, and the national championships in Little Rock, Ark

Local interest will center on the Harbor League which contains the defending national champion A. L. Peterson Post as well as Shua Flyers, Alamitos Bay, Lakewood, Wilmington and San

The leagen race looks like a wide-open affair with Shua. Lakewood and possibly San Pedro given a good chance to come out on top, Peterson will be hard put to repeat, having lost almost all of last year's team to age and professional ranks

Wilmington goes Legion in a big way this year with two teams from Banning and two from Carson represented in three of the four area leagues.

The Bay, Pacific and Rio Hondo leagues will provide fine baseball for those in the outlying areas, with Bell-flower, Crossland, El Segundo and possibly Gardena, the teams to watch.

THE CONNIE MACK baseball program, now in its third year in Long Beach, will kick off the '64 season Friday with Anaheim, a new team in the league, visiting Blair Field for a contest with the Los Altos Shoppers, The Shoppers, for merly Salta Pontiac, will again be coached by Al Brightman

Sharing Blair Field with the Los Altos Shoppers will be the Long Beach Blues coached by Bob Fullerton. There will be games every Sunday night as well as some oother night during the week throughout the season with the area tournament beginning August 1.

Of special interest will be the Rossmoor entry in the league. This new club will use the Naval Air Station, a newly lighted field for its home base.

Los Altos Shoppers, Long Beach Blues, Rossmoor, Paramount, Anaheim, Ventura and Monterey Park made up the seven-team league.

Smith, Mims in Santa Monica Meeting Monday

California middleweight champion Joltin' Smith will face veteran contender Holly blims in a 10-round feature bout at Santa Monica Civic Auditorium Monday,

Mims goes in with an im-pressive record of 59 victories and six draws. Smith has scored 23 victories with seven losses and 19 knockouts.

Fight action at the civic is scheduled to begin at 8:30 Monday.

Wilson, Millikan Eye CIF Tee Title Monday

Wilson and Millikan of the Moore League, plus unbeaten San Marcus and Santa Ana, are favored to battle for the CIF team golf championship Monday at Santa Barbara Community golf course.

Buying property is a big step

That's Why Your Escrow Officer Should Specify T.I. Title Protection (Most do)

When you buy property, you want to be sure it's really yours. That your interests are well protected should someone make a claim against your property title. That's the reason for title insurance.

But not all title insurance companies are alike-and the differences are important to anyone considering a real estate transaction. They explain why T.I. is the overwhelming choice of property buyers for swift, depend able, impartial title service. And why T.I. protects the ownership rights to more Southern California property than all other title companies

Only T.I., for example, has complete up to date records (going all the way back to rancho days) on every square inch of land in Los Angeles County. Only T.I. has a high-speed electronic computer to search property tax records swiftly and accurately. Other title companies have to do the job by hand. This can not only slow your title transaction but increase the possibility of mistakes,

T.I.'s superior facilities mean greater speed for your property purchase And greater accuracy. But the most important facility we have to offer you is our people. We have America's largest, most experienced title staff. We're the only company with a school for our title officers. They go through the toughest training in the title industry before they start serving you. And we see that they're backed by a staff of title specialists who meet equally exacting standards.

When you buy or sell property, you and your escrow officer can always depend on T. I. to provide the best people, the best facilities and the best service in the title field. Because serving you is the most important

The person ready to bey a "NEW" used car usually already knows the male and year and medal that he want, his main concern is to find this perfectler car and to purchase it at fair and part price. Is shopping around he may find a price difference on this same model car. Don't be michaed as to this reason why some are priced cheaper. . . the difference is price is not necessarily a savings. The only reason for the price differential in answered by the car itself. . . QUALITY SPEND WISELY . . . thoroughly impect and test drive fits car before you buy. HUGE TRUCK IS BLURRED IN TWILIGHT AS IT CRUISES THROUGH INTERSECTION WITH DIRT FOR FREEWAY OVERPASSES

UMBLING day and night over Orange County highways, a fleet of giant trailer trucks has raced the clock and the calendar to move a million yards of dirt since February for the completion of overpass approaches and cloverleaf ramps on a 4.5-mile section of the San Diego Freeway now under construction between Bolsa Chica Road and Newland Street. The Asbury Contractors, Inc., truck fleet still must haul another half-million yards in order to complete a million-dollar subcontract by July 1, and efficiency is the keynote. A giant loading machine at the barrow pit can load each truck in seconds with 23½ tons of dirt. The trucks make an average of 23 trips daily, dumping their loads on the construction site while trundling along at 20 m.p.h. Special traffic controls allow the trucks right of way. The huge quantity of dirt is needed because there are nine major overpasses on the $7.6 million section, and each overpass requires from 150,000 to 500,000 tons of dirt. Recently, some motorists have complained about the volume and speed of truck traffic. Spokesmen for the Guy F. Atkinson Co., prime contractor, agree that the trucks have created traffic problems. But, they point out, every truckload hastens the day when the new freeway will relieve the congestion of Orange County's busy highways.

By VERN ANTHONY Southland Progress Editor

(It's a king way from Connecticut to California, and It's still farther to Korea. But Robert H. Grant, builder of stardust Homes, has covered the miles to become one of the largest builders in Orange County.

Grant, president of Robert H. Grant & Co., lives with his wife and three sons in Newport Beach. He was born at Hartford, Conn., in 1920

After graduation in 1942, Grant joined the U.S. Navy and was discharged a lieu-tenant in 1945. Following the war he worked as a test engineer for Boeing Aircraft Co., in Seattle, Wash., until 1947.

The next four years he was employed as a loan appraiser for Prudential Insurance Co. where he had close contact with a large number of builder-developers and obtained a wealth of knowledge in construction finance and building

discharged a lieutenant commander

Grant then became associated for a short time with Henry C. Cox and affiliated companies, a large residential developer in Orange County, as an assistant to Cox in the overall planning and financing of residential commercial

GRANT BEGAN HIS OWN CAREER as a builderdeveloper in 1953 when he'teamed up with Robert D. Moore Jr., to form a real estate development company called Moore Built Homes. Together they built and sold many homes in the low and medium price class in the Garden Grove and Anaheim areas before they ended business relations in 1956.

Since that time Grant has continued the organization, building under the name of Stardust Homes.

Grant likes to stress his company's fundamental policy of providing quality construction of medium priced homes with warranty and service after sale.

. He has built more than 5,000 new homes in Southern California during the past 10 years . . . and now ranks as one of the largest builders in Orange County.

INASMUCH AS construction of residential units creates a demand for adjoining commercial facilities, Grant also developed commercial centers from the inception of his business.

These include two major hospitals, several medicaldental centers and, thus far, a nine-store-chain of neighborhood, convenience-type shopping centers called Quik-

Stardust Homes have been awarded the Certified Medallion Award from Southern California Edison Co., a special builder award from the Long Beach Press-Telegram, a special builder award in the design section from Better Living Institute, three N.A.H.B. (National Association of Home Builders) Journal Awards in merchandising, and the 1962 Life Magazine Marketing Council Award.

A SPORTS ENTHUSIAST, Grant enjoys skiing, deep sea fishing, sailing and ocean racing, and has participated in the Acapulco and Honolulu Races. He breeds horses at his Bresa Del Mar Ranch for racing at major race tracks, and also raises purebred Aberdeen Angus cattle.

Recreational and club affiliations include Newport Harbor Yacht Club, Trans-Pacific Yacht Club, California Thoroughbred Association, American Quarter Horse Association and the American Angus Association.

Grant is a director of the Home Builders Association. He is also on the Advisory Board of Newport National Bank, and a member of the Navy League of U. S.

Shelly ties the bow just so, and-what do you know?-twin Shawna turns into the happiest of Salvation Army lasses! Five-year-old daughters of the William Skeens delight in trying on bonnet of grandmother, Mrs. Major Kenneth Anderson, advisor to the local auxiliary. Busy Being Bonnet

When Shelly and Shawna Skeen grow-up they're going to wear a bonnet just like great-great-grandma's.

And, it won't be out of style either.

The two dimpled five-year-olds, twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. William Skeen, are pretty sure of that, for their choice in headgear is the beribboned Salvation Army

Great-great-grandmother, (she was Lawrence Tibbets' grandmother) Rebecca Tibbet, wore hers when she was a Salvationist in the San Joaquin Valley.

Today, grandmother, Mrs. Major Kenneth Anderson, wears hers in Long Beach as advisor to the local Salvation Army Women's Someday, Shelley and Shawna, who de-light in trying it on for size, hope to have wo of their very own.

Perhaps they'll even don them for a "Bonnet Party" as grandmother is planning to

A "Bonnet Party"? That's the Auxiliary's big annual fund raising event. An idea, which originated in Long Beach, and has been adopted by auxiliaries all over the United States.

The popular party will take place Tuesday at 12:30 p.m. in Long Beach Elk's Club. It will be a fashion show tea with hats and other door prizes to be awarded. This year proceeds will go toward furnishing the fireside conference room in the new citadel. Wilma Hastings, an auxiliary member, will coordinate and commentate on the fashions to be modeled. "Banners and Bonnets." a song written for the Salvation Army by Meredith Wilson, will be sung by Bette Arntzen, Betty Kimber, Laura Killingsworth, Jacqueline McFadden and Patricia Zieg, all stars of the Long Beach Civic Light Opera. Tickets are being handled by Mrs. George Seufert, 5203 Killdee St., or can be obtained at the Salvation Army's temporary administrative offices, 206 E.

The auxiliary (more than 100 women belong) assists the Salvation Army in Long Beach. At Christmas time members wrapped 2,000 or more gifts for hospital patients; they also have collected maternity clothing for unwed mothers and baked cookies and made candy for the needed new buildings.

No wonder, Shelly and Shawna each want to grow-up to be in a bonnet. The Salvation Army's something to be pretty proud of—all those auxiliary ladies certainly agree.

Parents are going back to school these days to study elementary math. That "dull" subject has taken on a new look. It's become the most exciting, controversial issue in the curriculum-a challenge to moms and dads.

Dad, what's the LCM for 12? When does I plus I legual 10? How do you find the base seven of

Modern math is in. Old-fashioned 'rithmatic by rote is out. Soon, helping little Harvey with his homework may require schoolwork for mom and dad.

A number of local parents already have come to such a conclusion. They're members of the modem math class being taught Wednesday evenings a (Millikan High. Most enrolled in the class, which started six months ago, after a brush with elementary math left them thinking it far from elementary.

terrifying to a parent.

As Mrs. Robert A. Delfs put it, "I was intimidated by my children's questions. I couldn't help them, I didn't even know what they were talking

Says T. H. Donaldson, "I felt my daughter might start losing faith in her father—I was beginning to feel pretty dumb."

MODERN MATH made its appearance in Long Beach classrooms within the last three years. It was introduced to academically talented children in fourth, fifth and sixth grades (about 10 percent of pupils in these grades) two years ago and to many junior and senior high students (approximately 20 percent) three years ago. In most cases, material used was written by the School Mathematics Study Group (SMSG), a group of mathematicians and educators supported by the National Science Foundation.

Next fall, with arrival of state text books, the new math program will be extended to include all children in first, second and seventh grades. In classes where state texts are not yet available, it will continue to be given more able students under the present plan.

According to Howard Hubbard, Long Beach School District's able and farsighted supervisor of high school math, (who helped set up the new courses for elementary grades), 'The new mathematics program will be expanded and extended to include all pupils in the next few years."

It follows that more and more parents may find themselves perplexed by their offspring's home-

If so, Dorothy De Forest may see her class for moms and dads blossoming into a bigger-than-expected project. Already twice as many sessions are planned for next fall.

When we started the course we didn't know what to anticipate - whether 2 or 100 parents would show up," she says.

With only a few more sessions left this semester, no one doubts the success of the class. It's been well and enthusiastically attended by up to 70 local moms and dads.

"I've concentrated on concepts, not grade levels," explains Mrs. De Forest. "I've attempted to teach the why of the new way

AND WHO is the single major influence in the United States in baby care? It isn't your old grandmother have primary talent.

The obvious signs of a major take-over are all

When you go to the market on weekends have you noticed the large percentage of men doing the shopping? And if the wife is along, just who is making the decisions? See the way she puts the can of tuna in the basket and he puts it back on the shelf and takes down the crab?

Just let them do a few dishes and give the baby the two o'clock bottle and the next thing you know they've taken over the house management.

Examples are many and troubling. There's the husband who became so anti-laundry that he asked his wife to iron his shirts. When she properly pointed out a conflict of interest, he ironed his own, is still at it and doing a lovely job.

There's the father of ten, a captain in the Navy, who does all the family sewing. You'd think he had enough to do!

There are even a few male PTA presidents. (This must lead to housing problems on convention.)

An extremely sensitive area in the problem of male take-over is that of entertaining. Who is planning your social life?

Has there been an increasing amount of business instead of pleasure? One wife complains that she can make no social plans for the weekend until she gets the green light from her executive husband that there are no stray customers to whip up hors d'ocuvres

Another says that she doesn't dare get behind in her dry cleaning or hair doing as her husband is the type that calls at 5 p.m. and announces that they have a business dinner at Chasen's at 6 p.m.

Neither wife has a minute for the old neighborhood gang. But no doubt those gals are all being planned for by their own male Perle Mestas.

Probably the greatest break through by men into a women's world was the invention of the patio barbecue. How many trusting wives have innocently presented husbands with a little portable barbecue and a chef's hat as a gala birthday gift? And awakened too late to find she has been ousted from her rightful position as meal planner and executor, How insidiously the male cook moves indoors first with a meat marinade, then a little salad dressing, until he takes full kitchen command leaving the former head chef as scullery in charge of scraping

An authenticated case of kitchen kidnap occurred in the Naples area. A typical example, the wife made her first faulty move with the presentation of an electric barbecue spit.

Her husband got so fancy with the spit that the first thing she knew, he was spurning her simple but wholesome food—hot dogs, frozen chicken pies, chili beans-and taken over completely.

THEIR NEIGHBORS were fascinated to observe her washing the cars and doing yard work on weekends while her husband cooked up a storm.

The day arrived when he came home and announced he had left his job as sales manager to devote all of his time to cooking as part owner of a restaurant . . . trading his grey flannel suit for white

Showing the kind of inner strength that makes women really great, his wife replied, "Oh well, I've always loved a man in a uniform."

IN THE PAST few years everyone has been talk-ing about modern math, yet few people really seem to know what it's all about. The topic has become a catch-all for misconceptions. No wonder some parents have almost become hostile to the klea—ask why methods they were taught aren't deemed good enough today.

According to Hubbard, the start of most of the controversy springs directly from the name "mod-

"It's a misleading label, but it looks like we're stuck with it."

It seems modern math isn't modern at all—that accelerated math or renewed math would be better terms.

All that's really new about the new math according to Hubbard is it's appearance in lower grades. Most of the facts were known by the 19th century at the latest

The reason for the speed-up in introduction? "It's purely to help more children succeed in arithmetic—to grow up without thinking of math as a necessary evil; a dull, cut-and-dried subject,

The why as well as the how is now being emphasized," says Hubbard.

New Look for M

Generally speaking, modern math emphasizes the structure of mathematics (rather than isolated topics).

It also aims at eliminating topics that are relatively unimportant and introducing recent and important developments.

Fascinating subjects such as the science of probability—or chance and the binary system, used for computers today, are among studies touched upon.

ONE AND ONE always will equal two and every child is still going to have to learn his tables, but now, according to experts in the field, he'll have a better idea of just what it's all about.

In their opinion, traditional teaching fell short of the job. It confined itself too much to mechanical development of computational skills and failed to develop the student's problem-solving abilities.

This is why such things as sets, different number bases and simple algebraic equations are being written in grade-school texts, and why great care is being given in teaching processes like that of "carrying" in addition.

WHAT'S BEEN the reaction from the first Long Beach parents taught the new approach for kids? A few commented on the lengthlness of working out solutions—wayly noting that the scratch-paper bill is bound to boom, but on the whole they were all for going modern.

hirs. Edward Hunt, a former college math major with two children in accelerated classes, did inter-ject a bit of doubt though. Her worry? That some of the concepts might be racing beyond the reasoning power of the age group where they're introduced.

"I feel that if I hadn't had time to work with my children, they might have become pretty con-fused," she said. She also felt dubious about the separation of children according to ability—wonders if "those in advanced classes aren't being pushed too hard." (As it is, the seventh grades will have three different text books: One for the advanced, one for the average, one for the least arithmetically tal-

Mrs. Delfs took an opposite view, said "my chil-dren seem to be thriving on the new methods," feels giving the children with more math ability a chance to go further "makes lots of sense."

There's no doubt that there will be controversy about modern math for some time to come. But, there's also no doubt it's here to stay and that Long Beach schools are to be commended for getting out

for Seven-Year-Old

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I have a neighbor problem -an elderly woman who is very good to me but is constantly correcting my seven-year-old daughter, even when I am with her. The child doesn't like this and I don't either. I did tell her the child objected but she said sometimes someone else can do more than the mother. She comes over quite often and I'm afraid my daughter will say something to make her

The child doesn't always obey me but that's my problem. I am alone—my mar-riage broke up recently—and I guess my neighbor thinks I need help raising the chil-dren. I would hate to make her angry because she is good and watches my children for me occasionally. I've told my girl to pay no attention to her—that she is old and doesn't know what to do with herself.

I don't want to lose a good neighbor and I know she would be hurt if I told her right out how we feel about this. Do you have any suggestions? — CONFUSED AND WORRIED.

DEAR CONFUSED:

Perhaps if you explained to your neighbor that your daughter is rapidly becoming very confused due to the fact that she has too many bosses, she would understand and curb her tendencies to correct her, especially when you are around. When the child is in the neighbor's think she is quite right in telling her what to do and what not to do: otherwise, it is strictly the mother's responsibility.

Dear Molly Mayfield

I am sure you could get the idea across by being very diplomatic and tact-ful — emphasizing that, for the good of the child, it is necessary that she be under the authority of only one person at a time.-M. M.

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I need advice. I am 21 years old and can't seem to keep a boy friend. On a date I try to be nice and treat him like any boy would want to be treated. When my dates take me home they never say when they are coming back and sometimes it's three or four weeks before I see them again.

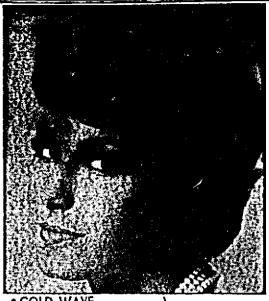

What is wrong?-LONE-LY GIRL

DEAR LONELY GIRL:

Your question is pretty hard to answer with no more information than you gave me. Discounting any personai faults you may have, perhaps you are trying too hard. And I am not quite sure what you mean by "treating him like any boy would want to be treated." Perhaps if you stopped worrying about being so good to your dates and let them worry about pleasing you you will have better lock. It is my belief that

In directing Millikan High School's production of "Midsummer Night's Dream," to be given June 4, 5 and 6, Alvin Randall discovered a coincidence as improbable as those Shakespeare devised for his comedy.

Around 200 works were carefully selected from the best done in the 10 major areas of instruction. Space over-all quality, whether the work be a magnificant painting or a new industrial design solution of a humble utilitarian object, soars in concept, technique and depth of study.

AMONG THE FACTORS may be identified. First is the reflections, direct and indirect, on the excellent exhibits held in the college gallery this year under the direction of Bill Hill: "30 Sculptors," the Invitational Drawing Show and the National Print Show.

Deriving from the second of these shows, as well as the exacting standards of observations set by instructors like Dick Swift and Dick Oden, is a proliferation of rather magnificant drawings.

Third, much of the flavor of this exhibit comes from Downey Wins of this exhibit comes from the new directions taken by sculpture students under the instruction of David Elder.

Usigli, an Italian, was a pupil of Toscanini; he came to the United States in 1935. In 1937 he conducted Ruger's first opera, "Gettysburg," in Hollywood Bowl. Later he founded the Bach Festival at Carmel and continued as director until his death five years ago.

By RACHEL MORTON

This afternoon at 5 o'clock, in the First Methodist Church of Long Beach, a special pro-gram is being given of Men-delsschn's "Elijah" by the Sanctuary and Youth Choirs, assisted by an orchestra of 30 members. The program is a tribute to Mr. and Mrs. Hollywood Bowl's 43rd Rolla Alford in recognition of their 50 years of service to music in Long Beach. Alford will conduct the performance and the soloists will be Robert Larsen, bass: Rosalie Barker, soprano; Constance Hart, contralto, and Eugene Hall, tenor.

I am told that associates, pupils and friends of many years will be flocking to Long Beach to do homage to this man, Rolla Alford, who for many years has been the leader and inspiration of the best in music in Long Beach. Certainly we all owe him a deep debt of gratitude.

AS I HAVE looked over the press acclaim of his many musical accomplishments I am astonished that so great a man has lived so modestly among us. He began the study of piano at the age of 6 and voice at the age of 12. When only 16 he was chosen director of the Glee Club of the YMCA in Winfield, Kan-He sang leading roles in several operettas in his high school days.

Coming to Long Beach in 1914, he directed choirs in several churches here before becoming the music director of the First Methodist Church, a position he has held since 1924. His wife, who has been his invaluable assistant and accompanist, he met as a member of one of his Long Beach choirs and he laughingly relates how she used to go to rehearsals with him

What's Emmy to Nominee?

By JOSEPH FINNIGAN

MOLLYWOOD (UPI)—How valuable are television's Emmy awards? Do they help an actor's career? Will an Emmy save a faltering series from being tossed off the air?

There has been some evidence that an Oscar helps a winning movie. But so far nobody can helps a winning movie, but so far nobody can say for certain that television's Emmy coun-terpart does the same for a series.

The Academy of Television Arts and Sci-ences, mother of the Emmy awards, airs the presentations 10 p.m. Monday on channel 4.

What does an Emmy pominee feel is the

Richard Janssen, star of ABC-TV's "The Fu-

"I think the only thing you should think about the award is that it is a compliment," he said. "You should not relate it to the future success of a show. An actor should on the best job he can and not work for an award."

It is not unusual for actors and shows which have been cancelled by the networks to be nominated for awards. It happened this year to Richard Boone, chief of an anthology series, and George C. Scott of "East Side/West Side." Both they and their shows are nominees—and under cancellation. under cancellation.

IS THERE ANY RELATION between an Emmy award and a show's popularity with the mass of television viewers?

Some think there isn't.

Andy Williams, whose show is a nominee this year, said the award "gives performers, writers and produces an incentive to do something better" better.

But he disassociates Emmy from mass popular appeal when he says, This award is not a mass medium award. It's for the best show in a ctegory.

ECONOMIC CONTRACTOR

Eddie Montagne, producer of "McHale's Navy," a neminee for best comedy series, said Emmy winners are chosen by television aca-demy members in major cities while a show's audience appeal might be in small towns spread across the nation.

"This is the second year we've been nominated," he said, "I think the nomination attraced attention to the show. That's basically what an award does."

It is difficult to measure a show's worth in terms of awards, he said.

"In smaller towns you'll find that viewers sometimes have no interest in shows that appeal to big cities."

JUNE LOCKHART, co-star of "lassie," a conetime Emmy nominee herself and also a former secretary of the television academy, rated the award in terms of notoriety it gives a show,

"It's a momentary flash of publicity and notoriety that you can capitalize on," she said.

Recalling her own experience as a losing nominee some years back, she quipped, "From what happened to me, it's a good idea to get a nomination and you'll stay on the show six

The general opinion among the stars and producers seemed to be that the viewing public and sponsors who pick up tabs for television shows aren't overly concerned with awards. When the glamor of an award ceremony passes, it's the rating game and audience potential that keeps a series on the air-Emmy or no Emmy.

BERT RESNIK, EDITOR

Should Emmy Show Rate an Emmy?

By JACK GAVER

NEW YORK (UPI) - It is the hope of producer Bob Finkel that some year the telecast of the video industry's Emmy awards will be entertaining enough to be nominated for an Emmy.

Finkel has beefed up this year's awards telecast (10 p.m. Monday, channel 4) with such ingredients as Carl Reiner's clowning, a skit involving Dick Van Dyke and Mary Tyler Moore, leading lady of Van Dyke's weekly program, and a limpoon by the group that does "That Was The Week That Was."

In addition, there will be the contributions of comedian Joey Bishop, host of the Hol-lywood end of the program, and E. G. Mirshall, of "The Defenders," who will host the New York portion.

"VIEWERS should not be asked to spend 90 minutes watching a group of people in evening dress hand each other statues," Finkel com-

BOD FINKEL

"Don't misundermented. stand. The awards are still the prime reason for this affair. But between 'Thank you' and the other cliches, we'll try to get some laughs."

Finkel said Reiner will be joined in his spot by a veteran associate, comedy writer Mel Brooks, who is funnier as a performer than many actual comedians. The two have made a couple of bestselling record albums of a comedy nature, and their subject for the Emmycast will be Television-2,000 Years

Y CHOICE TO RECEIVE the Emmy for the "Program of the Year" is "The Making of the President-

An adaptation of Theodore H. White's Pulitzer Prize-winning book, the 90-minute television documentary is one of the most professional productions ever offered on video.

It's a prime example of how a documentary can incorporate the suspense of a drama although the outcome

The Making of the President" is an education. Further, it is an educational television program which has escaped the wooden, stilted stigma of too many other video specials labeled as intellectual offerings.

It is a program readily understood by everyone from the sub-teens up.

First aired by ABC-TV (channel 7) last December, it will be repeated by that network at 9 pm. on June 11.

By that time, it should have the Emmy for the "Program of the Year," another for top documentary and a third

It already has been named the Grand Prix winner at the Seventh International Television Film Festival in Cannes, France.

IN THE COMEDY FIELD, I look for the multi-Emmywinning "Dick Van Dyke Show" to repeat. It's a series which is consistently humorous.

In the variety category, my choice is "The Danny Kaye Show." Despite a few clinkers in its first season, this series basically retains the same high quality of Kaye's once-ayear specials. Kaye, himself, should also walk away with an Emmy for best variety-show performance,

For outstanding single performance by an actor in a leading role, I choose Roddy McDowall for his "Arrest and Trial" performance as a murderous psychotic. I would have preferred to select Jason Robards Jr. for his title portrayal in "Abe Lincoln in Illinois." It was a good performance, but I have seen him do better—'The Iceman Cometh," for example. As the outstanding actress in a leading role, I name Jeanette Nolan for her performance as an old woman politically victimized in "The Richard Boone Show" presentation of "Vote No on 11."

THE "ACTOR IN A SERIES" category presents a prob-Iem. There are four nominees from dramatic series and one,

Dick Van Dyke, from a situation comedy.
In past years, "The Dick Van Dyke Show" has collected so many Emmy awards, it takes a statistician to keep count.

The title star, however, never received an Emmy It is an injustice that a comedian is classified with serious actors. But it is high time that the members of the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences recognize the outstanding talents of this comedian, despite categories.

My choice for the "Actors in a Series" Emmy is Dick Van Dyke. I would have liked to select Richard Boone had Van Dkye been nominated elsewhere.

Paradoxically, the category conflict is not encountered in the "Actress in a Series" nominations. All the nominees are from situation comedies.

My choice is Inger Stevens, a fine dramatic actress who has capably demonstrated she is equally adept in the field of situation comedy.

"AND JAMES WAS A Very Small Small," a "Breaking "AND JAMES WAS A Very Small Snail," a "Breaking Point" presentation, should win the original drama writing award for Allan Sloane. For the best adaption, my ballot goes to Robert Hartung for "The Patriots," presented by "Hallmark Hall of Fame." Carl Reiner should repeat win in comedy writing for his "Dick Van Dyke Show."

Well, there they are. How close my choice will tally with the final results is anybody's guess. Speaking of guessing, why don't you try? You've got nothing to lose and you might surprise yourself by how close you come.

edge and culture in the past 12 months.

"I TOLD THEM that they could go the limit, with no holds barred," Finkel added.

I haven't seen the complete script for this yet, but I know that, with virtually all of the top executives of television as a captive audience, the 'TW3' people are going to let us have it. Any video personalities who are too thin skinned to take a ribbing should just forget the date of the awards."

will do a bit in which he is "Oscar" and she is "Emmy." They will debate the relative merits of the motion picture and television industries.

Finkel admitted that this might be a touchy item, suggesting rivalry between the two organizations that dispense the Oscar and Emmy awards. He refused to be drawn into comment on the critical reception of the recently telecast Oscar awards show, which some criticized as lacking "entertainment

Goodson-Todman Run Game-Show Factory

By JOAN CROSBY

NEW YORK (NEA) - At first glance, the people piling into the conference room look like a group of advertising agency executives about to run an idea up a flagpole to see if anyone salutes.

Then they all sit down and of start to play games.

The conference room is located in the offices of Goodson-Todman, the game show factory which spews out television panel shows with the passion and singlemindedness of a Gabor collecting diamonds.

Presently there are seven separate GT afternoon shows, good for 35 programs a week plus five evening shows for a grand total of 20 hours of television weekly. Each of these shows uses a master of ceremonies, and most of them average four panelists, which means G-T employs approximately 50 personalities a week on cam-

On the theory that the public can look at some sets of smiling teeth just so often, G.T. with Whit's My Line's associate producer Bob Bach in charge, has ret up a series of weekly celebrity auditions to find new gamesters.

THE PEOPLE who audition range from opera star Blanche Thebom through Darryl Hickman, presently starring on Broadway in "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying," to Robert Earle, the host of College Bowl. If the candidates seem promising they are asked back a second time. If they still seem promising, they are spotted on a G-T show.

On one particular afternoon Stanley Prager, the former actor who is now producing The Patty Duke Show, comic Mickey Freeman, Johnny Andrews, a pioneer of early television, and Anne Meara, of the comedy team of Stiller and Meara, are auditioning their game potentials.

Among those watching are Ira Skutch and Jack Farren, who produce Missing Links and Get the Message, respectively, and Chris Carroll, who casts Password Bob Bach is running the show.

As the would-be panelists play the games, the onlookers react as an audience would.

PASSWORD is first on the schedule. The word "shopping" comes up.

"It's a tough one, if you get it in six tries, it'll be good," Buch says. Prager gets it in two. "Let's play for a little money," he suggests.

"Agent" is the Password. "Is 10 per cent two words?" Freeman cracks.

Get the Message is next. "We didn't do well because our contestant was stupid," Prager said when three rounds were completed. Bach, who had guessed all the mes-sages, asks "Where's my money?"

What's My Line? is next. Bach picks an occupation out of a pile, saying "What'll I Prager suggests "Let him be himself. I've never known what he really does." The category Bob picks is shown to the audience: "On-ion Grower." The panel gets to work and quickly establishes the fact that they are looking for a vegetable.

They get bogged down when someone asks if it's a green vegetable. Bach, after consulting John Daley (he is playing that part, too), says 'yes."

"Could we sit here now and comfortably eat this vegetable?" Freeman asks.
"Not me," Prager says. "I

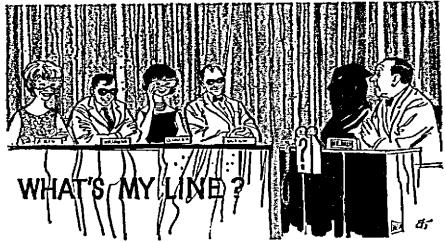

just had lunch."

The panel never guesses the occupation because they become mired in a green vegetable response. When Bach announces his "occupation," Prager jumps up.

"Onions are yellow. I know it's only a game, but would you please step outside?

ETHEL MERMAN PERFORMS in a Boy Scout variety program during "The Lucy Show" repeat at 8:30 p. m. Mon- day, channel 2.

"So you say you perform a public service, right?"

'Riyer Nile' Repeat

Winner of an Internation Film Festival top award, "The River Nile," will be repeat telecast at 10 p.m. today (Sunday) on channel 4 in COLOR.

James Mason narrates the production which opens at a monument 6,000 feet above sea level in East Africa. The monument bears the inscription:

"All water that flows on the north side of this hill flows 4,000 miles to the Mediterranean."

GARY CONWAY AND WIFE MARIAN . . . Beautiful Service

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) - For almost every ex-Miss America there is some fortunate guy who can claim proxy to the title of Mr. America through marriage.

Usually this is as close as he comes to fame. An exception is a handsome young fella named Gary Conway who plays police detective Tim Tilson on ABC-TV's "Burke's Law."

He's a celebrity in his own right, despite the fact that Mrs. Conway was Marian Mc-Knight, Miss America of 1957, and one of the most beautiful beauty contestants ever to grace a bathing suit. The pair have a 2-year-old daughter, Kathleen.

The question that comes to mind with Conway, and presumably with the spouses of other Misses America, is: What's it like to be married to the most beautiful specimen of the female tribe?

Great, says Conway,

"I ALWAYS feel flattered when people appreciate Mari-an's beauty," he said without a trace of husbandly jealousy.

"We've been married more than five years, and you become accustomed to having people stare at your wife. They may not know who she is, but they know a pretty girl when they see one." So does Gary.

When Conway and his Miss America first met, he was a struggling art student at UCLA. He was broke and had to borrow his father's car to take Marian on dates.

"That was long before I became an actor," he grinned.
"I was such a non-entity even my teachers didn't know me.

"BUT THAT didn't make any difference to Marian. We were married in 1958 when I was still as obscure as a man could be. I'll never be able to say that she married me for anything but myself. I didn't have any money, and my prospects weren't too bright.

When they were newlyweds Conway remained on the fringes of the spotlight focused on his wife, Now, however, Gary has come into his own as the co-star of "Burke's Law" and finds the situation reversed.

"Marian doesn't miss the receding limelight," he said. "She never did care for it."

Conway continues to paint in his spare time. Marian appears in television commercials to fatten the family larder.

The actor does not bear even a faint resemblance to the smart alec detective he portrays on the ABC-TV series. He's quiet, studious and endowed with a sense of humor.

"I guess the most attention I received by being the hus-band of a Miss America was during my tour in the Army,"

he said.
"My buddies were really impressed And so were the officers. I was a hero to them, but things were different when I became a civilian again I turned to acting and nothing has been quite the same since."

JULIE HARRIS (left), after purchasing an old Spanish ring, encounters difficulties with the former owner and asks her friends, Virginia Gregg (center), and Julie Adams for advice. It's on "Suspense Theater" at 10 p. m. Thursday, channel 4 in COLOR.

Could you please inform all us long-time followers of "As the World Turns" the REAL reason Eileen Fulton (as Lissa) is being written out of the story? It is quite evident the writers are stalling with a not-too-convincing episode of her abrupt and mysterious disappearance.

"Llssa" can stay lost! BUT you owe us an honest answer to what actual cause for Fileen Fulton's non-appearance.

Mrs. B. Ray, Long Beach

CBS public relations spokesman who provided information for your an-answer, Mrs. Ray, resents your "stalling" accusations.

Claims a writer can write any way he wants to as long as it's within the bounds of decency. Claims serial writers have before written in or written out characters simply because the authors found that was the direction the story was going.

As for Eileen Fulton. Her appearances in the daytime serial led to her being signed for two Broadway productions, both of which she's in currently.

She's too busy making less money to appear on "As the World Turns." Honestly.

After reading the letter Mrs. Brown of Long Beach wrote about Lissa in "The World Turns," I want to tell you how many, many women I know who watch it feel.

Quote:
"If Bob takes Lissa back,
we will all stop watching it."
No one seems to look at his side of the story, Furthermore, it is not a true-to-life story. After all a mother does not take such a firm stand against her son or daughter as Nancy has in true life.

Mrs. Burke, Long Beach As of this date, Mrs.

Burke, there are plans to bring Lissa back to the script. I don't know what Bob's going to do about it.

I do know what I'd like ta da about it.

Stop the world-I want to get off.

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) - II there were more people like Meredith Willson in show biz it would make for a happier way of life and would certainly be a boon for the trombone manufacturers.

CBS-TV, sensing Wilson's wonderfully whoesome personality, has signed him for three hour-long specials this summer, two in June and one in July.

Famed for his recent Broadway hits—"The Music Man," "The Unsinkable Molly Brown" and "Here's Love" Willson is busy writing new songs for the TV shows. More importantly, however, the public will get a clear view of the man himself.

The gray-haired pride of Mason City, Iowa, will act as master of ceremonies. He'll also do some singing and entertaining on his own.

Unlike the smooth perfec-Unise the smooth perfectionists that usually blind televiewers with toothpaste smiles and glib patter, Willson has an old-shoe, hick quality that is at once engaging. It shows in his musical hits.

A FORMER piecolo player for the old, old John Philip Sousa Band, Willson is still a nut for marches.

Sitting in the plush den of his Bel-Air home, the Music Man jumped up from a chair, dashed to the piano and plunked away on a new march he is writing for the Air Force Academy. His enthusiasm erased any vestige of ham-bone.

But a ham he is. Few composer-musicians since George M. Cohan enjoy an audience as much as Willson.

He and his beautiful wife, Rini, hit the road for personal appearances every year billed as "An Evening with Meredith Willson." It's a hodge-podge of entertainment and musical lecturing with a healthy dose of songs from Willson's works.

RINI has a splendid voice and Willson suffers from the illusion that he also is a singer. If the results aren't disastrous, neither are they a threat to Frank Sinatra.

"I like an audience," Will-son said. "It gives me an opportunity to use some of the devices I learned from the masters — the timing of the Marx Brothers, Fanney Brice and George Burns. "You might say I'm a secret performer. I act out whatever I'm writing as I go along. And when I'm composing, sometimes I call Rini in and sing the music for her.

Unfortunately for Rini, her husband gets carried away with his work, often composing long into the night.

OUR COYER

Southland sailing waters become a riot of color when boats of the midget ocean sailing class unfurl their spinnakers. Part of this zestful fleet is caught on Southland's cover today as sails take in some of the blast of famed "Hurricane Gulch." A gaudy yellow Thunderbird leads the pack, its red and yellow canvas ballooning with its fill of wind. Following closely are Cal 30s, in variety. "Hurricane Gulch," in the shadow of San Pedro Hill, offers sailoring guys and gals spritely breezes, even when other nearby waters offer nothing but calm. Time was when the sea offered little more than hard work, providing sport for only a sturdy few. But the mood has changed and whole families now turn to the water for recreation. For more about this trend see Page 7.

Man and Nature have conspired to bring about a beauty spot in world culture, set in the soft clime of the Southern California coastal plain. It is the Huntington Library and Art Gallery in San Marino. There is represented, in abundance, some of man's best in works of art and literature. And there abounds beauty of garden and landscape. Rare volumes and papers, too, are there for the researcher. Russ Leadabrand tells about this famous institution next Sunday in "The Library That Huntington Built."

SOUTHERN California may be a great place to live,

Southland living, a siren call for more than 2,000 persons each month, costs the average family residing here $115 a week, far more than the average income in many states.

The U.S. Department of Labor has just completed a detailed two-year study of consumer expenses and income in Orange and Los Angeles Counties

The pocketbook profile proves that Southlanders prefer la dolce vita (the sweet life) and are willing to fork out shekkels for it.

While well-heeled, it still appears to be a security-minded, paycheck to pay-check kind of existence.

BESIDES THE $6,000 outof-pocket cost of living expenses (housing, food, heating, etc.), the average Southern California family also gives $296 to charity, spends $315 for insurance and retirement and pays $811 in income and personal taxes.

They are able to save only $107.

The survey revealed that while annual expenditures for current consumption have increased 44.3 per cent since 1950, the allocation of the "living loot" has been altered.

While (at the outbreak of the Korean War) the average Southland family set aside nearly 30 per cent for food and beverages, they now spend less than 25 per cent Costs of shelter has taken up the savings, rising in the 10-year period from 14.4 per cent to nearly 18 per cent.

THE COST of driving and owning a car has also risen from 14.8 to 15.2 per cent, partly, the government says, because the percentage of families owning autos rose in that decade from 72 to 84 per

Medical and personal care costs have spiraled upwards in the family budget ledger,

Three of every four Southern California families now have medical care insurance of some type.

*Median annual income per family, for instance, in Texas is $4,884 and in Kansas, $5,296. Both are prospering, economically sound states. The annual per family income for the entire U. S., according to the Department of Commerce, $5,060.

Southern California attracts as a living area but forces many families to carefully check their money of the control and a state

CONTEVE LOST every. thing. The price is too high," states Hughleen Johnston, and tears spring unbidden to her soft eyes.

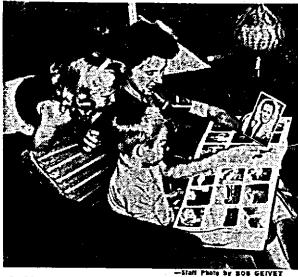

This story has been written many times and many ways. Eugene Johnston, 46, a salesman of electric components in Orange County, was a man who did not hesitate to get himself "involved" when he saw a crime being committed. On Oct. 19, 1963, outside a bar in Anaheim, Donald Wray Shoesmith, 46, savagely at-tacked his estranged wife, Alice Jane. Mrs. Shoesmith screamed for help. Johnston, a patron at the bar, tried to pull the raging assailant from his victim. Failing in this, he ran to his car and got his small .22 caliber pistol in an attempt to make a citizen's arrest. Shoesmith, blind with fury, attacked Johnston, and in the ensuing struggle, Shoe-smith was fatally wounded. There were many witnesses, but no one offered to aid Johnston.

JOHNSTON was held on a charge of voluntary man-slaughter. He was found guilty by a jury of 12 in Santa Ana Superior Court on April 7, 1964. Judge Robert Kneeland, before passing sentence, stated: 'This is one of the most difficult cases I have ever had to rule on. I am sure you acted with high motives in what you did . . . whether from poor judgment or whatever . . . you were found guilty by 12 people in the community. But there must be some protest registered by so-ciety for what you did." Judge Kneeland ruled sympatheti-cally that Johnston would be allowed to work during the week, returning to the jail at nights and during the weekends, for six months.

There were gasps of con-sternation from an unbelieving public. Comfort was taken by the more conscience-stricken members of society in the fact that Johnston would be allowed to continue working, and six months was a comparatively short time.

JOHNSTON has been in Theo, Lacey County Jail in Orange County for more than a month now. The cost of Johnston's chivalry was revealed in a visit with his wife, Hughleen. Mrs. Johnston disclosed these revealing sta-tistics of the real price the Johnstons' are paying for the protest registered by society for what you did."

Hughleen Johnston, petite and pretty, tucked her small son and daughter, ages 5 and 7, Into bed before telling her story. They do not know yet where their father is. He is "on a trip." Since Johnston is a salesman, and has been gone at intervals before, the children have accepted this forthe time being. Sympathetic EUGENE JOHNSTON neighbors have helped to Bitter Consequences

tighten the cordon of pro-tective silence around the little boy and girl.

THE JOHNSTON home is located in an upper middle-class tract. It is the kind of home that American women dream of — beautifully land-scaped, well arranged, ade-quate living space, tastefully decorated, neatly and immaculately kept.

Hughleen sat on the edge of her husband's big chair, soon to be sold for a fraction of its

"It happened on Oct. 19, 1963, They told me Gene had killed someone I don't re-member much. I knew it couldn't be true. I kept saying, 'What are we going to do? I don't drive a car. I had to buy a newspaper to find out what had happened. No one would tell me anything. I finally got an attorney who could get in to see my hus-band. We needed $1,000 to retain Gene's attorney. We still owe him $2,000 more. I gave him the papers on this house as security to help de-fend Gene. Our small savings didn't last very long. We sold our boat for $450 on a quick sale, all our camping equip-ment, Gene's electric drill, his precious tools ... everything we could get our hands on."

SHE INDICATED the furnishings around her with a sweep of her hand. "Most of these things are sold. The children's beds are sold, too. Gene's company paid his salary through Nov. I, but they couldn't keep him on too long as they were a small company,

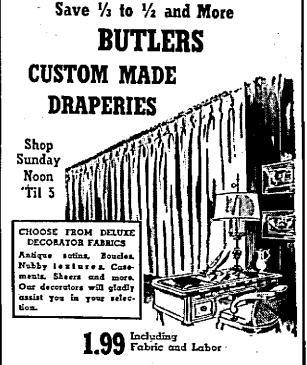

"Gene got out on bail on Nov. 22. I'll never forget it. It was the day the President was murdered. We felt we were dying too. A neighbor brought us $350 to partially pay the bondsman. We owe him $400 more. Gene applied for his unemployment compensation. The state made us wait five weeks as a penalty. The church brought us a turkey at Christmas."

She paused, fighting for self-control. "We had his unemployment money, and we kept selling things, but there wasn't enough. We still felt Gene had done the right thing before God and man, and that the court would clear him. We were stunned by the guilty verdict.

"GENE WENT into county july in April. I asked everyone I could find to help him find a job in the hours he could work. A salesman needs to work all hours. We have no family to turn to for fi-nancial help. We are all on our own, Gene has located a temporary job, and we are so grateful for it. I have been getting a check from the company for from $50 to $60 a week, whatever is left over after Gene pays the $3 a day room and board to the county for every day he works. I just pray constantly that this Job will last. Gene is not allowed to see the children or me at all during his work hours.

Outside House Painting When You Go After That Job ...

By Dick Westermann

A PPEARANCE COUNTS!

If advertising agencies can spend millions of dollars on art work and suggested packaging for a box of soap, you can invest a few minutes of your time to look your best for an employment interview.

After 20 years behind an employment agency desk, I still am astonished at applicants who come in looking for jobs with expressions that suggest they are headed up the final 13 steps of Death

A job is the beginning, not the end! It should be synonymous with attainment, recognition, security and success. Don't get "job hunter's jitters." Stay cool.

IF YOU ARE a girl seeking an office job, wear a simple tailored dress or suit, hat, hose and gloves. Hair should be well groomed, makeup fresh but not overdone, little or no perfume. Nails should be polished. Be certain that your slip does not show. Do not smoke or chew gum in an employment interview.

If you are an office or techman, remember to be clean shaven with a trim hair-

Hew not to apply for that job. Tip: Leave bubble gum, tight sweaters, spike heels and eigarettes at home.

cut. Suit should be pressed, shoes freshly shined, tie spotless. Beards are "out." Don't smoke or thew gum. If you are a factory girl, the standard costume is capris, blouse, flat shoes and cardigan sweater. If you are slim, the sweater may be striped. If you are on the plump side, the sweater should be one color.

IF YOU ARE a factory man,, apply in denims, jeans, slacks and a sport shirt.

Remember that an application for employment is important. Many employers seeking perhaps 10 girls and 10 men must interview more than 100 of each, then take not the most promising applicants but those with patience enough to fill out the detailed application blanks.

Twenty per cent of the ap-plicants give up before finishing the application and walk out muttering, "There must be an easier way."
There isn't-not if you want the job.

Prepare a record of your education and experience in advance, with names of persons you may use as references. If possible, have a pastor, priest or rabbi and a professional person among your references. These people are considered reliable by most executives who do the hiring. Also they understand personnel terminology.

A LETTER of recommendation from a past employer adds weight to an application.

If you have not been employed previously, a letter from your school principal is desirable.

Look upon an interview for employment with anticipa-tion, rather than with nervous tension. It separates

to the Salt and Spray

By Dave Taylor

NCE MEN went down to the sea in ships for their living, and only for their living.
Today, thousands of Southern Californians turn to the sea to escape from living—from the pace of modern life, that is.

The state of the Parties Coast, in

Down the full length of the Pacific Coast, in fact, whole families scramble aboard sail boats, motor boats, or any other likely craft that will stay affoot for a weekend, a day, or just a couple of hours, and put as much water between them and the pressures they've left ashore as possible.

TELEPHONES have been invented, skyscrapers and freeways have been built, electric lights have been turned on, there are two cars in the garage—and now that all these things are accomplished, people want to get as far away from them as possible.

Escape lies just beyond the beach, at a place any place—where there is nothing the eye can see but sunshine, open water—and other boats.

And there are plenty of those. Hoisted, parked, or affoat in just the area from San Pedro to Newport Beach there are more than 14,000 privately owned water craft of every description, ranging in length from eight to more than 100 feet.

Even with mooring fast becoming a greater problem on the water than parking in downtown Los Angeles as dock and slip space becomes more scarce, the number of boats continues to increase

THE LARGER percentage of these are sailboats in the family style classes ranging from eight to 20 feet and of the inside bay, or closed water, sailing type, and from 20 to 30 footers in the midget ocean racing classes.

Many families now are two and even three-boat groups with the kids cruising around the quiet bay in dinghys, Sabots and Lidos, while mom and dad are adventuring beyond the breakwater aboard the larger family boat.

These excursions may be anything from just afternoon family sail to a small casual yacht club race, or a major contest involving entries from several clubs with coveted perpetual trophies at stake.

Boats flying the banners of yacht clubs from Santa Barbara to San Diego made up the fleet of 847 craft of every size and type that sailed his year's annual Southern California Yachting Association Mid-Winter Regatta—the world's largest winter sailing contest—at Los Angeles and Long Beach Harbors in February.

THE RECENT Newport Beach to Ensenada race, held early this month, made the 125-mile open water voyage with a record armada of 420 boats ranging in size from 20 feet to 100 feet. The Ensenada classic is the most popular of the international yachting events, and yearly participation is steadily rising

Though membership in a yacht club may not

be necessary for enjoyment of one's weekend boat-ing, the clubs do offer the advantages of planned, supervised racing, and social contact with likeminded nautical types. Belonging to a yacht club, once a pretty exclusive deal, is about as natural today as going to a bowling alley, and no less than 21 SCYA affiliated clubs are currently going strong in just the San Pedro to Newport Beach area.

The big revolution in boating in recent years has been from wood to fiberglass hulls which are cheaper, often more attractive, and much easier to maintain. Where wooden hulls obligated the yachtsman to a day of work on his boat for every day of sailing, the new glass hulls require only about a day of work for a month of use.

EVEN FOR SOME of the more serious of the yachting fraternity, after bigger things than just a Sunday cruise around the harbor, fiberglass has come into its own. Manufacturers are now produc-ing glass boats as large as 40 feet capable of considerable range under most sailing conditions. And, while there are those among the old guard purists who still insist that wood is the only decent, the only gentlemanly thing to build a boat of, it begins to look like fiberglass is here to stay.

Real enthusiasts don't seem to mind working on their boat so long as they don't become a slave to it. It's part of the sport, and most owners seem to look forward to the puttering they can do aboard the boat on non-sailing days, and to enjoy keeping it clean and in top shape.

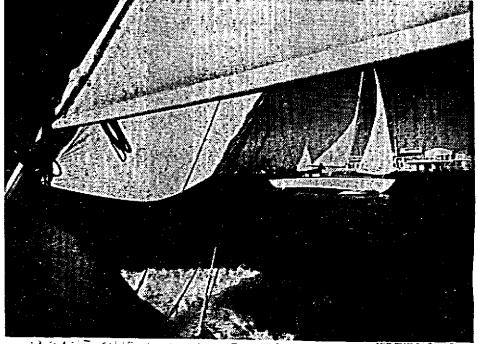

"It gives you a feeling of satisfaction in doing a whole job," one owner explains. "At work my job is just part of a much bigger job. There I can never have the feeling of looking at something that I've done by myself from start to finish—something that's all my own. On my boat I do everything—cleaning, painting, mending and sailing. That's something I can do that is mine."

OF COURSE, the larger ocean racing yachts from 40 to more than 100 feet require nearly fulltime attention the year around to stay in condition for the big open sea races and long-range cruises.

Many of these employ a skipper who lives aboard and hires additional maintenance labor when needed.

Then the day approaches for a big race. Word goes out through the "grapevine" that crews are needed, and experienced sailing hands-many of (Continued on Page 34)

Grace and beauty are the marks of the sailing yacht and the quiet peace aboard is a refuge from the daily grind. And the motor sailors find their happy crusting, feel

Mud Flat Days in San Pedro

Only a true visionary would ever have been able to foresee vast development of Long Beach-Los Angeles Harbor that had its beginning in the mud fiats of San Pedro. Above, Timms' Landing, San Pedro, in 1860s.

By Maymie R. Krythe

F CAPT. SHALER of the Leila Byrd, who dropped anchor in San Pedro Bay in 1805 and started the smuggling trade with early Californians, or Richard Henry Dana, who first saw the bay in 1835 from the Pilgrim, could return to these shores. they'd be astounded. For such seafarers never dreamed that the greatest man-made harbor in the world would some day arise from the San Pedro mud flats and that a lively shipbuilding industry would be established there.

It's interesting to recall that the first ocean-going craft was built here by a New Englander, Joseph Chapman. While in the Sandwich Islands (Hawaiian) he had been shanghaisi by pirates and finally landed on the California coast. He got into the good graces of the Californians through his ability as a "Jack of All Trades."

On Christmas Eve, the 60 ton brig Danube had been wrecked at San Pedro Bay. The crew then enjoyed a holiday feast in Los Angeles. Later, pieces of the brig were taken to San Gabriel Mission, where the clever Yankee, Chapman, made replicas. Indians took the parts down to the Bay, where they were reassembled. The launching of the Guadelupe, named for Mexico's patron saint, was a gay affair, with bonfires, feasting, and horse racing on the beach. The small boat was used for several years in the otter trade off the shores of Southern California; but it finally came to an end during a heavy storm.

ABEL STEARNS was one of the shrewd Yankees who reached the Southland in the pre-American period; he became a Mexican citizen, married beautiful young Arcadia Ban-dini, acquired great land holdings, including Rancho Los Alamitos, and from his Casa de San Pedro on the Bay practically controlled the hide and tallow trade for years. He built a small ship, named for his wife, Arcadia.

In early days when ships came down from the north, or around the Horn, they had to anchor near Deadman's Island in the open roadstead, because of the heavy storms that oft-en swept over San Pedro Bay. Passengers and freight were rowed ashore in small boats, manned by the crews.

However, after an energetic young man from Wilmington, Del. Phineas Banning, reached the area in 1851, just after California had entered the Union, he changed the picture at the bay. He soon built up a fleet of small steamers and lighters to serve the passenger and freight trade. Then he established stagecoaches to convey travelers to Los Angeles, while his freight wagons conveyed much needed goods to the city.

Among the little steamers used in servicing incoming or outgoing ships, Banning had the Clara, Comet and the Ada Hancock. The last was named for the daughter of his good friend, Union Gen. Winfield Scott Hancock, Unfortunately, the boiler of the Ada Hancock blew up; several persons were killed and others hurt. The steamer was taking passengers out to the Senator, bound for San Francisco. Both Banning and his wife were in-jured. This was judged "an act of God" at the inquest and Banning was not blamed, as such accidents were not unusual in those days.

IN SAN FRANCISCO, Banning bought, for $22,000, the Cricket-58 feet long. Since it drew only 21/2 feet of water, it could get over the sand-bar in the Wilmington Channel. It was the fastest of her type on the coast, and Banning was quite proud of her. However, he became very indignant when an Easterner made these disparaging remarks about the Cricket in a newspaper article:

"It is so small that its upper deck was reserved for the ladies, and men passengers stood around the boiler on the lower deck, surveying the beautifull scenery—mud flats, sandbars, seaweed, and seals basking in the sun, while the little Cricket crept up the shallow water of the slough.

In spite of such remarks the Cricket did play an important part in local shipping and carried many distinguished persons, including U.S. Congressmen, governors, railway ty-coons, and Army officers. Banning never lost a chance to take such visit. ors around the bay and explain the need for a sheltered harbor,

One day there was excitement on the Cricke. The sheriff was taking a man named Cerradel for imprisonment at San Quentin. Since he had killed another man, John Rains, many thought he had received too light a sentence. Some men came aboard, took Cerradel from the officer, hanged him, and then after weighting his body with stones, dropped it into the channel.

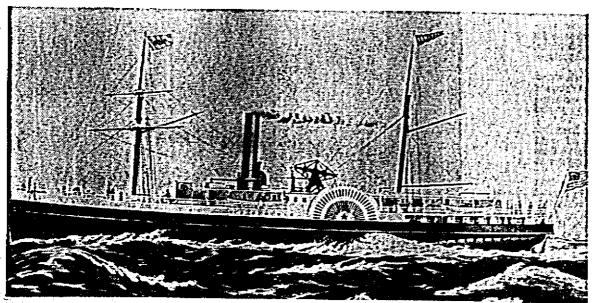

BANNING STARTED a shipyard at San Pedro Bay and in 1669 launched the first steamer ever built there . the Los Angeles, a vessel somewhat larger than the Cricket. The craft was christened with great ceremony, and was used for many years as a lighter. Once, when the grandfather of the late Gen, George Patton, Don Benito Wilson, a close friend of Banning, was being taken to the Orizaba, en route to San Francisco, the Drum Barracks band played on the Los Angeles in his honor.

The steamer that always stirred interest when it came in and out of the bay was the Senator, Built in the East, she had come around the Horn for use on the Sacramento River during Gold Rush days. Later, she was used as a coastwise vessel between San Francisco, San Pedro Bay and San Diego. Since the overland stage route was rough, most travelers preferred using the Senator. It had "large and airy rooms," "a ladies' salon" and "a bridal chamber." After many years of service, she was changed to a barkentine; her engines were taken out; and after being towed across the Pacific she served in New Zealand as a coal barge, an unhappy ending for so proud a ship.

Since ships came into the bay from many parts of the world, and there was a busy coastwise trade, Wilmington, founded by Banning in 1858, was a lively place. The main hotel, named the Wilmington Exchange, was a pop-ular meeting place for sailors and many other types, including ranchers, etc. Naturally, fights often occurred.

One day a sailor, Cliff Wilson, drank too much, then "put into Wilmington under full soil." He tied a horse to the railing of the small post office and went to another saloon. When he remounted, Cliff forgot to heave up his anchor." Result, he pulled down the porch and caused some injuries to the town barber.

So during those far off days, when ships and shipping were in their early stages at San Pedro Bay, life was ex-citing, even though people of those times had no idea of what the harbor would be like a century later.

Proud steamer in the coastwise trade and a frequent caller at San Pedro Bay, the Senator finally came to a lowly finish, completing her seagoing career as a coal barge in New Zealand. In her day she carried many noted persons.

HE TIME is 5 p.m. Thousands of the 2½-3 million people who use the Los Angeles area freeways every 2½ hours are swarming homeward and Joe Doe, who lives in, say, Nebraska, is on the last leg of his fourney to visit cousin Weldon in Glendale. Joe is tired. His wife is snapping at him. The kids are whining. The California sunshine Joe has heard so much about is glaring smack dab into his eyes. He reads the signs clearly enough—"Bakersfield, Hollywood, Glendale" — but he doesn't realize he has missed his cue sign a mile and a quarter earlier. Now he is trapped in one of the middle lanes.

Glancing into his rear-vision mirror, Joe sees that a following car is almost nipping his rear bumper. Others are swishing past on both sides. He tries moving to a right-hand lane. No luck, The swirling maelstrom is as fixed as the sun, but Joe knows that if he misses the turnoff he may be shunted miles out of his way and no telling how long it will take to find his way back.

Suddenly, in desperation, he looks closely at the triangular dividing point immediately in front of him. Some thoughtful soul has put almost the equivalent of an extra lane there! He squeezes over and into the Glendale turnoff. From there on it's a rinch. The signs guide him to the street exit he wants and, a little shaken but happy, Joe is at long last united with cousin Weldon.

IN BYGONE DAYS Joe as well as all other travelers would have been in the right-hand lane. There was no other right place to be, but according to a study made by the Traffic Department of the California Division of Highways, Joe is not the only one who needs today's thoughtful planning and efficient signing. Human error invariably increases when a problem is unexpected so the signs must tell that motorist where he is in order to know when to expect some change. They must do it almost instantly. And they must serve effectively despite another limiting factor; the use of the freeways by several different classes of travelers.

More than 5½ million tourists and at least 36,000 new families come into the Los Angeles area annually. They need one kind of information. Another kind is needed for a large portion of the 6½ million permanent residents of this urban complex which sprawls over 4,000 square miles and includes at least 85 individual cities. Satisfying all of these requirements is quite a job.

Answer the Big

"Part of our problem would be solved if people realized that there is a definite pattern to signing," says Frank Lew, assistant district engineer. "But," he adds, "constant research is needed to keep pace with increasing speeds."

IGNS INVOLVING decisions as well as orientation are another target for study and improvement. One mile is now a desirable distance for the first indication of a turnoff. The average driver actually needs 800 feet in which to read a sign and make a decision. He needs one inch of letter height for each 50-75 feet of distance between himself and the sign when traveling at freeway speeds. This establishes the present height of letters at 12 inches instead of 10 inches used on earlier freeways. Caps and lowercase letters have been found to be more readable than a message all in capital letters. Wherever possible, the message is now limited to one designation. More than three is virtually useless.

Signs leading to and from freeways presently leave something to be desired. The problem is complicated by variations in available rights-of-way which in turn necessitate a multitude of different designs for interchanges, entrances and exits. The signing must be customized to fit prevailing conditions. If it is not wholly adequate, it will improve. The traffic department is working on it whether it be to tell us where we are or how to get where we want to go, it all takes a lot of signs.

ASIDE FROM SHEER volume, 67,612 in 1963, signs must all be adequately illuminated and weatherproofed. All are expensive. Nearly $2 million was earmarked for signs last year. A single-message unit such as we see at some exits or dividing points costs about $6,000. Larger ones bearing two or more designations cost $7,000. Major units that bridge the entire width of a freeway cost a minimum of $12,000.

Regardless of costly requirements, the traveler must be alerted to the hypnotic sameness of the whole course of a freeway. He must know where he is at all times in order to make intelligent decisions. The tall, skinny palm tree in front of the white ranch house is no longer a familiar guide. More than likely it has been bulldozed away along with most of the ranch. In the days when rose trellises and orange groves fringed many Southern California highways, motorists chugged up to a friendly signpost bearing half a dozen designations and stopped for a leisurely inspection.

PARNELLI JONES AND INDIANAPOLIS CLASSIC

The Thinking Man's Daredevil

By Rich Roberts

THE TYPICAL auto racing driver is a cocky sort of rogue with no more future than the next turn,

He's ready, willing and eager to drive anything with wheels into oblivion His one objective in life is a checkered flag and he knows only one way to live—with his foot on the floorboard, death in his eyes, a roar in his ears and malice in his heart for anyone who gets in his way.

Then you have Rufus Parnelli Jones, who somehow overcame a lack of those qualities to reign as champion of the Indianapolis 500-mile Memorial Day classic.

"As many races as you run you never learn everything," says Jones, who is Rufus to his close friends and Parnelli to racing fans everywhere.

SOFT-SPOKEN and quite mellowed considering his bold profession and 30 years of age, Parnelli recalls the days he put his career in gear on the jalopy tracks around his Torrance home.

"It was exciting and fun, but I really had more bravery than common sense. I used to crack up a lot. Then I learned that it didn't take guts as much as it did ability. As soon as I learned that I started winning."

Jones must rate as the standard bearer for the conventional type of Indianapolis roadster with the engine up front against the growing challenge of lightweight, rearengined models developed on the European Grand Prix circuit.

World champion Jimmy

Parnelli Jones, auto racing veteran and champion, learned early in his speed career that ability was more important than bravery in race driving.

Clark of Scotland drove his waspish Lotus Ford to second. place at Indianapolis last year, chasing Jones to a record vic-tory. And Clark would have won if Jones had been disqualified for leaking oil.

JONES own sponsor, Southern California sportsman and national auto racing figure J. C. Agajanian, built a lightweight car with a powerstandard Offenhauser mounted sternward to meet the challenge this year, but Parnelli isn't sure it's the an-

he says. 'The new one looks real good and has a lot of good ideas in it, but you can go too far on this light weight business. You can get so light that the car just might break up on you. We should try to build them light and keep them safe, too."

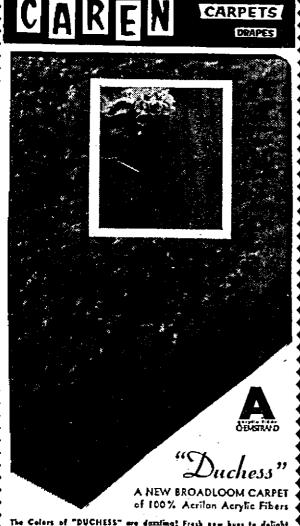

It was Jones' instinct for safety first that justified In-dianapolis officials in allowing him to continue when his brakes went out while he was leading the 1962 race — the year he became the first man to turn a lap of the historic track at 150 m.p.h. But, forced to ease up behind slower cars, he steadily lost ground as veteran Rodger Ward came on

"ACTUALLY, the greatest chance I had to win it was the year before—my first year there," he says, "They had drilled safety and tire wear into the drivers so much that I felt I was just driving along taking it easy, and there I was in front. I'll probably never have it that easy again."

In that rookie race of 1961, Jones was running ahead when a car he was about to lap kicked up a bolt that struck him on the forehead. Dazed, Parnelli slowed down, causing his fuel mixture to go rich and turn his engine

Last year misfortune struck pacesetting Parnelli again, although he overcame it to win. His crankcase cracked. gushing a dangerous stream of oil onto the track. However, officials hesitated in dropping the disqualifying black flag because of a plea

SOUTHLAND HOMES

Career Sisters Share a Home

Heavy coffee tables, reminiscent of ancient Rome or Grecian construction, stand in front of a sofa in the home of Hazel and Mildred Spildaw, career women-sisters.

SISTERS Hazel and Mildred Spildaw chose Torrance as the convenient city in which to live, and, specifically, the new tract home on the corner of 3330 W. 171st St. as their future residence when they moved there about a year ago. The home was well suited to the needs of two career women who wanted a place that would be easy to maintain both inside and out; would afford privacy for both owners when desired; have livable

By Stella George

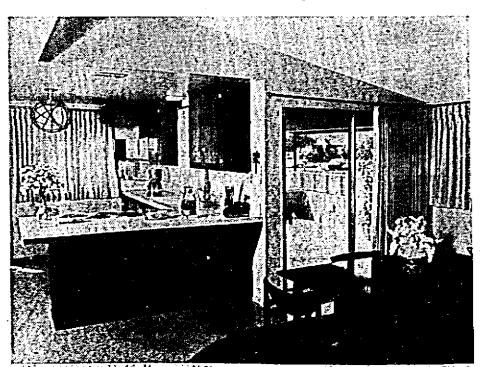

qualities which would lend themselves well to entertaining dinner guests, or, perhaps, friends or relatives from back East who might stay a week or so. And, of course, having worked and saved to pur-chase a home, they wanted it as attractive as possible.

Edna O'Brien, NSID, has been a long-time friend of the Misses Spildaw, so thev turned the job of decorating the entire home over to her.

The house consists of a small entrance hall with a half-wall at the left viewing a long and rather narrow living room; a passageway straight ahead (with a door which can be closed leading to the bedrooms and family room) and a wide open kitch-en and full dining room to the right. There are two bedrooms and baths.

STRUCTURALLY, the home could not have been custom-

Afticher and dising room of the Spilday home as seen from the front hall. Glass at right background opens to a large paved, walled patts where artificial plants, "grow."

ized better to suit the occupants. Even career women spend much time in the kitchen, especially if they enjoy cooking and serving meals artistically. The kitchen in the Spildaw home is at the far tight with an abundance of work area, cupboards and storage space, including a recessed area for washing appliances. The stove is on the wide bar area which is between the kitchen and dining rooms, so that the cook is never isolated from her

The owners wanted the dining room to be exactly that, not a family room, Furnishings consist of a Danish Modern set with a buffet that has a glassed area above for displaying heirloom treasures. A thick olive green oval rug is the color accent for the dining table and chairs.

ON THE LEFT side of the entrance half a tall, white, Grecian statue, "Chantelaine" greets guests. She sets the mood for the living room de-cor. As mentioned before, the room is long and rather narrow, with many windows and somewhat limited wall space for furnishings. Ample seat-ing space without clutter was achieved thus: A teen-foot sofa in two sections runs the length of the room on the right, facing the windows across the way. In place of an ordinary coffee table, three heavy tables which re-semble the base of Roman or Grecian columns, and are called "Antique Stone Te-quila" tables are placed in front of the sofa. They are unique and handsome decorative accents. Behind the sofa, lamps are placed against the wall, flanking a gold crown

Across the room, twin occasional chairs are upholstered in accent prints of apricot, olive green, and the golden tones. The colored TV Is in one corner with a large fern behind it, and, nearby, is a high-backed Italian chair upholstered in olive green velvet.

One of the bedrooms has lavender color accents, with lavender lamps, pillows, and occasiona chair. The adjoining bath is done in apricot and green with a mural on the wall adding depth to the room.

THE NEXT bedrom is done in apricot and shades of strawberry and pink. Hanging shelves and lamps are above the bed, and a long gold chest runs the length of the windows on the far side of the room. Closet doors are mirrored

The family room has its own private bath which qualifies as a guest room suite. Here a white sofa (daybed) faces the TV which has twin antique white bookshelves and chests on either side. An apricot occasional chair is in one corner. The decoration of the adjoining both was considered important for this reason: the window and far wall of the bathroom can be seen from the other end of the home near the bedroom which is accented in laven-der. However, the bath "be-longs" to the bedroom which is done in the apricot and strawberry tones. Wallpaper which has a lavender, apricot, strawberry, and olive green print ties in the whole color scheme of the bedroom suites. Thus, the portion of the bathroom which is visible is papered in the proper colors and a window is draped in white and finished off with a canopy made of material that matches the paper.

A cement patio circles the kitchen and dining room where flourishing potted arti-fical plants need no care and the grass never needs cutting. Carefully selected plants and shrubs are growing on the still new front lawn.

Ranch Styled With

By Jules Loh

INUSTIC warmth, empha-sized by a contemporary version of the old-fashioned front porch, characterizes this up-to-date three bedroom ranch home.

Its suburban charm doesn't end at the threshold, either. The interior design, practical and convenient in every way, features a sunken living room which extends beyond the rear walls of the house and has windows on three sides. It also has a homey, floor-toceiling stone fireplace separating it from the entrance foyer.

Designer of House of the Week B-95 is architect Samuel Paul. The house contains a modest 1,315 square feet of living area in overall dimen-sions of 35 feet deep and 62 feet 3 inches wide. Paul suggests a 75x100 foot lot to take full advantage of the exterior features.

ITS FLOOR PLAN is a well ordered arrangement of living room, combination kitchen-dining room, family room, three bedrooms, entry foyer, one full bath, a lavatory, washroom, one-car garage and partial cellar.

The exterior is a handsome blend of stone veneer and wood siding with an intersecting roof line, in the shape of a cross, which further empha-sizes its rustic character. While the shape of the house is unusual, it consists of simple rectangular forms which permit a direct and simple framing system to be used in construction.

The effect of the front-torear roof gable is even more striking inside. It allows a battened cathedral ceiling to flow through the house unobstructed, producing an unusual sense of spaciousness, To preserve the effect, the closets in the entry (which also serve as a divider) don't extend all the way up to the ceiling.

THE INFORMAL AREAmost used portion of any mod-ern home—likewise is well planned for efficient, relaxed living An especially fine feature is the lavatory, conven-ient not only to the family room-kitchen area but to the outdoors as well.

The living room fireplace, as desirable as it is for its homey effect, is offered as an optional feature by architect Paul who realizes a person's desires don't always conform to the family housing budget.

Should you decide in favor of the budget, an ornamental rail would be substituted as a divider in the foyer, producing a balcony two steps above the sunken living room. If the fireplace is constructed, however. the boiler flue would be placed within the chimney and thus the vanity in the wash room would be lengthened considerably.

THE WASH ROOM, incidentally, deserves further attention. For reasons of plumbing economy, it couldn't be placed in a better place. Far from being a duplication of the adjoining bathroom facilities, this innovation eases the morning rush those of us who have lived in one-bathroom houses are familiar with, and in addition provides a handy and attractive powder room for guests.

The kitchen-dining area of this house is ideally laid out. The step-saving U-shaped kitchen (with sink overlooking the terrace for excellent supervision) is separated from the dining area by hanging cabinets. Sliding glass doors lead to the large, flagstone rear terrace. The terrace also is accessible from the living room and the garage, making it an excellent relaxing area you'll appreciate more in the warmer weather.

The front porch—a rarity nowadays—can be appreciated in all kinds of weather. It provides the best of all covered entrances in rain or snow, and in warm weather is good for just sitting—like grandpa used to do. If nothing else, though, in combination with the front patio the porch serves as a pleasing and gracious entrance.

To order, send name and address to Building Editor, Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif., enclose 50 cents and request House of the Week Study Plan, Dsign B-95.

Another interesting land useful in stormy weather) feature is a contemporary version of an old-fashioned front porch. Design provides an air of rustic charm.

The Telegraph and a Dark Horse

By Hoyt McAfee

SENATORS and representain Washington tingled with excitement one historic day-May 24, 1844. They all wondered what in thunder was going on at the Democratic national convention in Baltimore, only 40 miles away! Pressing congressional duties had kept the Democrats from attending their party's biggest show, a truly frus-trating experience for them.

But now they had gathered at a central location in Washington to receive a direct report from the "firing line" in Baltimore. It was truly an epoch-making moment in American political history, a first in a communications

In explaining, the news of what had developed at the Democratic national convention that date (May 29, 1844) was due to be flashed from Baltimore by telegraph, that "new-fangled," "mystifying." and "out-of-this-world" contraption invented by Samuel F. B. Morse.

CURIOUS, TENSE and impatient friends of the national lawmakers also awaited that first flash, Would itthe "new-langled contrap-tion"—really bring the message to them? That was the $64 question of that moment. When it finally came through, if a bit slowly, the congressmen and their friends in the capitol responded with whoops of delight. First, because they had been particlpants in a history-making event—the first political mes-sage ever sent by telegraph. Second, because the Democrats convened at Oddfellows' Hall in Baltimore had produced a real thunderbolt.

They had done so by choosing as their nomince for president a man who was, from the outset, strictly a NON-CANDIDATE! He had at no time sought the nomination. Not so much as one delegate had been pledged to him at the time the convention got under way. Talk about a dark horse to end dark horses-he was it!

JAMES KNOX POLK, a North Carolinian by birth, had unexpectedly taken the Democratic convention storm on the ninth ballot. How that came to pass, without Polk lifting a finger in his own behalf, created as much of a sensation as that initial telegram message dis-patched from Baltimore,

It all started when former president Martin Van Buren forged into the lead over his for the nomination Lewis Cass of Michigan, Two ballots—then a 3rd, 4th, 5th, 6th, 7th and 8th followed.
Still no break-through for either candidate. With the convention thus deadlocked, a new name was suddenly proposed for consideration that of James K. Polk, Polk, a former speaker of the House of Representatives (and a popular one), immediately picked up 44 votes. Then the stampede was ont Amid shouts of excitement and one stormy demonstra-tion after another, all the del-egates at the Democratic convention switched to Polk. No one was more over-whelmed with surprise by that sudden, out-of-nowhere victory on the ninth ballot than the nominee himself!

Having received word of that "stunning upset" via an "amazing" instrument (the telegraph), Democratic legislators in Washington whipped off a terse message. It read: Three cheers for James K. At his inauguration Polk! the following March (1845), incidentally, Samuel Morse sat on the outdoor platform as an honored guest.

USING A special telegraph key, he flashed an account of incoming President Polk's ad-Baltimore - another dress to first in U.S. political history. Polk's speech, an eloquent one, ran somewhat over 4,000 words.

Promptly, then, Polk-the very first "dark horse" candidate to reach the White House-settled down to his challenging duties. Soon thereafter Texas was admit-ted to statehood. Then came Polk's test under fire, his most crucial hour—the outbreak of war in May 1846 against Mexico.

This bloody conflict with a neighboring country gave the U.S. and President Polk many anxious moments. But it brought to the nation's at-tention at least two brilliant Taylor (who later became president) and Gen. Winfield Scott. Additionally, a certain junior officer, named Ulysses S. Grant, attracted special attention because of his daring and skill in military tactics.

Soon after the fall of Vera Cruz and the capture of Mexico City by American forces, the Mexican government sued for peace. By terms of the Treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo, the Rio Grande was estab-lished as the boundary between the U.S. and Mexico. In return for payment of $15, 000,000, Mexico also ceded to the U. S. large chunks of territory.

THESE AREAS included: California, Arizona, New Mexico, Nevada, Utah, plus slices of Wyoming and Colorado. At later dates—under Polk's administration — two additional states joined the Wisconsia union. Namely: and Oregon.

Answer questions frankly

I appreciate any young person—male or female—say-ing "Sir." It shows respect and breeding. Many questions can be answered with "Yes,

Find out what jobs are open, then try to sell your-self on one of them. If you don't know what is open, ask, then try to sell yourself on the one you like best.

Always there is the question: "When can you go to work" correct answer is "Right now."

The person who says "Right now" is likely to get the job.

REMEMBER that you can't stampede an employer into hiring you.

If the employer says "I will consider your application and let you know in a few days," smile and say "I should like very much to work for your company. I appreciate your considering my application."

Traveler

By Irma McCall

TRETIRED Long Beach school principal A. II. Martin anticipates two espefrom his unique tour—Cities of Central Asia. He hopes to discover new gournet treats, perhaps in Samarkand or Ashkhabad, to delight lucky friends here. Then, too, he can add a brand new line to the huge map of his travels decorating an entire livingroom wall.

Martin may be the most traveled retiree in town with a record of six major trips covering 250,000 miles. His suitcase doesn't bulge with colored slides of Eiffel Tower and Changing of the Guard. That package, Mr. Custom In-spector, contains a Swiss copper saute pan, the perfect utensil in which to prepare a delicious beef fondue.

The inspiration for Mar-tin's current bon vivant dinners struck him in a cosy rathskeller in Geneva.

"My traveling companion, Jack Stellato, and I noticed patrons dipping chunks of meat into a sort of chaling dish," he explains, "so I dish," he explains, "so I asked the waiter what it was."
"Beef fondue."

SOON THE TWO men were happily spearing inch-squares of tender beef in boiling oil and then nibbling rare to well done tidhits, according to taste. Condiments included chutney, pickled vegetables, cocktail mushrooms and onions, sweet and sour cabbage, artichoke hearts. As a California touch, Mr. Martin adds avocado and papaya to his side dishes.

All of us cherish the memory of some perfect mealtrout fried by a mountain stream—pressed duck in the famed Paris restaurant Tour d'Argent.

"The dinner I'd like most to repeat," Martin says, "was served in Cypress. I could have eaten four helpings instead of two-lamb roasted on a skewer, and then cabbage, onions, and cucumber flavored some special way. And we dipped pieces of unleavened bread in mashed up eggplant."

RUNNER-UP in mouthwatering fare turned up in Athens - dolmadakia: rice, meat, and spicy sauce baked in grape leaves. In Japan Martin developed a mild desire for raw cuttle fish.

"Once when my bus stopped at a poor village between Bogota and Quito, I was really hungry, so I was glad to see some Indian women come up carrying dishpans full of steaming hot spuds and barbecued goat. It's fun to try everything."

Friends here will await Martin's return from Asiawith recipes of rare viands perhaps sampled by Marco Polo.

The High Cost of Chivalry

"I'VE ONLY seen Gene four times since he left. Cabs cost $4.50 each way, there are no buses, and I have no other transportation, I can't take the children to that place. They are too young. When they are older, I pray to God they will understand."

When asked if she had considered going on the state wel-fare roll, Hughleen Johnston paled visibly, and her clasped hands were shaking "Yes, I have to think about it. We have always worked for everything—Gene was always so willing to share. He has worked so hard for what we have, but to have to go on welfare...how can this happen? Gene is no murderer. He only tried to save a woman's life. He felt he had to, that no man could do less, and it has cost us all we have . and now we owe so much in addition."

The very worst thing of all, last weekend the baby got sick. His temperature was 104 degrees. I've never been so scared in my life. They won't even let you in at a hospital without money, and I have none. Thank God, he is all right now. I'm the most afraid for the children, although I am afraid to open the door at

"THEY SAY a citizen must go in with just his bare hands to try to stop a crime, even though the criminal may have a gun or a knife. Even the police don't have to do this. Is this a good law? How are we caught in such a trap?

This, then, is the real price of chivalry-not just months" as a token of social disapproval. Gene Johnston comes out in September or October of this year, 46 years of age, to begin his life, His home, car, everything he owned swept away, facing a mountain of debt, a marked man with a criminal record, facing three years of proba-tion. He will have paid his debt to society, and it is very certain he will not again be-come "involved."

HOW YOUR CHILD LEARNS

A Personal Issue

By Howard E. Kent

QUESTION: Does the personality of a student af-fect the grade he gets from the teacher?

ANSWER: Data obtained in a study conducted at Southern Illinois University indicate a definite relationship between the grades teachers give and the teachers' ratings of the per-sonalities of their students. The child who, when asked why he got a bad re-port card, answers, "Be-cause the teacher doesn't like me," may be exactly right.

The problem in this case is to see what can be done to make the teacher like him. QUESTION: Do youngsters planning usually want to do what their fathers do?

ANSWER: You might suppose that such would be the case, but it's not.

Research at Rutgers University showed that the occupational aspirations of children do not reflect their parents' occupations. In general, youngsters have different—and higher—aspirations. QUESTION: Is there any proof that "distributed" study is more effective than concentrated study?

ANSWER: Yes.

A research project revealed that a group working 20 minutes a day for six days on an assignment learned more efficiently than a group that worked 120 minutes at one sitting.

Generally speaking, it's better to cut a study chore into pieces instead of trying to do it all at once.

units from Sketchbook plans demonstrate fully.

By Bill Meyerriecks

SKETCHBOOK'S outdoor furniture projects are based on several equal points. Comfort, good design and sturdiness are our main considerations.

These elements, we feel, are in the S-161 projects plan for the Chaise Lounge and Corner Bench. Both of these projects are show fully in the do-it-yourself plan of-fered. And neither is a diffi-cult unit to construct. The average handyman can accomplish either one in a weekend of spare time with hand tools.

The chaise lounge is one that you won't find manufactured. It is a sturdy one with extra length. Why longer? We figured this for several reasons. If you happen to be tall, this is a lounge where your feet won't hang over the end. But even an adult of average size will enjoy the luxury of the extra two feet at the foot of the lounge. It provides a spot to put down that Sunday newspaper's ex-tra sections as you browse through it, or your mate can sit down and have a cozy chat as you relax. It is made primarily of 2 x 4 standard lumber and cotton duck canvas covering the back rest and lounge proper. Standard chaise cushions can be used.

THE CORNER BENCH is a useful unit and popular on patio or in back yard to fill in space on corners now not fully utilized. The sturdy, slatted design of the L-shaped unit measures 6 feet in both directions. It is a simple, mitered construction of top and legs that will stand plenty of punishment.

Both projects are shown in the Sketchbook plan in full detail and step-by-step assembly. Complete parts and material lists are provided. One big plus suggested in the plan is the use of special fastening devices that can speed up assembly and make taking apart of the units for storage considerably easier. To order, specify plan number S-161 and send 50 cents with name and address to Building Editor, Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach, Calif.

Behind Political Scenes

By Vera Williams

THAT REALLY goes on behind the scenes in political conventions? Is there wheeling and dealing? Do a handful of cronies in-stead of the delegates at large pick the potential president and vice president?

As a member of Adlai Stevenson's national cam-paign staff, Ralph G. Martin, topflight newspaperman, saw first-hand the maneuvering behind the ballots and bandwagons in 1952 and 1956.

In "BALLOTS & BAND-WAGONS, The Exciting Events Behind Five Major Political Conventions" (Rand McNally, $5.95) he writes about the convention poli-tics that few people ever see or hear about.

He concentrates on five key 20th century conven-tions, all with high drama and lasting significance:

The Republican conven-tion of 1900 when Rough Rider Teddy Roosevelt, up for vice presidential nominafound himself in the middle of a battle of the bosses.

The Republican conven-tion of 1912 when Teddy fought a bitter battle with William Howard Taft, his own hand-picked successor. a fight that tore the party asunder and brought about the election of Woodrow Wilson, Democrat.

The Republican convention of 1920 when a handful of powerful senators in a smoke-filled room picked Warren G. Harding because Ohio politician Harry Daugherty thought Harding LOOKED like a president.

A Fancy for Stone By Vynola F. Limerick

roll Park West, is a soapstone fancier. For several years, this 16-year-old high school boy has been accumulating a wide variety of objects curved out of this soft stone that has the peculiar oily feel of wet soap.

Although steatite or tale, other terms for this substance, has many commercial uses, for centuries craftsmen have used it to create idols, amulets, utensils, seals, scarabs and other artistic handiwork.

Mike's collection includes a beige and black teapot wreathed with a garland of primroses. A small bird perches on the lid. Another interesting piece is a spotted mother monkey, who by the apt expression she has on her face is completely bewildered by the antics of the two little ones she has with her.

THE MINUTELY accurate work on the carvings is amazing. A small figurine of a Chinese fisherman is complete in every detail.

One of the most unusual pieces among Mike's 35 carvings is a replica of an emperor's tomb. Steps lead to a dias, where, beneath a throne, is a tiny coffin. All this is done in beige and a deep pink.

Soapstone art ranges in Soapstone art ranges in color from mottled gray and beige to creamy white and rosy pink. Pieces are decorated with delicately lovely hand cut roses, daisies, chrysanthemums and other flowers and leaves. Betel nuts and lotus pods are used frequently in the designs of Oriental origin.

The soothing powder known as talcum is produced from soupstone. United States mines and mills more talc than all the rest of the world. A dozen states, California among them, produce this material.

The list of commercial uses for soapstone or steatite is practically endless. It has come a long way since sheets of it were used for window panes in India and ancient workmen chiseled weird idols from soapstone blocks.

Certainly he and his devoted wife (Sarah Childress Polk) set an example in clean living. A warm, informal air permeated the White House, although no dancing parties were permitted to be held there. Also, no alcohol in any form (liquor, wine, or beer) was ever served at White House receptions. It would, in Polk's view, serve "as a wretched example for the White House to tolerate drinking on its premises."

So he and his wife won the cheers of overwhelming numbers of Americans of that day by dispensing "health-giving milk, fruit juices, and soft drinks" at all White House functions. It was an example which earned them this tribute: "That inspiring couple in the White House.

NONETHELESS, Polk himself had grown weary of his heavy burdens and actually looked forward to the end of his term of office. On the occasion of his return to private life, he recorded this entry in his diary:

"I feel exceedingly relieved! For I am now free from all public cares, I'm sure that I shall be happier in my retirement than I've been during the 4 years... that I've filled the highest office within the gift of my coun-

Various other U. S. Presidents have shared Polk's feelings ("I'll be glad to leave the White House")—notably America's only bachelor president: James Buchanan, a man who was rejected for the presidential nomination three times before he finally made the grade on his fourth try!

Miniature Mouser

By Eleanor Avery Price

ALTHOUGH there are large-boned Siamese cats, most are medium-sizedlong, svelte, and a bit on the dainty side with smallish feet. Every now and then there is a Siamese kitty (and some other breeds) that appears to be a miniature. There can be several reasons. Sometimes close inbreeding brings out undersized cats. Sometimes mainutrition or disease dwarfs a cat's growth. And often there is simply a "runt" of the litter.

I don't like the word "runt." It has derogatory intonations, as though the animal concerned was peculiarly stunted. I prefer the word "mutation." The miniature Siamese shown with this article with an average size Siamese is a miniature, Tammy, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Mike Earley of Long Beach. She is lovely. Her proportions seem right, and her owners probably wouldn't take a ranch in Texas for her,

There have been mild flurries of perpetuating miniature cats by breeding miniature to miniature, I wish I could re-port more. I can only add that miniatures would need to be well guarded, for even one big tom could upset the toe overly large. This is a dominant mutation, meaning a cat with surplus toes is quite apt to produce kittens with extra toes Breeders of purebred cats avoid such cats but owners love them.

Did you ever see a cat with white hind feet and solid colored front feet? Probably not, because mittens universally appear on the front feet if on the hind. Very little seems to be known about this other than that it is true. Mittens may vary as to size.

YOU MAY HAVE seen cats. notably Siamese, with kinked tails. This is an unwanted mutation. Sometimes a cat's tail is missing entirely, or there is just a stub. The Manx cat is tailless. He quite possibly started as a mutation, and so many of them appeared they became a breed.

You have certainly heard of Mexican hairless dogs or Chinese crested, little dogs that are coatless except for a tuft on the head and one on the tail. Whether these dogs were bred as the result of a desirable mutation is not up for discussion here. The fact is, it is said the the Mexico paked cats also appear. And oceasionally there is one born to an ordinary home-produced litter. It may die from ex-posure so we never see one even as an oddity at cat shows.

An interesting mutation, preserved by careful breed-ing, started the Rex cat, a feline with only the downy hairs of the undercoat which gives him a curly appearance.

It is said by some that the Peke-face, long-hair cat ap-pears sponstaneously in litters. Others claim ability to control this mutation, which is doubtful since we see so few of this type cat. The cat has an indented nose, a wrinkled muzzle, pop eyes.

Daisies Like It Sunny

planting half a dozen gloriosa dalsies in the garden will bring rich rewards for the flower lover, both in the flower bed and as cut flowers indoors. Plant them 18 inches apart in a sunny spot and they'll grow vigorously.

Blooms may be single, semi-double or double and colors are yellow, orange, bronze and two-tone. The plants will grow to about two feet tall and will spread.

The reason Lady (Martha) Washington geraniums have grown like sprawly vines, We're thinking of changing its name to Aphid אי Thrips Killer.

In a way, it seems only right. Our Shall, Slug in Bug Killer with Zectran® Insecticide is just as great for knocking out aphids and thrips on flowers and plants. One spraying and the little monsters are gone; and once dry, there's no danger to children or pets. But on the other hand, Dow Shall, Slug in Bug Killer gets rid of shalls, slugs, and practically any gardening insect pest you can name. Kills more pests, in fact, than any other single product around.

Until we make up our minds, ask your garden supply dealer for it by its present name: Dow Snall, Slug in Bug Killer. And while you're talking to him, check on Dowpon® Grass Killer Bar that you rub along the edge of walks, flowerbeds, buildings to eliminate unwanted grass. Two more great ones from The Dow Chemical Company.

Gloriosa daisies are fine performers in a sunny garden. They may be single, semi-double and double in form.

making the grower most unhappy with them is because they were not pruned back properly last September or early in October.

The vine-like branches at that time should be pruned away back, leaving two to four mature leaves on the remainder, and new growth should then be pinched back a couple of times. This forces bushy growth. Try it next fall and, come spring 1965, those plants will look like showtype azalias, they will be so massed with blooms.

Your local nurseryman has varieties of Lady Washington geraniums ablaze with flowers. Try them in large pots as well as in sunny garden soit.

Watch for chewing worms on geraniums, English primroses, passion vine, and other plants. Spray with a stomach type insecticide spray, However, it is work-saving and money-wise to have an insecticide spray that controls a wide range of pests, whether sap sucking or chewing. This means such a spray may be used to control aphids, thrips, spider mites, and moth worms, cutworms, beetles, grasshoppers, snails, slugs, and sowbugs. Keep in mind too, the spray should be safe around pets and children as soon as it dries.

Shade trees growing in lawn area sometimes create a problem of roots coming to the surface, robbing water from the grass and because of shaded areas, encourage fungus growth.

The trees that normally root deeply are not nearly as bad about consuming surface water away from grass as the shallow rooted trees, especially those having many small feeder roots. These are the real culprits and can destroy a lawn.

Deep watering and feeding with various types of injector watering devices should be practiced with trees of this kind in lawns. Otherwise the heavier roots will be encouraged to come to the surface and the result will be an uneven lawn.

Too much shade will discourage the growth of some grasses. Care should be taken in planting the type of grass that will tolerate considerable shade. Stagnant water accumulating in shady spots also encourages fungus. Much can be done to correct lungus conditions in lawns by using a copper-ether disinfectant when fungus appears. This treatment will also destroy lawn moth larvae at the same time.

familiar with the handsome biennial, the Canterbury Bell, and agree it adds glory to garden beds and is a splendid cutting flower. Even if they have not grown it, many, too, have heard of the "Bluebell of Scotland," famed in song and story. It is interesting to note these two are close kin. Both belong to the large bell-flower family, the Campanulas, meaning "little bells."

Their variety is infinite, including annuals, beennials, peren nials, dwarf rock garden plants, pretty edgers, medium height plants, trailing hanging basket types and stately background plants. Flowers are bell-shaped varying in size from dainty blooms to the large Canterbury Bells. The prevailing colors are varied tones of blue, though there are white varieties and pinks, rosy-mauve and the deep purple of Canterbury Bells.

PERENNIAL campanulas are a hardy lot, thriving with scant attention and enjoying a long flowering period, blooming continuously all summer, supplying lovely cool color, grace and charm to summertime and fall garden beds. Though the plants should always be given the advantage of cool, half shady places.

The perennial group includes the popular peach-leaved campanula persicifolia and campanula carpatica, both excellent border plants or fillers in a perennial planting, campanula poscharskyana, the Siberian bellflower and dependable edger, Campanula isophylla a hanging basket plant, Campanula fragilis also is a trailer and campanula garganica makes a fine plant for window boxes, baskets or rockeries. The tallest of all bell-flowers is campanula pyramidalis, growing over five feet tall. It makes a spectacular potted plant.

Biennial campanulas include the two popular Canterbury Bells, campanula medium and campanula medium and calycanthema, the popular "cup and saucer" type, that have three or four huge bells packed one within the other above a flattened petal that resembles a saucer.

ALL BELLFLOWERS form dense clumps of rich foliage and are profuse bloomers. The different varieties carry the season of bloom, starting with the Canterbury Bells that, in the mild Southland climate, unfold their beauteous flowers in late spring to the various perennials that bloom all through summer and on through fall.

Campanula fragilis is really a toughte. It is good for a basket, wall, rockery.

Campanula carpatica is charming as rock garden, border or wall plant.

Say It in English

It's not necessary for travelers to arm themselves with Hawaiian dictionaries or phrase books before boarding Honolulu-bound liner or plane.

English is the language used in the 50th state, A dwindling number of Hawaiians, however, still use their native language in talking with each other.

Nevertheless, practically everybody in the world knows at least one Hawaiian word—Aloha—and most every radio owner has a Hawalian singing vocabulary even before he journeys to the Islands.

His Hawaiian visit usually adds fifteen or twenty other words that are commonly used by all residents in all ordinary conversations in preference to the English equivalent.

Among these are the five words that tell the "Story of the Islands." First is malihini, meaning a newcomer or tourest. Then wahine (woman), okolehao (the native beverage), pilikia (trouble) and pau (finished, done, the end)

ALASKA will get a big play since the quake earlier this year left hotels and transportation facilities intact, Some will fly to the 49th state, others will take the "Marine Highway," a 450-mile ferry system running from Prince Rupert, British Columbia, north to and through the southeastern Alaska Panhandle, and still others will traverse the Alaska Highway.

Getting to the Fair

IF YOU plan to drive from the Long Beach-Orange County area to the New York World's Fair, you can de-termine the distance in less than a minute by consulting the unique new Best-Western/Best Eastern Travel Guide.

This 146-page guide, of which 6 million copies (with a total of 876 million pages) have just been published, not only shows the total distance, but the distance between the larger towns, and miles be-tween each town, eliminating continual referral to a road

THE GUIDE is the brain child of M. K. Guertin, Long Beach, who founded Best Western/Best Eastern Hotels 15 years ago. He is the present executive officer of the association, now the world's largest referral group of mo-tor hotels with 857 members and 45,107 rooms. Each motel must pass rigid standards to be accepted as a member of the group.

(Guertin, widely known in motel/hotel circles, has just been appointed to serve on the motel advisory commit-tee of the American Hotel & Motel Association.)

Best Western Motels formerly operated west of the Mississippi River, but now covers the entire nation and part of Canada—hence the change in name to Best-Western/Best Eastern Mo-

SOME OF THE outstanding motels of the nation belong to the association - including such sleek palaces as the H-story Gabe's Motor Inn, Owensboro, Ky., shown in the accompanying illustration.

Each motel in the association features free reserva-tions. For instance, Guertin, who operates the Beach Motel, 4217 E. Ocean Blvd. Long Beach, and the City Center Motel, Los Angeles, recently made a reservation at the Roosevelt Inn, New York City, for a client who wished to attend the Fair, and another at Koths Colonial Inn, Dearborn, Mich., where the same client wished to pick up a new car.

Guertin says his office receives as many as 800 requests a day for the free guides, many of them from outside the United States.

"We are going to the World's Fair and, since we have children with us, would like to travel when the place is not too crowded. Also do we have to have hotel reser-vations?"

THINK you always need firm reservations in New York hotels-and more so while the Fair and summer season are on. American Air-lines will make these for you. Domestic airlines are very competitive for Falr business. They'll get hotels, theater tickets and Fair tickets.

Tuesday, Wednesdays and Thursdays seem to be the days of more empty plane seats.

You should look into family plan tickets, too. With several children on the cut-rate family plan, you can fly that roomy first class at about the same price.

And look into various twoway specials: Cross country direct and return via Miami for very little more money. (National Airlines.) Or cross country and back through Mexico City for a small increase. (Western and Eastern Airlines.) Via Puerto Rico (Delta).

There are so many costcutting combinations and so many extras available, it's hard to keep track of them all. I'd get a note pad and pencil and call all airlines. Tell them what you want. Ask them what they've got.

"We'd like some informa-tion on Mazatlan. . . ." GREAT FISHING. Good

A new overnight car-passenger ferry to La Paz in Lower California is supposed to go into service next month. NO. A friend of mine just back from Tahiti says the test (on a far out island) has been put off for a couple of years. Tourist business is down and the island is not crowded. (Though there are 3,000 Foreign Legion men, they don't seem to be in Papeete town.)

Today's yachtsman seems too attracted by the adven-ture, the freedom, and the escape of life on the sea to give much thought to being afraid of it

Skipper Ken Gilman tells of a time when he was sailing a 96-footer through bad weather off the coast of Oregon.

We were fighting a 30-foot surge, and I was having plenty of problems of my own when I looked back and saw this little 24-foot sail boat going like heck through the trough of a wave right behind us.

"IT WAS JUST a man and his wife out sailing that boat for all it was worth. They were coming up as fast as that boat would carry them and when they got within shouting distance, they hol-lered for us to please slow

119 19 down so they could follow in our wake.

They were both excellent sailors, and later told me they took their boat in those waters every year at that time in about the same kind of weather."

Was there a chance those two might one day conclude that such sport was really an awful lot of work, and a bit risky, to boot, and it might be just as well if they were to pass it up for the duration? Tilman shook his head, and

flashed a knowing grin
"That's one day that will

Caricature by Bob And DOROTHY QUICK True to Her Name

NO WONDER she's so happy in her work. She's a hostess at Jones Dining Room, 120 E. 5th St., where she has the fun of meeting scores of old friends and new each day.

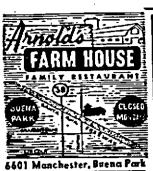

Her name is Dorothy Quick and she's as swift as her name. She's quick to smile, quick to seat people at their favorite tables and quick at remembering the names of vast numbers of patrons. Dorothy has been a Jones' employe for more than 18 years. For 14 years previously she worked for the Child's restaurant chain in New York City, Atlantic City and Miname.

Dorothy finds pleasure in her work because Jones' guests find such pleasure in the food and service there. The Dining Room and adjacent Cafeteria are two of the most skillfully run restaurants in this area. On Mother's Day, they accommodated more than 2,000 diners—all of whom received detailed, friendly service and food so delicious they praised it to the heavens.

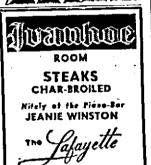

Owners Harold A. Jones and his wife Ivalou, now in their third decade in the restaurant business here, serve fabulously generous dinners. The Sunday repasts, priced from $2.30, include fresh shrimp cocktail or vegetable juice or fruit juice; chilled relishes, soup, marvelous salad, potato, vegetable, basket of fresh rolls, muffins and cheesebread; beverage, and dessert selected from a nearly endless variety. Among the entrees are roast leg of spring lamb (the restaurant's most popular item), breaded pork tenderloin, roast turkey, Virginia ham, chicken and many sea food dishes.

Generous luncheons and dinners are also featured in the Cafeteria, where the price is lower but the quality is equally high.

MILLIONS ARE BEING WASTED AND LIVES JEOPARDIZED BY SHODDY WEAPONS WORKMANSHIP. BUT SOMETHING CAN BE DONE ABOUT IT

by Jack Anderson

ore often than the authorities care to admit, a satellite has soared out of control, a missile has exploded into fiery bits of debris or the sea has gushed into a submarine, all because of a faulty fitting. Shoddy workmanship is not only costing this country millions of dollars and menacing thousands of lives, but may, unless checked, cost the U.S. its glittering crown as the greatest technical nation on earth.

Sen. Barry Goldwater recently charged that U.S. intercontinental ballistic missiles are unreliable. A blistering reply came from Defense Secretary Bobert McNamara. But the truth is that nobody is more outraged than McNamara at the botches and blunders that have plagued the nation's military equipment from the Polaris below the sea to the capsule in space.

Although our scientists and engineers have performed technological miracles, when it comes time to put the prototypes into production, something all too often goes wrong. Somewhere in the mills of mass production is that guilty minority where pride in workmanship has worn thin.

It shows up in defective bolts, valves and tubes and in careless welds, wiring and eastings. McNamara recently sent inspection teams to talk to maintenance men at 32 military installations. Report: equipment satisfactory, but "significant" evidence of "poor workmanship and inadequate quality control by manufacturers."

Contractors have delivered space equipment clogged with loose washers, bolts, nuts, wire ends, solder balls and metal clippings. Motion pictures taken not long ago inside an orbiting, unmanned capsule showed such rubbish floating weightlessly around in the capsule. And in another empty capsule, trash thoked the air circulating fan. An astronaut might have suffocated.

There have been an average of 10 malfunctions on each U.S. manned space flight. Many gave the astronauts anxious moments. The back-up capsule for Astronaut Gordon Cooper's 22-orbit flight had 720 "system or component discrepancies." Of these, 526 were traced directly to flaws in the manufacture.

Investigators found design flaws and sloppy fabrication at the root of failures of the Ranger shoot themoon program. 'As the latest Ranger rocket hunded toward the moon, for instance, technicians tried in vain to trigger the six TV cameras on board. All they could pick up was the rocket's weird wail, which stopped as it smashed into the moon. Then, unaccountably, the sweet voice of a saleslady: "Spray on Avon mologue mist."

It's no secret that 3 out of 10 of our great ICBMs

have failed to perform as expected. Why? The Air Force says 90 per cent of the failures have been caused by faulty parts. One Minuteman missile exploded in a searing, blinding flash on its launch pad at Cape Kennedy. Cost to the taxpayer: $22 million. Reason: failure of a $25 part.

Some Navy experts are convinced that the loss of the atomic submarine Thresher was due to a defective fitting that collapsed under pressure and allowed the sea to pour in.

Thresher disaster, in which 130 men died, may have been result of faulty workmanship. Some Navy experts now be-

Even Adm. Hyman Rickover, father of the atomic sub, has come perilously close to going down permanently in one of his own inventions because of minor malfunctions. "On more than one occasion," he says, "I have been in a deeply submerged submarine when a failure has occurred in a sea water system because a fitting was of the wrong material. But for the prompt action of the crew, I might not be here."

Statistically, the number of shortcomings may seem insignificant when measured against the 30,000 parts in a Mercury capsule, the millions of parts in an atomic sub or the billions of units that make up all of our military and space hardware. But statistics are cold comfort to the man doomed to death under the ocean or in the key infinity of space, because a tiny part went wrong.

Perhaps perfection is impossible. Our machinery is growing ever more intricate and complex. The Defense Department alone stocks more than 4 million items supplied by 25,000 manufacturers; and it adds new parts at the rate of 41,000 monthly. It may seem hardly surprising that some are defective.

Yet most of the botch-ups don't take place in the new fields, but in the old, established industrial processes. The shocking fact is that more than 50 per cent of the parts, all quite conventional, for the Navy's nuclear propulsion plants had to be reworked to meet specifications. To get simple castings, the Navy had to order more than twice the number it needed—and those finally selected had to have 200 to 300 welding repairs before they were safe enough to use.

READING DIFFICULTIES

In another situation, Adm. Rickover found repeated examples of poor workmanship on atomic subs. Radiography had long been used to check welding and castings. The Admiral sent out Navy experts to check on the contractors. "We found," he says, "that inspectors were often quite untrained. In fact, they were at times no better qualified to read radiographs than a layman is to interpret his own X rays."

Rear Adm. W. A. Brockett of the Bureau of Ships gave PARADE a depressing report on materials supplied for Polaris subs. A staggering 48.4 per cent of the fittings did not fit. The thousands of defects the Navy has uncovered, Admiral Brockett says, "are a cause for concern."

Where does the fault lie?

Manufacturers complain that many designs they get from the Pentagon are bad. On the other hand, admirals and generals complain about careless crafts-manship. Adm. Rickover, always outspoken, points an accusing finger at the American executive who has retreated into his air-conditioned, plush office and doesn't always know what's happening in his plant.

A major part of the problem, procurement experts contend, is quality control. It is simply that too much

shoddy work is leaving the factories and plants and being shipped out to the government.

On the other hand, some contracts have been influenced more by politics than performance. They have been awarded because of an odorous brew of cocktail parties, old-buddyship, political pressure and geographical considerations.

One Air Force general named to PARADE two leading corporations that, he claims, produce inferior equipment but continue to rank high on the annual list of 100 top defense contractors because they give the best parties in the industry.

ATTEMPTS AT REFORM

Adm. Brockett told PARADE that it took him a whole year to get one influential company knocked off the bidders' roster after it had repeatedly supplied shoddy equipment to the Bureau of Ships. Within a few weeks, congressmen brought enough pressure on the Navy to have the firm reinstated.

Brockett has issued strict orders to his officers not to accept free meals, drinks or gifts from contractors. Evening entertainment at night clubs is to be avoided like the plague," he directed. And Secretary McNamara has made it mandatory that the Defense Department take a company's past performance into consideration when negotiating new contracts. Yet the fact remains that politics and government are as hard to separate as salt from sea water.

In addition, it is known that some firms—definitely in the minority—have deliberately encouraged and allowed shoddy work to be delivered to the government because it is cheaper. One firm now under investigation, a repair organization that contracts from the government, had been telling some of its employees to scar up and damage the repaired item so that it would be returned for further repairs even sooner.

Yet there is evidence that the situation need not be this way. Both government and industry are striving to put a halt to these practices and to promote pride on the production line and in the inspectors as well, so that fewer shoddy pieces are delivered.

In Lynn, Mass., General Electric's Hight Propulsion Division formed its plants into a community called Turbotown, drew up a Declaration of Independence from Error and offered critizenship to workers who pledged to eliminate defects from their work.

BARBERSHOP FOLLOWS THE TREND

The idea caught on. More than 97 per cent of the employees signed up for "citizenship." Across the street from one plant, Spiro the Barber renamed his shop "Turbotown Barbershop" and offered "Quality Haircuts" and "Zero Defects." Within a few months employees had called attention to 2,600 potential causes of error; defects in the Turbotown-produced T58 engine dropped a dramatic 75 per cent; Air Force generals classed a J85 gear box from Turbotown as the best gear operation they had ever seen.

The story has been repeated elsewhere. In Anaheim, Calif., North American Aviation's Autonetics Division adopted a PRIDE program to encourage individual initiative among its workers. PRIDE badges, stickers and brochures blossomed by the thousands throughout the plant. More than 1,000 banners were unfurled over the exit gates asking workers: "Can you take pride in what you did today?"

Plaques were awarded to outstanding workers each month; and some employees even began marking their work with a personal stamp they had designed. "It's their way of saying they are proud of what they have built," explained supervisor Glenn Claypoole.

Again, results were spectacular. Suggestion boxes overflowed with proposals for improving quality. Defects in the intricate guidance system for the Minute-

Workmanship makes comeback: Exemplifying Western Electric's drive for perfection in its Burlington, N.C., shops, wirewoman Mabel Sumner (above) has made no faulty connections for past 4 years. man missile dropped 84 per cent; defects in other, less vital, gear dropped 90 and 74 per cent, respectively. At press time, 40 consecutive Minutemen had been fired without a single failure of an Autonetics part.

Western Electric's North Carolina plant has developed pride in work by girls who do soldering jobs. Those who can complete 100,000 perfect soldering connections are eligible to join the Perfect-Soldered-Connection Club. Says S. C. Donnelly, assistant works manager: "In commercial wiring, no more than I poor solder connection in 10,000 can be tolerated, in military work, no more than I per 20,000. And we keep upgrading these standards until fantastic ratios are achieved. As a result, we have workers who compile records of millions of consecutive connections without a single failure."

In their scramble for the defense dollar, executives need to put good products ahead of high profits. They must encourage pride in craftsmanship, and they must institute rigorous quality control inspection. Workers must remember that faulty insulation in a small wire is enough to destroy months of work and send millions of dollars blasting sky-high.

There will always be human errors in any human endeavor. But if America is going to retain its prestige as the world's greatest workshop, then the pride in a job well done must be maintained or, when it has grown thin, restored.

Which dogs do you think are the most wanted in the nation?

The answer, which may surprise you, is the "failures." Ever bear of that breed? The failures in fact consist of many breeds, mostly German shepherds, Labrador retrievers, golden retrievers and mixtures of retriever and shepherd.

These failures are dogs who have failed to pass the exceedingly tough exams given by three of the major organizations in this country which train dog guides for the blind. They are Seeing Eyê, Inc., Leader Dogs for the Blind and Guide Dogs for the Blind.

Each of these outfits has been swamped by hundreds of requests for the dog rejects and wants no more.

"We have a mile-long waiting list," explains William F. Johns, executive director of Guide Dogs for the Blind, "and we don't want it to grow any longer. Enough is enough."

"Whatever you do," one Sering Eye official declares, "don't mention anything about our dogs who fail to make the grade. Over the years the demand for these has exceeded the supply by a tremendous margin."

"You won't believe it," declares Harold Pocklington, director of Leader Dogs for the Blind, "but we've got people who are willing to wait years for a reject dog and will go to any pains to get one."

The basic reason these canines are in such strong and wide demand is that they are well-bred, intelligent and well-trained—certainly more so than the average dog available from the local pound or even a kennel. More important, too, no charge is made for a reject even though it costs anywhere from $1,000 to $1,500 to train one.

MATTER OF TEMPERAMENT

In many cases the dogs who are finally rejected are disqualified by one small defect, generally in temperament.

Erich Renner, head dog-trainer for International Guiding Eyes and an ace California breeder of German shepherds, points out: 'Each dog, like each human being, has an individual temperament. Sometimes well get a dog who's just too playful. Such a dog will make a marvelous pet and friend, but as a guide dog she won't stick to business. So we fail her.

"Other organizations for the blind train both male and female dogs. But we take only females for guide training. I believe them to be more gentle and easier to handle. But here again we get our failures. One dog will be traffic-shy. Another will insist upon chasing birds. A third will balk at the special harness she has to wear. These are very minor faults ordinarily, but when the dog-owner is blind, they become major ones. Each time a guide dog leads her blind master, she has his life in her paws. That's why our standards are so high."

Since 1942 Guide Dogs for the Blind has trained some 1,500 dogs—it is the only organization for the blind which insists upon breeding all its guide dogs

AMERICA'S MOST WANTED DOGS

by LLOYD SHEARER

Blind planist George Shearing fondles Lee. Reject guide dogs are in great demand.

Dog leads blind owner past obstacle, must have strong sense of clearance, distance.

—and according to director Bill Johns, "When we reject a dog after some training, it's usually because the dog has not developed a good enough sense of responsibility."

"We use German shepherds and retrievers," Johns explains, "and occasionally we get training failures. We reject a dog permanently when we're convinced it lacks a sense of high responsibility. It comes down to basic obedience. Some dogs don't give a darn whether they run their masters into a telegraph pole or into the street. Some can't perceive clearances too well. These are the dogs we reject. They're all high-grade physically and mentally, or we wouldn't have taken them to begin with.

"It's a lot like college entrance nowadays. Only the best get in, only the very best survive, and even those who fail are of vastly superior intelligence."

RAISED BY 4H MEMBERS

Most dog-trainces are 1-year-old German shepherd or Labrador bitches who have been given as puppies to members of the 4-H clubs. These 4-H boys and girls raise the puppies in their homes. The organizations which farm out the dogs pay for food and medical care.

By the time the potential dog guide is 12 months old, she's had a background of love, care and a wide experience of home life. She is then turned over to the association for the blind.

Before her intensive 4-month training period begins, she is X-rayed and tested. If she's too large, too small, physically or mentally not up to par, she's rejected out of band. At least 50 per cent of the candidates are turned down. These rejects are first offered to the youngsters who raised them, then to the some other eager family on the waiting list.

Those dogs accepted for training undergo an education which is divided into 4 phases: obedience exercises, guide work, educated disobedience and one month with their blind masters-to-be.

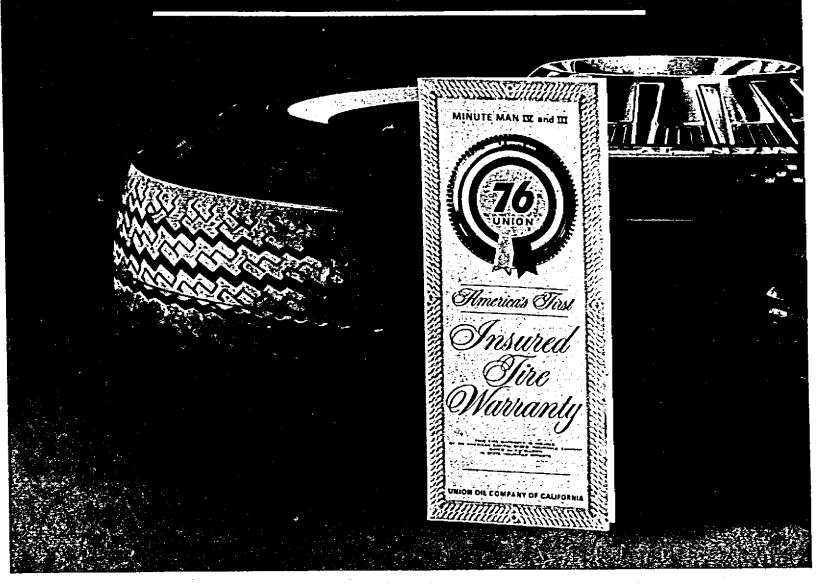

FLUNK-OUT STAGE

Most of the candidates get through the first training phase easily. The second period, in which the dog wears a guiding harness on its body, is more difficult. Many dogs find it difficult to stop at street curbs, because for them it's a completely unnatural stop. Several dogs "bust out" in this second phase of their training, and it is these dogs which are most wanted by the knowledgeable perloving segment of the public.

When such a dog is given away, the association emphasizes the fact that the dog has failed as a guide dog and must under no circumstances be used to guide a blind person. Many years ago a rejected dog was foolishly lent to guide a blind salesman and led him into a trafficteeming street where he was killed.

Dog rejects are only for the seeing. And for the seeing, as dogs go, there are none better. Unfortunately, there aren't enough "failures" to go around.

BASEBALL'S LOVABLE STUMBLEBUMS

m the 1923 World Series Casey Stengel hit two home runs, each giving the New York Giants a victory over the Yankees. As he rounded third on the second blast, Casey, then 34, thumbed his nose at customers in brand-new Yankee Stadium.

The late Jake Ruppert, Yankee owner, was outraced. He demanded that Commissioner Landis fine Stengel. "He has insulted our fans," stormed Ruppert.

Now, 41 years later, Stengel is tormenting the Yankees again. At 75, old Casey is luring baseball customers out of Yankee Stadium to Shea Stadium, the new home of the Mets, where the fairs are certain to see the worst ballplayers ever.

Furthermore, the Mets' fans are proud of it. The Mets won their fans the hard way-losing 120 games in a single season and being shut out 30 times.

After watching four runners thrown out at home plate and four easy doubleplay balls muffed, Frank Frisch, one of baseball's vall-time stars, was aghast. "I don't have to go out of my house again as long as I live-I've seen everything," he groaned.

Bill Veeck, who care owned the St. Louis Browns, conceded: "The Mets deserve their title. They won it fair and square. They achieved total incompetence in a single year."

A DAY TO REMEMBER

There was the day one infielder broke for short centerfield to take a pop fly, which was caught by another infielder near the pitcher's mound. And the day pitcher Roger Craig had Orlando Cepeda trapped off first twice. Ed Bouchee dropped the ball both times.

Not long 2go, one suburbanite happily revealed he had been elected president of the community's Mets' Fan Club. A business associate dryly observed: *Isn't that about like being elected captain of the Titanic?"

Last summer the Mets promoted a Banners Day. It was such a huge success that Macy's department store asked to sponsor the 1964 event, a trip to Spain to be the first prize. As we go to press, the Mets are playing hard to get.

One fellow carried a banner proclaiming his devotion to Mary Throneberry, an ex-Yankee, who once was one of the Met mishts. "We Love Mary," it said. The fan climbed on top of the dugout, and the police promptly tossed him out. Minutes later he was in the bleachers waving his bunner. Throne-

Which recalls the day the Mets threw a birthday party for Casey, whose natal day is the same as Mary's.

'How come I didn't get a cake?" pouted Marv.

"They's afraid you'd drop it," squelched Stengel.

One fan says, "If you can't love the Mets you can't love anyone." A New York writer compared the fans' devotion to the love of a mother for an errant child. The New York Times, in an editorial a few weeks ago, said: "We confidently predict a third year of glorious unsuccess for the Mets."

Actually, baseball veterans are amazed. They don't know what to make of it. The Mets drew 922,530 in 1962. Last season attendance moved up to I,-080,108-just 228,812 behind the pennant-winning Yankees, whose own attendance fell 184,654 below the 1962 figure.

Conservatives estimate the Metsstill probably doomed to last place-will this year draw 1,500,000; others say 2,000,000. In their first game this season they proudly lost to the Pittsburgh Pirates before 50,312 paying customers. The Yankees, the day before, could only muster 12,709 for Yogi Berra's losing debut with the Boston Red Sox.

The big bonus, of course, is the new stadium itself and the adjacent World's Fair. Fair visitors may visit exhibits in the morning, rest and see the Mets in the afternoon, then return to the Fair.

Yet no one seems to know precisely why the bumbling Mets captured the big city. Many New Yorkers quit going to baseball games when the Giants and Dodgers went to California late in 1957. Others became sated with Yankee success. Some crossed off the Yankees when they fired manager Stengel, who had won 10 pennants in 12 years, 1949-60. Many apparently were ready for a new team, a return of the National League. That the Mets were almost devoid of talent seemed to help.

FORMULA FOR FAME

The Mets play the sort of baseball that invites bankruptcy and cruel jibes. Remember the Phillies? They finished last 21 times, but they did it in merciful privacy. St. Louis quit entirely on the Browns, and the club wound up in Baltimore. More recently, Milwaukee's Braves slumped from first to sixth; attendance went from 2,400,000 to 750,-000. But, strangely, a Met who drops a simple pop fly is a hero. If he whiffs with the bases loaded his fame is secure.

This must come as a shock to those who grew up on the law of the sports jungle-win or get out. Stengel himself got fired as a nonwinning manager at Boston and Brooklyn. Football coaches lose jobs for the same reason. But it isn't that way with the Mcts.

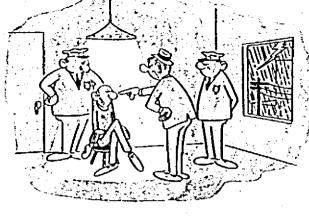

Sometime, somehow, last season the Mets won three in a row. Lindsey Nelson, the TV voice, said to James K. Thomson, the business manager: "That's great. If we win today we could have a great advance sale for the weekend."

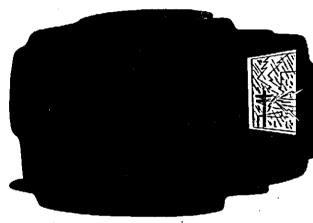

Thomson said, "No, Lindsey, it doesn't work like that. When we play two or three good games, the advance sale drops off. It booms when we lose!"

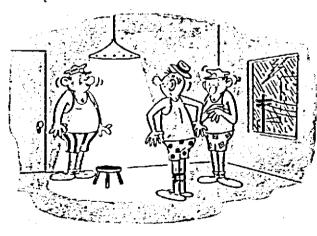

What will happen when and if the Mets begin to look like a baseball team?

The Mets' current motto is: "We'll win more in '64." One club official says: "We've been selling the sizzle for three years; sooner or later, we've got to start selling the steak." Mets' fans take a different view: One, writing for tickets, included a note: "I just hope WE don't ever achieve mediocrity."

Before the days of the automobile, Collins' Livery Stable in Syracuse, N.Y., catered to the carriage trade. While the ladies and gentlemen waited for their carriages to be brought around, Mrs. Collins served them her famous cake. The stable is long since gone, but the cake continues its popularity. One lady who makes it today says, "Sometimes, I don't have time to finish the chocolate topping, the cake disappears so fast."

Collins' Cake

cinnamon and salt. Add alternately with buttermilk to chocolate mixture. Bake in wellgreased and floured cake pan, 9x9x2 inches, at 350° for about 50 minutes or until cake tests done. Cool 10 minutes in pan. Remove carefully to cake rack. Combine milk and remaining 2 cups sugar in deep saucepan. Stir over low heat until sugar dissolves. Cook without stirring to 234°, or softball stage. Add vanilla. Beat just until spreadable; spread over surface of cake. Melt remaining chocolate: spread over icing.

PARADES SPECIAL INTELLIGENCE REPORT

HUSBAND-HUNTERS. The market for U.S. husbands is getting smaller. In 1930 this country boasted 102.5 males for every 100 females. By 1950 the proportion had dropped to 98.6 men for every 100 women. Today it's 96.2 males per 100 women.

PEYTON PLACE, TV stations and networks throughout the world borrow ideas and procedures from each other regularly. In Great Britain one of the most successful programs has long been Coronation Street, which is aired twice a week. Next season ABC-TV plans to schedule a scap opera, Peyton Place, two nights per week, on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 9:30 to 10 P.M. The program, produced by 20th Century-Fox, stars Maureen O'Sullivan's daughter, Mia Farrow, Dorothy Malone and several unknowns.

DEATH IN JAPAN. Leading cause of death in the 15-29 age group in Japan is suicide. Highest rate is among men under 25. Drug poisoning is the favored suicide method. Wost suicide attempts are made in the summer. Wost frequent causes: failure in love, business or school work.

EASY DIVORCE. East Germany under the Communists has become one of the easiest countries in which to obtain a divorce. All a man who wants to get rid of his wife, and vice versa, need do is to testify at the divorce hearing: "She hinders my social development." Result: the divorce rate in the Soviet zone of Germany is 50% higher than in West Germany; young marriages in the Communist sector are breaking up at an alarming rate.

QUIZ FOR OVER 35s. Do you worry about growing older? Are you easily upset over trifles? Do you nurse grievances? Do you feel your talents are not recognized, blame your troubles on bad luck? Do you become easily depressed or disappointed? Have you postponed making a will? Do you invent flattering stories about yourself? Do you secretly enjoy hearing of other people's wisfortunes? Would you find it hard to live in a totally new environment? Do you resent the fact that your wife or husband is growing older? Do you often find marriage monotonous and wish for your freedom? If your answer is 'yes' to seven of these questions, chances are you're an immature. escapist and frequently unhappy middle-ager. So at least claims British marital expert. Dr. Eustace Chesser, in his latest work, Challenge of the Middle Years, soon to be published in this country.

BOLD EXPERIMENT, Juvenile delinquency, on the increase pretty nearly everywhere in America, is declining in Montana. Why? Montana scrapped its juvenile courts two years ago, insisted upon dealing with all offenders, regardless of age, in open court. Their names, addresses, crimes. parents are all completely reported in the newspapers. The publicity has proven a genuine deterrent to crime. Juvenile felony cases in Montana are down 49%, traffic cases 75%. Judge Lester Loble, who introduced the "treatment like adults practice, says: *The system is effective because we lecture offenders and their parents in open court so that their cases can be fully reported. It passes responsibility on to the parents. They can no longer hide behind the anonymous charges which used to go on the record in the juvenile court.

SITUATIONS VACANT. In booming West Germany desperate employers announce 632,000 job vacancies, are recruiting labor from all over Europe, are disturbed that pools of relatively cheap labor in Italy, Turkey, Greece and Spain are finally drying up.

Mrs. John F. Kennedy

MAS. JOHN F. KENNEDY

I saw your wonderful letter in last week's magazine and I want to tell you how touched I am by PARADE's idea to have the boys and girls of America each give a day to raise money for the John F. Kennedy Library.

The President had such faith in our young people, and I can think of no birthday present which would have pleased him more.

Sincerely.

WORK A DAY FOR JFK

The initial response to PARADE's open letter to the nation's youth (May 17) suggesting a fitting remembrance of John F. Kennedy's May 29 birthday has been tremendous.

The letter suggested that America's young people give up one day of leisure, devote it to work and offer the earnings as a birthday present to help build the John F. Kennedy Library in Cambridge, Mass. The gift would be even more appreciated if you included a note explaining how the money was earned. Some of these letters will be published in PARADE.

No matter how small your gift, your name will be printed in the book of donors, which will be kept in a place of honor at the Kennedy Library.

Mrs. John F. Kennedy is among those who have endorsed PARADE's proposal. She writes: "The President had such faith in our young people, and I can think of no birthday present which would have pleased him more."

So, if you haven't sent in your contribution, please join the thousands of other youngsters who have already participated. Send the proceeds of a day's work for JFK to Kennedy Library Fund, Parade, Box 1640, Grand Central Station, N. Y. 10017:

My Favorite Jokes

by Jack E. Leonard

EDITOR'S NOTE: Jack E. Leonard (né Jack Lubitsky) was born in Chicago in 1911, the son of a tailor. Although Leonard weight close to 300 pounds today, he started out in show business as a thin, lithe Charleston dancer. He won several contests around Chicago in the early 1930s and was spotted by comedian Billy House, who put him in a raudeville sketch. Leonard has worked steadily ever since. He added the "E" to his name many years ago when he returned from England to find a crooner named Jack Leonard working with the Tommy Dorsey band. The "E," he claims, stands for "Fdorable." Leonard was the first of the so-called "insult" comedians in this country, and his style has been copied by many. Jack has a new album out called How to lose Weight, which was inspired by his wife, the former Kay Dillon, whom he met while they were both working for the U.S.O. Jack, with wife and assorted poodles, is based in New York, Herewith some of his favorite jokes:

I love California. I think it's one of the finest suburbs Japan ever had.

Frank Sinatra once asked me how much weight I had lost. "Frank," I said, "I've lost more than you ARE." Frank Sinatra, incidentally, is the only singer I know who can walk through a harp.

I'd fike to tell you about a fellow comedian— Jack Carter. He's got a great comedy style mine! I love Texans because they're all very religious people. They worship each other.

My wife is a very lovely tady but also a very fussy housekeeper. She keeps putting newspapers under the cuckoo clock.

A teenager putted up to a filling station in Hartford, Conn., and said to the attendant: "Give me a dollar's worth of gas. I want to go to California."

The attendant said: "What are you, nuts? You can't go to California on a dollar's worth of gas!"

"I know that," answered the teenager. "This is a stick-up."

A beautiful redhead strolled into a dress shop on Michigan Avenue in Chicago. "I wonder," she said to the manager, "if I might try on that red suit in the window."

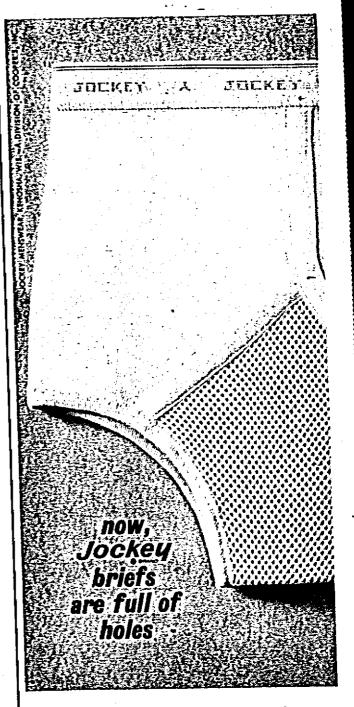

"You bet," he said. "It might help business."

Two weeks ago my wife and I went to a dentist. "I want a tooth pulled," my wife told the dentist, "and I don't want any anesthetic because I'm in a hurry."

"That's very brave of you," the dentist said. "Which tooth is it?"

"Jack," my wife said, "show him your tooth."

I'm getting old. Know how I can tell? Nowadays when I sit down in a restaurant I inspect the menu before I inspect the waitresses.

And up front there's famous Jockey no-gap security. New Jockey Super briefs give you so much more in support, comfort and wear, it's surprising they're only $1.50.
